BRITAIN, FRANCE SEEK RUSSIAN AID TO HALT HITLER

U. S. PUTS PLANE BUILDING NEAR WAR-TIME SPEED

Intensive Nation-Wide Campaign To Recruit Pilots Also Begun

MASS PRODUCTION OF BIG BOMBERS TO START SOON

$112,000,000 In Relief Roll Wages Expended On Aviation Facilities

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The government disclosed today it was stepping up to almost war-time speed its production of planes and training of pilots.

The air corps announced it was beginning an intensive nation-wide recruiting campaign intended to double the army's output of military pilots without waiting for the start of another program in September to give primary training to 20,000 college students annually.

The war department announced simultaneously that tests would be speeded to permit a quick start on mass porduction of attack bombers. The $552,000,000 arms program already approved by senate and house includes funds to build the planes—reputed to have speeds at least approaching six miles a minute.

Meantime, the Works Progress administration reported it had expended more than $112,000,000 in relief roll wages for construction of aviation facilities useable in event of war.

Colonel F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, said that during the last three and one-half years 154 new airports had been constructed, extensions or improvements made to 494 others and hundreds of air navigation aides placed throughout the country.

While these facilities are mainly for civilian use, Harrington pointed out they also were important to the national defense.

In announcing the pilot recruiting campaign, officials estimated about 4,000 flying cadets would be put through intensified training in the next two years.

Five groups of officers were designated to visit universities and colleges in almost all states to recruit prospective June graduates. Other youths will be enrolled in the meantime if

C. OF C. SEEKS TAX RATE SLASH

Expresses Opinion Lower Basis Would Bring In More Revenue

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States predicted today that the federal government would take in more revenue if it lowered its income tax rate.

Such a lowering of rates, the chamber said in its periodical review of business, should be "combined with proper methods of applying them to reach real income."

Taking cognizance of discussions in congressional and administration quarters concerning removal of tax deterrents to business expansion, the chamber said:

"Business will heartily support a realistic program of tax revision that is developed with first attention to recovery. Increase, not decrease, of revenue should flow from adoption of such a program."

Meanwhile, efforts to energize business gained momentum at the capitol. A group of congress members who had introduced separate bills directed at liberalizing credit for small and new business were reported to have agreed on consolidation of their proposals.

Chairman William O. Douglas of the securities commission, a member of the monopoly investigating committee, recently told the congress members that if they would unify

M'GRAW WILL FACE MURDER CHARGES

MILTON, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—A coroner's jury recommended today that Harvey McGraw be held for first degree murder for the deaths of two Montgomery, Ala., men abducted at a Georgiana, Ala., filling station.

Clifford T. Mann, 28, and Charles Wilkinson, 23, came to their deaths at McGraw's hands, the jury held.

Their bodies were found, bound together back to back, near here yesterday morning. Several hours later McGraw, 20, was arrested on an eastbound train.

Sheriff J. T. Allen said McGraw signed a statement admitting he shot the men and robbed them.

NAZI PRESSURE ON RUMANIA SEVERE

Ultimatum For 'Protection' From Hitler Reported Received And Rejected

BUCHAREST, March 18.—(AP)—Trade negotiations, given sharp significance by Nazi erasure of Czecho-Slovakia during the week, proceeded intensively today between nervous Rumania and expanding Germany.

King Carol, considering Germany's new position from the military as well as the economic standpoint, called in high army officials to advise the crown council on Rumania's future course.

The trade negotiations, which diplomatic circles in London and Paris viewed as holding important, even alarming political significance, were being conducted with Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat representing Germany.

A general nervousness indicated all was not going well with the trade discussions and that there were many points of difference.

Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu insisted, however, that Germany had presented nothing amounting to an ultimatum.

He pointed out also that German official sources had denied any extraordinary pressure was being brought on this Balkan kingdom of rich economic resources.

The impression prevailed that Germany had made certain proposals regarding German-Rumanian trade, including plans for disposition of Ru-

GERMAN MASTERS TO QUIZ 10,000 CZECHS

PRAGUE, March 18.—(AP)—At least 10,000 residents of Bohemia and Moravia were known tonight to have been ordered to report for questioning by the new German masters of broken Czecho-Slovakia.

The orders did not mean, however, that they would all be detained, but numerous arrests are known to have been made.

All day Prague residents continued their silent demonstrations before the Rathaus war memorial honoring patriots who were killed in 1620, when Czechs once before lost their independence.

Men, women and children—few without tears—stood with bared heads before the memorial flanked by two eternal flames.

Reports from Prague suburbs said at least 200 women and children had spent last night hiding in the woods.

The Nazi campaign against Jews continued. A Jewish synagogue in Bruenn was destroyed today by fire of unknown origin.

"No Jews wanted" signs appeared in coffee houses of Maehrisch-Ostrau (Moravska-Ostrava). Other signs appeared in stores designating the owners as German, Czech or Jewish.

HIGHWAY MASS MEET PLANNED

Louisiana And Arkansas Citizens To Meet In Monticello To Talk Road Plans

Construction of a through Arkansas-Louisiana north and south hardsurfaced highway will be urged at a mass meeting to be attended by citizens of the two states interested in the project, which will be held in Monticello, Ark., within the next 10 days. Announcement of tentative plans was made by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe Saturday.

In the opinion of local chamber officials, one of the most urgent transportation needs in two states comprises the hardsurfacing of routes through Arkansas and Louisiana, so that it will be possible to drive from Little Rock to Monroe and on to New Orleans on concrete paving all the way.

Federal highway No. 165 between Columbia and Alexandria needs some hardsurfacing in places but this will all be completed before the end of the year and only the Arkansas stretch now requires attention.

It is stated that the highway department of Louisiana is ready to meet the highway department of Arkansas with a paved road at the Arkansas-Louisiana state line if the Arkansas group will pave through that state.

The cities of Bastrop, Crossett, Hamburg, Monticello and Star City are said to desire this construction completed, replacing the gravel on highway No. 13 that now extends through long stretches north and south of Monticello, despite the fact that

Two Officials Of Dutch Airlines Are Among Death Victims

ALDER, Wash., March 18.—(AP)—At least ten persons were killed, including two officials of Dutch Airlines, when a four-motored, 33-passenger airplane, designed to operate through the sub-stratosphere, plunged to earth near here today during a test flight.

Among the victims were the assistant general manager of the Royal Dutch airlines and a half dozen leading American aviation experts.

The huge Boeing airliner broke into three parts and crashed with the pilot still fighting his controls and passengers in flight position. All aboard were killed instantly.

The dead:

Peter Giulonard, assistant general manager of Royal Dutch airlines and leader of an air mission to the United States.

A. C. von Baumhauer, engineer for the Netherlands state airworthiness board, and second member of the mission.

Julius Barr, Boeing test pilot and former personal pilot for Madame Chiang Kai-Shek.

Ralph A. Cram, Boeing aerodynamics expert.

John Kylstra, Boeing chief engineer.

William Doyle, Boeing test pilot.

Harry C. West, Jr., Boeing foreman.

Harlan Hull, chief test pilot for Transcontinental and Western Air.

Ben Pearson, Boeing sales representative.

Presence of the Dutch mission aboard the plane was not explained by Boeing officials, although reports said the men were considering purchase of the "Stratoliner" or a sister ship.

The $500,000 liner was the first of a contemplated fleet of four such planes under construction by the Boeing company in Seattle. It had been un-

PLEA FOR PEACE MADE IN SPAIN

Republican Government Broadcasts To Nationalists Readiness To Negotiate

MADRID, March 18. — (AP) — The Spanish Republican government tonight broadcast to the nationalists its readiness to negotiate immediately for "an honorable peace" to end Spain's 30-month-old civil war.

Minister of Foreign Affairs Julian Besteiro, speaking from the union radio station, declared "the moment has come" to talk peace and that he was using the radio "as the fastest means of communication with the nationalists.

(At Valencia the Socialist newspaper Adelante reported General Segismundo Casado, Republican defense minister, had left Madrid for Paris apparently on a peace mission.

("We do not think a fight to the end will be necessary," the newspaper said. "The fascists (nationalists) well know the seriousness and technical capacity of Casado.")

FRENCH GOOD WILL SHIPS IN ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—Four French vessels with nearly 1,000 officers and men arrived here today on a one-week good will visit.

Heading the visiting fleet was the training cruiser Jeanne D'Arc, bearing a complement of 700, including 27 officers and 124 junior ensigns recently graduated from the Ecole Navale, France's Annapolis. The ship, on a nine-month cruise, came here from Panama.

The other vessels were the colonial gunboat D'Entrecasteaux and the submarines Agosta and Ouessant, all from West Indian ports.

A round of entertainments was planned for officers and men.

UNITED STATES BOOSTS TARIFF ON NAZI GOODS

Treasury Orders 25 Per Cent Increase On Many German Products

ECONOMIC BLOW BELIEVED INTENDED AS RETALIATION

Czech Minister Will Have Backing In Fight To Retain Legation

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—On the heels of the state department's strongly-worded denunciation of Germany's absorption of Czecho-Slovakia, the treasury ordered an extra 25 per cent tariff today on many products that the reich sends to this country.

A treasury spokesman who announced the action said it was taken with the state department's knowledge, but refused comment when asked if it was related to Germany's seizure of the Czech republic.

"The action," he said, "speaks for itself."

There seemed little doubt, however, that this economic blow to Germany could be not interpreted in any other light than as a forceful expression of this country's extreme displeasure at what Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, called yesterday the "wanton lawlessness" of the occupation of Czecho-Slovakia.

It recalled, too, that President Roosevelt said in his message to congress last January that there were means "short of war," but stronger

LOCAL 'DRESS-UP' CONTEST STARTS

Unidentified Judges Will Begin Task Of Picking 20 Best-Dressed Citizens

The contest is on!

All Monroe and West Monroe will start today to don their finest and smartest in spring apparel in order to be counted in on the contest of the 10 best-dressed men and 10 best-dressed women in the Twin Cities. From today until Wednesday, April 5, a secret body of judges will be scrutinizing every man and woman with a view of determining as to their sartorial fitness to be classed in the "upper ten."

Many have been of the opinion that Sunday apparel from now to Easter will be taken as basis for the decision, but this is in error. One's apparel each day from now to April 5 will tell the story. On Easter Sunday the names and pictures of winners will appear in the World, and it is expected that there will be keen rivalry in this contest, sponsored by the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

One of the mysteries will be the identity of the judges, whose names will not be made known either before or after the contest ends. Nor will any judge know of the identity of any other judge, absolute secrecy prevailing.

The purpose of the contest is to make the people of the Twin Cities "spring apparel conscious" and to create an atmosphere which will radiate good taste expressed in the latest modes of 1939.

The advertising columns of the Morning World today show many new styles which will be suited to a wide range of clientele, and the buying public, merchants assert, need not spend such extravagant sums to become contest winners. Often a more

BIG SHREVEPORT BUILDING PLANNED

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP)—Construction will start here within 90 days on a 13-story downtown Shreveport office building which will house on its main floor the Commercial National bank, it was announced late today by bank officials.

The building will cost "not less than $1,000,000" and will be completely air-conditioned throughout, the announcement said.

A 60-foot front site on Texas street, main downtown thoroughfare, is now being cleared for the building. The site formerly was occupied by three two-story buildings.

A local building company is being formed to finance the building with the bank participating to the extent of its occupation of the building, the announcement said.

PITTMAN WANTS CASH FOR ARMS

Announces He Will Offer Resolution Calling For New Neutrality Measure

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, proposed today revision of the neutrality legislation so as to prevent the sale of any American products to warring nations except on a "cash and carry" basis.

He announced he would submit a resolution Monday to repeal existing neutrality legislation and substitute the new program.

Pittman, who often speaks for the administration on foreign policy matters, said he had not discussed his resolution with President Roosevelt or the state department, but that he thought it would be more acceptable to the president than other neutrality proposals which have been advanced.

In response to a question as to whether the legislation would strengthen Great Britain's position in event of a European war Pittman replied:

"Any nation that controls the sea would have the advantage under this resolution. Of course, we cannot be sure who will control the sea in war time."

Pittman said he had been working on the legislation for some time, and that it was not an outgrowth of Germany's recent seizure of Czechoslovak provinces or part of any "stop Hitler" program.

Pittman's announcement, coupled with President Roosevelt's statement yesterday that the neutrality law should be revised, raised the prospect that what attitude this country should take toward wars overseas would occupy congress' attention increasingly in the weeks to come.

Spurred by American reaction to Chancellor Hitler's march into Czechoslovakia, supporters of a war referendum amendment decided to seek

SHREVEPORT POLICE PROBE IS ORDERED

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP)—J. H. "Jimmie" Davis, commissioner of public safety here, in a signed statement to the Shreveport Times late today, declared that a "thorough investigation of the entire personnel of the police department is being made" in an effort to learn if members of the department have promised "racket" protection.

Davis' action followed arrest of 18 persons here by Sheriff Tom Hughes in a roundup of an alleged "numbers racket" ring here. Charges of operating a lottery have been filed against W. E. Bond, 45, a white man, and 17 negroes have been arrested for investigation in connection with sales of the lottery tickets.

Davis said: "With reference to the serious insinuations of police protection for such illegal rackets I desire to advise the public a thorough investigation of the entire personnel of the police department is being made, and if I find where any members of my department have tried to assist in giving protection to any unlawful enterprise, I will immediately discharge those involved."

Arrests of other negroes are to be made, sheriff's officers said.

PLANS READY FOR CONVENTION HERE

President Of State A. F. L. Predicts 600 Delegates Will Be Present

A tentative program for the entertainment of delegates and visitors to the 27th annual convention of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor here April 3-4-5 has been arranged by the convention committee of the Monroe Central Trades and Labor council.

An attendance of 600 delegates and several hundred visitors is expected at the three-day session, according to E. H. Williams of Shreveport, president of the federation. Although the convention proper will not get under way until the morning of April 3, several hundred delegates and visitors are expected to arrive here the two days before the opening session, he said.

The entertainment program as tentatively arranged is as follows:

Monday afternoon, after adjournment of first day's session, a barbecue supper at the Trades council hall on St. John street.

Monday night, floor show and dance on Cherokee terrace of Hotel Frances.

Tuesday afternoon, boat rides on Ouachita river and sightseeing tours of city.

Tuesday night, dance on Cherokee terrace of Hotel Frances.

A theater party and other entertainment features may be sandwiched in between the other affairs scheduled, convention committee members said.

Delegates to the convention will register in the lobby of Hotel Frances, which is headquarters for the convention. Convention sessions will be held on the Cherokee terrace of the Frances.

Educational exhibits arranged by several departments of the state government at Baton Rouge will be placed in the basement of Hotel Frances. Among these will be exhibits of the welfare and commerce and industry departments.

A number of prominent speakers have been invited to the session, among them state and local officials.

President Williams said he expected the forthcoming convention to be the largest in the history of the federation, and that much enthusiasm over the sessions was being manifested by the various labor organizations in the state affiliated with the federation. The federation has shown an amazing numerical growth in the past year, he said.

MAYORS TO MEET HERE NEXT YEAR

LAFAYETTE, La., March 18.—(AP)—The convention of the Louisiana Conference of Mayors ended today with the election of Mayor J. Maxime Roy of Lafayette as president and the selection of Monroe as the 1940 convention city.

The new president reappointed Leon Booth, secretary-treasurer, for another year.

The following vice-presidents were selected according to districts:

Mayor Robert S. Maestri, New Orleans, No. 1; Public Utilities commissioner Fred A. Earhart, New Orleans, No. 2; Edward Wright, Houma, No. 3; David W. Thomas, Minden, No. 4; H. H. Benoit, Monroe, No. 5; W. R. Gaight, Ponchatoula, No. 6; Joseph Gossen, Jr., Rayne, No. 7; and Edward McLung, Natchitoches, No. 8.

PRAGUE—10,000 reported ordered to appear for questioning by new Nazi regime.

(By Associated Press)

Britain and France turned toward Soviet Russia last night (Saturday) in a quick effort to block a reported move against Rumania by a Nazi Germany they no longer sought to appease.

High authoritative sources disclosed the attempt to form a triple front against Hitler's eastward course of empire amid these swift moving events;

The two democracies denounced Germany's seizure of Czechoslovakia in notes which Germany almost immediately rejected as lacking "every political, legal and moral basis."

Paris and London called home their Berlin ambassadors "for reports" in a double rebuff which Germany countered by summoning from London her own ambassador for the same stated purpose.

Premier Daladier won from the French chamber of deputies dictatorial powers to whip the nation's defenses into shape for any eventuality and called an emergency Sunday cabinet meeting to consider defense measures.

The United States treasury, on the heels of America's denunciation of the Czechoslovak coup, ordered an extra 25 per cent tariff on many products Germany sends to this country.

The economic blow to the Reich was regarded as forceful expression of the United States' displeasure at Germany's tactics.

Authoritative British sources said Rumania had received and then rejected a virtual German ultimatum demanding sole access to the nation's rich oil and grain resources in exchange for German "protection" of Rumanian territory.

King Carol was understood to have asked Paris and London for a reply within 48 hours on what support they could give him against the Nazi demands and Britain and France in turn

Czech Minister Will Have Backing In Fight To Retain Legation

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—On the heels of the state department's strongly-worded denunciation of Germany's absorption of Czecho-Slovakia, the treasury ordered an extra 25 per cent tariff today on many products that the reich sends to this country.

A treasury spokesman who announced the action said it was taken with the state department's knowledge, but refused comment when asked if it was related to Germany's seizure of the Czech republic.

"The action," he said, "speaks for itself."

There seemed little doubt, however, that this economic blow to Germany could be not interpreted in any other light than as a forceful expression of this country's extreme displeasure at what Sumner Welles, acting secretary of state, called yesterday the "wanton lawlessness" of the occupation of Czecho-Slovakia.

It recalled, too, that President Roosevelt said in his message to congress last January that there were means "short of war," but stronger

LOCAL 'DRESS-UP' CONTEST STARTS

Unidentified Judges Will Begin Task Of Picking 20 Best-Dressed Citizens

The contest is on!

All Monroe and West Monroe will start today to don their finest and smartest in spring apparel in order to be counted in on the contest of the 10 best-dressed men and 10 best-dressed women in the Twin Cities. From today until Wednesday, April 5, a secret body of judges will be scrutinizing every man and woman with a view of determining as to their sartorial fitness to be classed in the "upper ten."

Many have been of the opinion that Sunday apparel from now to Easter will be taken as basis for the decision, but this is in error. One's apparel each day from now to April 5 will tell the story. On Easter Sunday the names and pictures of winners will appear in the World, and it is expected that there will be keen rivalry in this contest, sponsored by the merchants' division of the Chamber of Commerce.

One of the mysteries will be the identity of the judges, whose names will not be made known either before or after the contest ends. Nor will any judge know of the identity of any other judge, absolute secrecy prevailing.

The purpose of the contest is to make the people of the Twin Cities "spring apparel conscious" and to create an atmosphere which will radiate good taste expressed in the latest modes of 1939.

The advertising columns of the Morning World today show many new styles which will be suited to a wide range of clientele, and the buying public, merchants assert, need not spend such extravagant sums to become contest winners. Often a more

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP)—Construction will start here within 90 days on a 13-story downtown Shreveport office building which will house on its main floor the Commercial National bank, it was announced late today by bank officials.

The building will cost "not less than $1,000,000" and will be completely air-conditioned throughout, the announcement said.

A 60-foot front site on Texas street, main downtown thoroughfare, is now being cleared for the building. The site formerly was occupied by three two-story buildings.

A local building company is being formed to finance the building with the bank participating to the extent of its occupation of the building, the announcement said.

PITTMAN WANTS CASH FOR ARMS

Announces He Will Offer Resolution Calling For New Neutrality Measure

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, proposed today revision of the neutrality legislation so as to prevent the sale of any American products to warring nations except on a "cash and carry" basis.

He announced he would submit a resolution Monday to repeal existing neutrality legislation and substitute the new program.

Pittman, who often speaks for the administration on foreign policy matters, said he had not discussed his resolution with President Roosevelt or the state department, but that he thought it would be more acceptable to the president than other neutrality proposals which have been advanced.

In response to a question as to whether the legislation would strengthen Great Britain's position in event of a European war Pittman replied:

"Any nation that controls the sea would have the advantage under this resolution. Of course, we cannot be sure who will control the sea in war time."

Pittman said he had been working on the legislation for some time, and that it was not an outgrowth of Germany's recent seizure of Czechoslovak provinces or part of any "stop Hitler" program.

Pittman's announcement, coupled with President Roosevelt's statement yesterday that the neutrality law should be revised, raised the prospect that what attitude this country should take toward wars overseas would occupy congress' attention increasingly in the weeks to come.

Spurred by American reaction to Chancellor Hitler's march into Czechoslovakia, supporters of a war referendum amendment decided to seek

SHREVEPORT POLICE PROBE IS ORDERED

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP)—J. H. "Jimmie" Davis, commissioner of public safety here, in a signed statement to the Shreveport Times late today, declared that a "thorough investigation of the entire personnel of the police department is being made" in an effort to learn if members of the department have promised "racket" protection.

Davis' action followed arrest of 18 persons here by Sheriff Tom Hughes in a roundup of an alleged "numbers racket" ring here. Charges of operating a lottery have been filed against W. E. Bond, 45, a white man, and 17 negroes have been arrested for investigation in connection with sales of the lottery tickets.

Davis said: "With reference to the serious insinuations of police protection for such illegal rackets I desire to advise the public a thorough investigation of the entire personnel of the police department is being made, and if I find where any members of my department have tried to assist in giving protection to any unlawful enterprise, I will immediately discharge those involved."

Arrests of other negroes are to be made, sheriff's officers said.

PLANS READY FOR CONVENTION HERE

President Of State A. F. L. Predicts 600 Delegates Will Be Present

A tentative program for the entertainment of delegates and visitors to the 27th annual convention of the Louisiana State Federation of Labor here April 3-4-5 has been arranged by the convention committee of the Monroe Central Trades and Labor council.

An attendance of 600 delegates and several hundred visitors is expected at the three-day session, according to E. H. Williams of Shreveport, president of the federation. Although the convention proper will not get under way until the morning of April 3, several hundred delegates and visitors are expected to arrive here the two days before the opening session, he said.

The entertainment program as tentatively arranged is as follows:

Monday afternoon, after adjournment of first day's session, a barbecue supper at the Trades council hall on St. John street.

Monday night, floor show and dance on Cherokee terrace of Hotel Frances.

Tuesday afternoon, boat rides on Ouachita river and sightseeing tours of city.

Tuesday night, dance on Cherokee terrace of Hotel Frances.

A theater party and other entertainment features may be sandwiched in between the other affairs scheduled, convention committee members said.

Delegates to the convention will register in the lobby of Hotel Frances, which is headquarters for the convention. Convention sessions will be held on the Cherokee terrace of the Frances.

Educational exhibits arranged by several departments of the state government at Baton Rouge will be placed in the basement of Hotel Frances. Among these will be exhibits of the welfare and commerce and industry departments.

A number of prominent speakers have been invited to the session, among them state and local officials.

President Williams said he expected the forthcoming convention to be the largest in the history of the federation, and that much enthusiasm over the sessions was being manifested by the various labor organizations in the state affiliated with the federation. The federation has shown an amazing numerical growth in the past year, he said.

BUCHAREST—Rumania in trade negotiations with Reich; Army officials confer on future course.

PRAGUE—10,000 reported ordered to appear for questioning by new Nazi regime.

(By Associated Press)

Britain and France turned toward Soviet Russia last night (Saturday) in a quick effort to block a reported move against Rumania by a Nazi Germany they no longer sought to appease.

High authoritative sources disclosed the attempt to form a triple front against Hitler's eastward course of empire amid these swift moving events:

The two democracies denounced Germany's seizure of Czechoslovakia in notes which Germany almost immediately rejected as lacking "every political, legal and moral basis."

Paris and London called home their Berlin ambassadors "for reports" in a double rebuff which Germany countered by summoning from London her own ambassador for the same stated purpose.

Premier Daladier won from the French chamber of deputies dictatorial powers to whip the nation's defenses into shape for any eventuality and called an emergency Sunday cabinet meeting to consider defense measures.

The United States treasury, on the heels of America's denunciation of the Czechoslovak coup, ordered an extra 25 per cent tariff on many products Germany sends to this country.

The economic blow to the Reich was regarded as forceful expression of the United States' displeasure at Germany's tactics.

Authoritative British sources said Rumania had received and then rejected a virtual German ultimatum demanding sole access to the nation's rich oil and grain resources in exchange for German "protection" of Rumanian territory.

King Carol was understood to have asked Paris and London for a reply within 48 hours on what support they could give him against the Nazi demands and Britain and France in turn

NAZI PRESSURE ON RUMANIA SEVERE

Ultimatum For 'Protection' From Hitler Reported Received And Rejected

BUCHAREST, March 18.—(AP)—Trade negotiations, given sharp significance by Nazi erasure of Czecho-Slovakia during the week, proceeded intensively today between nervous Rumania and expanding Germany.

King Carol, considering Germany's new position from the military as well as the economic standpoint, called in high army officials to advise the crown council on Rumania's future course.

The trade negotiations, which diplomatic circles in London and Paris viewed as holding important, even alarming political significance, were being conducted with Dr. Helmuth Wohlthat representing Germany.

A general nervousness indicated all was not going well with the trade discussions and that there were many points of difference.

Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu insisted, however, that Germany had presented nothing amounting to an ultimatum.

He pointed out also that German official sources had denied any extraordinary pressure was being brought on this Balkan kingdom of rich economic resources.

The impression prevailed that Germany had made certain proposals regarding German-Rumanian trade, including plans for disposition of Ru-

GERMAN MASTERS TO QUIZ 10,000 CZECHS

PRAGUE, March 18.—(AP)—At least 10,000 residents of Bohemia and Moravia were known tonight to have been ordered to report for questioning by the new German masters of broken Czecho-Slovakia.

The orders did not mean, however, that they would all be detained, but numerous arrests are known to have been made.

All day Prague residents continued their silent demonstrations before the Rathaus war memorial honoring patriots who were killed in 1620, when Czechs once before lost their independence.

Men, women and children—few without tears—stood with bared heads before the memorial flanked by two eternal flames.

Reports from Prague suburbs said at least 200 women and children had spent last night hiding in the woods.

The Nazi campaign against Jews continued. A Jewish synagogue in Bruenn was destroyed today by fire of unknown origin.

"No Jews wanted" signs appeared in coffee houses of Maehrisch-Ostrau (Moravska-Ostrava). Other signs appeared in stores designating the owners as German, Czech or Jewish.

HIGHWAY MASS MEET PLANNED

Louisiana And Arkansas Citizens To Meet In Monticello To Talk Road Plans

Construction of a through Arkansas-Louisiana north and south hardsurfaced highway will be urged at a mass meeting to be attended by citizens of the two states interested in the project, which will be held in Monticello, Ark., within the next 10 days. Announcement of tentative plans was made by the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe Saturday.

In the opinion of local chamber officials, one of the most urgent transportation needs in two states comprises the hardsurfacing of routes through Arkansas and Louisiana, so that it will be possible to drive from Little Rock to Monroe and on to New Orleans on concrete paving all the way.

Federal highway No. 165 between Columbia and Alexandria needs some hardsurfacing in places but this will all be completed before the end of the year and only the Arkansas stretch now requires attention.

It is stated that the highway department of Louisiana is ready to meet the highway department of Arkansas with a paved road at the Arkansas-Louisiana state line if the Arkansas group will pave through that state.

The cities of Bastrop, Crossett, Hamburg, Monticello and Star City are said to desire this construction completed, replacing the gravel on highway No. 13 that now extends through long stretches north and south of Monticello, despite the fact that

GRACE CHURCH
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

The fourth Sunday in Lent. Refreshment Sunday.

Mid-Lent Sunday comes as a green oasis in a desert to a weary and thirsty traveler, as a day of rest and peace at home to tired men and women after weeks of absence and strain, and this Mother Church means it to be. Mothering Sunday it is called in England. A special kind of cake is made all over England for it. It is Refreshment Sunday here. All of which is an allegory. We have been keeping Lent and are tired, perhaps discouraged, we long for refreshment and comfort and pray with all our hearts, "that we who for our evil deeds do worthily deserve to be punished by the comfort of Thy grace may mercifully be relieved," and the Epistle and the Gospel lift up to heavenly places.

Services for fourth (Mid-Lent) Sunday are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a.m., church school at 9:30 a.m., confirmation service and sermon by the bishop, 10:45 a.m. The Rt. Rev. James Craik Morris, D. D., will visit Grace parish church on Sunday. He will celebrate the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 o'clock; will confirm the confirmation class at 10:45 o'clock and preach. This visit of the bishop will in all probability be his last official visit as bishop of the diocese. The members of Grace church should be present to greet the bishop and wish him God speed. Services are as usual during refreshment week. The Rev. George Tocher will be the guest preacher at the Wednesday evensong at 7:30 o'clock.

D. Dennis.

The church school exercises will open at 9:45 a.m., and the two Epworth leagues will meet at 6:45 p.m. It is desired and expected that good congregations will attend all the services today. A native pastor in central China was offered a salary ten times as large as the small sum which was given him by the missionary board, but he replied: "Matthew left the customs to follow Christ, and do you think I am going to leave Christ to follow customs?" With him it was not a question of easy position or money, but one of loyalty to Christ.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa Street

The Sabbath school attendance of last Sabbath was one of the largest in the history of our congregation, 380 attending here and at the mission school, Lamkin. With your interest and presence we will reach our goal, 400. The leaders are ambitious, willing and determined to serve. We will look for you this day. Please do not disappoint us.

Having passed through a week of real inspiration, we are speaking this day to the conservation of the revival. Our theme is "Keeping Our Course." And at the evening hour we are to consider "Why Not Try God."

About 80 people have responded to the appeal of the diaconate, looking to the financial support of the church. The amount pledged by these people totals more than half of the budget. Have you indicated the part of the budget you will bear? "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." Will you today sign a card, place it in the plate, hand to one of the officials or mail it in?

A cordial greeting awaits you.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Thomas At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

It is sometime helpful to consider, carefully, some of the thought-provoking questions of the Bible. Here are a few—think over them: What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He? What shall I do to be saved? There are "two ways" spoken of in the Bible: "the broad way" and "the narrow way." Which "way" shall I take? The "broad way" leads to destruction" while the "narrow way" leads to "life everlasting." We determine our "own destiny." The church has a most wonderful story to tell on the Lord's day—it is the "story of the cross." Would you like to hear something different? Then "come and see" and "hear" for yourself. Service begins at 9:45 a.m. and is concluded, for the day, at 8:45 p.m. The order of service: Sunday school at the regular hour, preaching according to the schedule on each Sunday, young peoples' meetings at 6:30 p.m. Prayer meeting each Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Lowest delivered price for any car with more than four cylinders

DELIVERED IN DETROIT, TAXES EXTRA

You expect Ford prices to be low. They always have been—always will be. But it's what you get for what what you pay that makes Ford prices so amazing.

Take equipment. Ford delivered prices include — without extra charge—many dollars' worth of equipment.

Look at materials. No better steels go into any car at any price than are used in the Ford V-8. And Ford cars are built to the highest standards of precision known to mass-production industry. Working to fine limits takes time, costs money, but it pays you. It reduces wear and makes new-car performance last thousands of miles longer.

Ford gives you the V-8 engine—the smoothness of eight cylinders, with the economy of small cylinders. To get a V-8 engine in any other car you have to pay far more than the Ford price. And that's also true of the improved hydraulic brakes with bigger braking surfaces — the full torque-tube drive—the semi-centrifugal clutch, and other features.

In the streamlined design of the 1939 Fords you have unquestioned style leadership — the smartest cars in America are in the Ford-Lincoln group.

All these things add up to bigger value—and that means lower price. In no other car do you get as much for your money as you do in a Ford V-8.

SEVEN CONVICTS ARE RECAPTURED

Only One Of Eight Involved In Alabama Break Still At Large

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 18.—(AP)—An aviator roaring low over an almost impenetrable swamp, bloodhounds and scores of officers foiled today the break for liberty for seven of eight bold and desperate Kilby prison convicts.

The eight fled about 2 p.m. in a rain of buckshot, but tonight seven were back behind steel bars—one bearing wounds from the gunfire.

No convict was hurt seriously.

When the first alarm was spread, W. M. Marks, manager of the Montgomery municipal airport, across the Wetumpka road from Kilby, took to the air and, while 25 bloodhounds bayed through the swampland, the pilot spotted the fugitives and dipped his plane at them to guide the pursuing officers.

Kilby wardens credited Marks with finding three men.

Paul Kearney, 22, listed at Kilby as serving five to seven years from Escambia county, was shot, but his wound apparently was superficial.

The convict still at large tonight was identified by authorities as Julius Koerner, 24, serving six to eight years on a burglary and grand larceny conviction in Montgomery county.

The desperate men, part of a crew of 15 assigned to work outside the prison walls, suddenly dashed across an open field. Their guard sent blasts of buckshots after them, but all kept going, scattered and gained the swamplands about half a mile from the penitentiary.

MUCKLAND FIRES ARE UNDER CONTROL

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Muckland fires, which for two weeks have ravaged large sectors of the Everglades region, were reported under control tonight by W. M. Stafford, state fire warden.

Stafford, who estimated a series of five fires had burned over a quarter of a million acres, said the remaining fire, in Broward county, was burning itself out in a patrolled area.

LAUNDRY OWNERS ELECT

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Lee Chalfant, Vicksburg, Miss., today was elected president of the Southern Laundry Owners' association at the end of a two-day convention. He succeeded C. T. Patrick, Montgomery, Ala.

GRACE CHURCH
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

The fourth Sunday in Lent. Refreshment Sunday.

Mid-Lent Sunday comes as a green oasis in a desert to a weary and thirsty traveler, as a day of rest and peace at home to tired men and women after weeks of absence and strain, and this Mother Church means it to be. Mothering Sunday it is called in England. A special kind of cake is made all over England for it. It is Refreshment Sunday here. All of which is an allegory. We have been keeping Lent and are tired, perhaps discouraged, we long for refreshment and comfort and pray with all our hearts, "that we who for our evil deeds do worthily deserve to be punished by the comfort of Thy grace may mercifully be relieved," and the Epistle and the Gospel lift up to heavenly places.

Services for fourth (Mid-Lent) Sunday are as follows: The Holy Eucharist at 7:30 a.m., church school at 9:30 a.m., confirmation service and sermon by the bishop, 10:45 a.m. The Rt. Rev. James Craik Morris, D. D., will visit Grace parish church on Sunday. He will celebrate the Holy Eucharist at 7:30 o'clock; will confirm the confirmation class at 10:45 o'clock and preach. This visit of the bishop will in all probability be his last official visit as bishop of the diocese. The members of Grace church should be present to greet the bishop and wish him God speed. Services are as usual during refreshment week. The Rev. George Tocher will be the guest preacher at the Wednesday evensong at 7:30 o'clock.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
West Monroe
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor

"Benevolence day" will be observed Sunday and we are urging all our people to attend the services.

A special service will be held for children in the church auditorium at 10 a.m. This service will take the place of the regular lession period for children.

Preaching services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. All are invited to attend these great class periods. Special music at every service.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
"The Church With the Lighted Steeple"
Walter C. Scott, Minister

"God's Certainties" will be the theme of the minister's sermon at the 11 o'clock hour. You are cordially invited to all our worship services. If you have no church home, we welcome you to the privileges of service and worship here in the temple of our heavenly Father.

The Monroe district conference will be held in West Monroe Tuesday. The pastor and several delegates from this church will be in attendance. The adult council will meet in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Inabnet Wednesday evening for an important meeting. The Woman's Missionary society will have the monthly program meeting at the church Tuesday at 3 p.m.

Young people of the church are cordially invited to join other young people in the most interesting Sunday evening programs. Come to the annex at 6 for a fellowship hour followed by a period of worship and open forum conducted by Miss Ivo Wilson on subjects of interest to all young people.

March 26th is Decision day and the 11 o'clock service will be especially for the church school. The public is invited. On Palm Sunday, April 2, a class of children will be received into the church. A class of adults will be received Easter Sunday morning. At 4 o'clock on Easter Sunday, there will be a special service for the baptism of infants and small children. A class of instruction will be held each afternoon, March 27-30 for the children and young people who are to be received into the church on Palm Sunday. Please bear in mind these special services.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The Rev. W. F. Mayo will occupy the pulpit at Gordon avenue today at 11:00 a.m. in the absence of the pastor who will preach at Claiborne Methodist church at the same time. At the evening hour, 7:30, the pastor will be at Gordon avenue and bring a message on: "Healing the Demoniac." The women of the Missionary society will meet at the church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 for their regular monthly program work, which will be under the direction of Circle No. 3, and will be led by Mrs. H. D. Dennis.

The church school exercises will open at 9:45 a.m., and the two Epworth leagues will meet at 6:45 p.m. It is desired and expected that good congregations will attend all the services today. Plans will be made for attending the district conferences next week. The special program of the Young People's work last Friday evening was a great success and was well attended.

The Rev. Guy M. Hicks, pastor of the Ruston Methodist church was present and brought the inspirational address. Short talks and special songs by others were given. After the program in the church all adjourned to the Sunday school annex and enjoyed a few minutes' social feast. All are delighted with our supply of new song books, and there has been an improvement in our singing. All who are interested are invited to attend the choir practice and participate in the choir work in the services.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue And South Third St.
I. L. Yeager, Pastor

We invite you to the worship services of the day beginning with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Morning worship at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Evangelistic service at 7:30 p.m. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Choir practice Tuesday evening at 7:30. Prayer service Thursday evening at 7:30. Christ Jesus said to the distressed, "Come unto me." The second admonition was, and is, "Follow me." A native pastor in central China was offered a salary ten times as large as the small sum which was given him by the missionary board, but he replied; "Matthew left the customs to follow Christ, and do you think I am going to leave Christ to follow customs?" With him it was not a question of easy position or money, but one of loyalty to Christ.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa Street
Rev. Ernest Duncan Holloway, Pastor

The Sabbath school attendance of last Sabbath was one of the largest in the history of our congregation, 380 attending here and at the mission school, Lamkin. With your interest and presence we will reach our goal, 400. The leaders are ambitious, willing and determined to serve. We will look for you this day. Please do not disappoint us.

Having passed through a week of real inspiration, we are speaking this day to the conservation of the revival. Our theme is "Keeping Our Course." And at the evening hour we are to consider "Why Not Try God."

About 80 people have responded to the appeal of the diaconate, looking to the financial support of the church. The amount pledged by these people totals more than half of the budget. Have you indicated the part of the budget you will bear? "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver." Will you today sign a card, place it in the plate, hand to one of the officials or mail it in?

A cordial greeting awaits you.

Thomas At Richmond Street
G. M. And Ina Lee Akin, Pastors

It is sometime helpful to consider, carefully, some of the thought-provoking questions of the Bible. Here are a few—think over them: What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He? What shall I do to be saved? There are "two ways" spoken of in the Bible; "the broad way" and "the narrow way." Which "way" shall I take? The "broad way" leads to destruction" while the "narrow way" leads to "life everlasting." We determine our "own destiny." The church has a most wonderful story to tell on the Lord's day—it is the "story of the cross." Would you like to hear something different? Then "come and see" and "hear" for yourself. Service begins at 9:45 a.m. and is concluded, for the day, at 8:45 p.m. The order of service: Sunday school at the regular hour, preaching according to the schedule on each Sunday, young peoples' meetings at 6:30 p.m. Prayer meeting each Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Harrison And D'Arbonne Streets
Sherrouse Addition
Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school meets at 9:30 a.m. Bible class at 10 a.m. Church service at 10:45 a.m. Choir rehearsal at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. We invite everyone to worship with us.

'FLU' PREVENTION STATEMENT GIVEN

Ouachita Parish Health Unit Director Advises On Care Of Health

A statement on care of the health designed to ward off colds, influenza and pneumonia, was issued yesterday by Dr. G. Douglas Williams, director of the Ouachita Parish Health unit. The statement, which is of especial interest at this time because of the large number of cases of influenza prevalent in Monroe and West Monroe, and the parish, follows:

"Colds, influenza and pneumonia all are separate and distinct diseases, however, they all three may be brought on and their virulence may be increased by the lowered general bodily resistance of the individual. Also, these three diseases are contagious and may be transferred from one individual to another by coughing, sneezing, or by using unwashed glasses, dishes and other eating utensils that have been previously used by an inuividual who is afflicted with one of these diseases. Also, the common face towel is a frequent source of the spread of these diseases.

"At this time there are quite a number, therefore, I think it advisable that the people of this area observe every precaution possible to prevent the further spread of these infectious diseases.

"The following are some precautions that can be taken to prevent the spread of these diseases.

"Stay away from people with colds. During 'flu' epidemics, especially, it is wiser to stay at home than to be part of a crowd in poorly ventilated rooms or meeting places.

"Keep the body in good condition by eating the right kind of foods, including milk, eggs, fruits and green vegetables. Sleep eight hours out of 24. Drink at least six glasses of water daily.

"Wear sensible clothing.

"Keep the feet warm and dry.

"Breathe through the nose. The air is filtered as it passes on the way to the lungs, and the mouth-breather takes dust and germs directly into the mouth and throat.

"Always wash the hands with soap and water before eating.

"Live and work in well ventilated rooms. The temperature of a room should not be over 70 degrees.

"When overheated, cool off gradually, as a sudden change in the body temperature may start a cold.

"Should you have any of the sypmtoms of influenza, consult your family physician at once and follow his directions carefully, as all too frequently influenza may be the forerunner of that deadly disease, pneumonia."

'FLU' PREVENTION STATEMENT GIVEN

Ouachita Parish Health Unit Director Advises On Care Of Health

A statement on care of the health designed to ward off colds, influenza and pneumonia, was issued yesterday by Dr. G. Douglas Williams, director of the Ouachita Parish Health unit. The statement, which is of especial interest at this time because of the large number of cases of influenza prevalent in Monroe and West Monroe, and the parish, follows:

"Colds, influenza and pneumonia all are separate and distinct diseases, however, they all three may be brought on and their virulence may be increased by the lowered general bodily resistance of the individual. Also, these three diseases are contagious and may be transferred from one individual to another by coughing, sneezing, or by using unwashed glasses, dishes and other eating utensils that have been previously used by an inuividual who is afflicted with one of these diseases. Also, the common face towel is a frequent source of the spread of these diseases.

"At this time there are quite a number, and, therefore, I think it advisable that the people of this area observe every precaution possible to prevent the further spread of these infectious diseases.

"The following are some precautions that can be taken to prevent the spread of these diseases.

"Stay away from people with colds. During 'flu' epidemics, especially, it is wiser to stay at home than to be part of a crowd in poorly ventilated rooms or meeting places.

"Keep the body in good condition by eating the right kind of foods, including milk, eggs, fruits and green vegetables. Sleep eight hours out of 24. Drink at least six glasses of water daily.

"Wear sensible clothing.

"Keep the feet warm and dry.

"Breathe through the nose. The air is filtered as it passes on the way to the lungs, and the mouth-breather takes dust and germs directly into the mouth and throat.

"Always wash the hands with soap and water before eating.

"Live and work in well ventilated rooms. The temperature of a room should not be over 70 degrees.

"When overheated, cool off gradually, as a sudden change in the body temperature may start a cold.

"Should you have any of the sypmtoms of influenza, consult your family physician at once and follow his directions carefully, as all too frequently influenza may be the forerunner of that deadly disease, pneumonia."

What Next In Europe?

When the partition of Czechoslovakia was initiated by the peace of Munich the way was prepared for logical consequences which have now been fulfilled.

The latest stroke of Der Fuehrer leaves the situation confused in detail but not as to its main and sinister meaning. Poland and Hungary may contend for slices of the partitioned nation. They may seem to gain a momentary advantage. But it will not be for any longer than Hitler decrees. With Bohemia in his grasp he has indeed effectuated a major part of his thrust to the east.

The principal question now confronting the so-called European democracies is: How far shall Hitler be allowed to go? A breathless Europe will await the "next step" in this progress of Reich expansion, hoping, but in no sense confidently assuming, that the fuehrer may at last have reached a point of territorial satiety.

It is apparent, at all events, that Germany's dominance of central Europe has been greatly strengthened by these developments. What the future holds in store will be determined by the insistence with which the aggressive policies outlined in "Mein Kampf" are forwarded within this particular area.

The immediate motivation for Hitler's' latest move is almost beside the point. The breakup of Czechoslovakia illustrates again how devastating can be the Nazi technique and how swiftly it can operate. Hitler has laid aside none of his ruthlessness. He intends to exploit to the limit the advantages won at Munich. Appeasement for him means a series of grabs executed as and when he pleases.

The uncertainty in eastern Europe will be increased many fold. How long Rumania and Yugoslavia can maintain their independence is anybody's guess. Much has been written recently of resistance of the common folk of the Balkans to Nazi ideologies. There may be such resistance, but it is beyond belief that it can stand effectively against the Nazi pressure.

These most recent changes in the map of Europe are important principally by reason of their implications with respect to the future. They are not in themselves vital objectives of Hitler's scheme of things. They represent, however, phases of the development of German power which ultimately will find dramatic and, perhaps, terrifying expression.

Napoleon's greed for glory and for power carried him from France to Italy, to Holland, to Spain, to Austria and to Poland, even to the Nile. His present-day counterpart in six crowded years has brought an abject, beaten nation back to strength and power and has extended its frontiers to include two independent nations and added nearly 20,000,000 people to its population.

But Napoleon's insatiable urge for new worlds to conquer also carried him to Moscow and this circumstance in the analogy provides cause for comfort. He knew no restraints once his passion for imperialism had been enkindled and there is nothing in the dramatic record of the last six years to suggest that Hitler's restless energy ever will be stilled, that he will be content to consolidate his gains and curb his acquisitive instincts.

And unless he does there is certain to be a Moscow waiting for him as a step on the journey to St. Helena. It is significant, also heartening, that the stories of the conquerors are not marked by happy endings.

PRESERVING DEMOCRACY

"We hold that democracy ends where the persecution of minorities begins," remarked Dean Gauss, of Princeton university, in a recent Phi Beta Kappa address.

It is a conclusion which will be challenged by no thinking American. A cardinal principle of democratic life is that of all-around freedom-in religion, in politics, in economic and social affairs. The only restraint has to do with subversive movements looking toward the overthrow of the American system.

For Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholarship society, to dedicate itself to the maintenance of academic liberty is for it to undertake a task of no little consequence for democracy as a whole.

The world at large is beset by so many suppressive forces that honest and sincere believers in the freedom of popular government may well band together for preservation of the liberties which, in the aggregate, mean so much for creative individualism.

AL SCORES A BULL'S-EYE

Al Smith, though in virtual retirement, has not lost his faculty of terse, pungent comment.

"There are two things that don't fit together," says Al in a recent and typical thrust, "political patronage and a reduction of the cost of government."

And that is literally true, especially so at a time when relief itself has assumed the aspect of partisan largesse.

Padded payrolls and unnecessary jobs are no doubt responsible for nine-tenths of current governmental wastefulness—municipal, state and federal.

Political patronage, most assuredly, is our chief trouble. Until it is markedly reduced, not to say wholly eliminated, we shall probably continue to wallow in the red.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Back in the fabulous clipper ship era, American merchant vessels were the finest and fastest in the world and they carried 90 per cent of America's overseas trade.

Square-riggers and bucko mates are gone forever, and the merchant marine long since fell on evil days. So it is rather exciting to learn that there is actually a good chance that those old days may return again—in a streamlined, mechanized, twentieth-century version.

A merchant marine revival of startling proportions is under way. Fifty-two new merchant vessels were laid down in American yards last year. The United States Maritime commission, which has this revival under its wing, aims to see at least 90 new ships built each year for ten years.

United States May Hide Crest

The commission feels that these ships will be the best that can be built anywhere. When the program is completed, the United States merchant fleet will rank about as near the top as a fleet can get, from the standpoint of speed and efficiency.

Foreign trade routes of interest to American exporters will be serviced better than they are at present, and service will be given to many points which now are not covered at all.

This Maritime commission is another of those innumerable government agencies, and it is spoon-feeding the revival assiduously with federal funds. By the end of 1939, something like $390,000,000 will have been spent.

For the new merchant fleet is being subsidized. But the subsidies are open and direct, not disguised as mail contracts; and they are expected to lead to profitable steamship operation by private owners and away from government ownership and operation.

Subsidy Alternatives

The commission can grant two kinds of subsidy. First, there is the construction differential. It is cheaper, unfortunately, to build a ship abroad than in this country. Suppose, as a shipper, you want to build a big cargo boat which will cost $1,000,000. A survey shows that your Japanese competitor can duplicate that boat at home for $700,000.

In that case, the Maritime commission puts up $300,000 of the construction price. You don't get the money; it goes direct to the builder. You put up one-quarter of the $700,000 balance in cash, and you can then borrow the rest of the price from the government on a 20-year loan at 3½ per cent interest.

The other kind of subsidy is the operating differential.

Suppose, again, that you are a ship owner, running a ship on some definite overseas route. Your principal competitor may be a Greek, with far lower operating costs—lower wages, lower bills for repairs and supplies, and so on.

The commission makes a careful study to see just how much more you have to pay to keep your line in operation than your Greek competitor has to pay—and the government pays you the difference.

Wartime Values

Under these two kinds of subsidies, then, the commission is undertaking to revive the merchant marine. It figures not only that this will be a fine thing for our export trade, but that it will be of great value to the navy.

For instance: last year 12 tankers were laid down for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. They will be the world's finest tankers, able to steam at a 19-knot clip.

In case of war, they would be ideal auxiliaries for the fleet. Because of the special defense features that are being built into them, the commission is paying 28 per cent of their cost.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—A very strange thing has been happening in Hollywood these past few years. It started with "The Life of Louis Pasteur," and it has become increasingly evident with each new biographical picture and each new adventure film. Today it—and by "it" I mean a new trend—is in full swing. Screen biographies and outdoor thrillers are the fad with this inevitable result: the ladies, who had ruled the movies for 20 years, are being forced into a back seat; the men are coming into their own.

Make a list of the important pictures produced in the last three years and you will find that 90 per cent of them have been "men's stories." Make a list of those proposed for the coming year and you will see that the percentage still holds good. And it will continue to do so just as long as biographical dramas are the order of the day, for history offers 10 interesting men for every outstanding woman. All of which is not meant as a reflection on the abilities of the speaker sex. The ladies, unfortunately, were "emancipated" only a generation or so ago.

The new trend means that the chances of every Hollywood actress have been curtailed. The men are getting all the plums. Even Nancy Kelly, hailed as the most promising young dramatic find of the past year, is forced to pay comparative bits in pictures that spotlight the men in the cast. It's a tough break for the ladies, but they had such a long reign that they've small cause for complaint.

Personal observations: It's always a shock to meet Basil Rathbone off-screen—he doesn't look a day over 30. When Bob Taylor sits alone in a cafe, he invariably pulls out pencil and paper while waiting for his order, and makes a great pretense of concentration. You'll never see Gloria Stuart without more than a dash of blue in her costume. Someone, sometime, must have played a mean trick on Pat O'Brien—he always sniffs his highball suspiciously before downing it.

When Barbara Stanwyck is dressed in slacks—and she usually is—she likes to reverse the chair, straddle it and lean her chin on its back. There's no dodging the fact—Gracie Allen, with each passing year, talks more and more like her screen self. Despite that descending voice of which his studio is so proud, Freddie Bartholomew still shrills unpleasantly when he's excited. List Fred Astaire among Hollywood's most perfectly groomed males—he always looks like he's just stepped out of a bandbox. Gues Sonja Henie can't be worried about laugh lines—when she smiles, she squints.

Grace Moore's voice, in a real temper, acquires a metallic ing. Humphrey Bogart is a "double-smoker"—releasing the smoke from his mouth, he then re-inhales it through his nostrils. It's near-sightedness that causes Joan Bennett to look anywhere but at the passers-by when she's lunching in public—if she doesn't "see" people, they can't expect her to recognize them. Add habitual doodlers: Roland Young—he's practically speechless without a pencil in his hand. Whenever a reporter steps on his set, Henry Fonda's face always assumes an "I-dare-you" expression.

Here's an extra chuckle to be cashed in when you see Lee Tracy and Peggy Shannon walk into the lion's cage in "Fixer Dugan," and start shepherding the big cats through their act. In spite of the precautions taken when that scene was shot, neither Peggy nor Lee seemed enthusiastic about it. Louis Roth, the 64-year-old trainer, tried to restore their confidence. "No lion will ever hurt you unless you show your fear," he argued. "Just think of them as little kittens—believe you could knock them out with one blow if they get tough!" I don't think I've ever seen a funnier expression on a human face than Lee Tracy wore as he looked from Roth to the snarling lion.

Which reminds me—there was melodrama enacted the other night in the home of Robert Young. Bob was reading in the library. It was past midnight and the rest of the family was in bed. Suddenly, he heard a noise from the upper floors of the house, apparently from the attic, and immediately the thought of kidnapers flashed through his mind. A soft-voiced telephone call and, almost immediately a carload of police arrived. Guns in hand, they pussyfooted up the stairs and into the attic. And there, standing defiant in the flashlight's beam, they saw the culprit. It was the neighbors' tom-cat, out on his nightly prowl. Bob's still blushing.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

1,700-YEARS-OLD WINE—This oldest bottle of liquid wine was found in a 1,700-year-old Roman stone coffin near Speyer, Germany. A chemical analysis disclosed the presence of the usual wine sediment. In the top encrustation, traces of wax and olive oil were found, indicating that the wine was originally protected with olive oil. The wine was apparently of local origin of a very sour type sweetened with honey.

THE BRUNSWICK SPRINGS—As a natural curiosity the Brunswick Springs, near Bloomfield, Vermont, are unique in that, side by side, six springs of different mineral composition spring from the soil. The different mineral substances are arsenic, bromide, sulphur, magnesia, calcium, and iron. Mineral springs obtain their chemical substances from the rocks through which they flow. The occurrence in the geological formation of six different minerals in a row is very remarkable.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1939, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Many times in the past, explorers have found "the happy valley of Rasselas, where nobody starves." The idyllic valley in British Guiana, where nobody hates, is something else again. Its discoverer, Dr. Paul A. Zahl, of Union college, understandably touches off some sizable headlines.

A new aboriginal human society to which the curse of Cain has not penetrated, where nobody's hand is raised against his brother, where the emotion of anger is unknown—that's news, particularly in a day when the nations are putting on night shifts to keep up with their hating.

Not only is this the land of brotherly love, but the land of perfect happiness, according to Dr. Zahl. Apparently it is also a land without fear as the natives were friendly and hospitable and not in the least disturbed by the arrival of visitors from another world. Dr. Zahl contrasted these aborigines with others who have long been in contact with white men. The inference from his report is no compliment to our civilization.

In their high mountain gorge, these happy and amiable dwellers on the Utishi river have natural protection, above and below, in some of the greatest waterfalls on earth, two of them with 10 times the drop of Niagara, and with a tremendous volume of water. The people are perhaps unique in this planetary life-laboratory because of the isolation which has made them secure against attack, and because of the fertility of their country, which has freed them from the fear of want.

If later research—and surely such inquiry will be made—finds that this attainment of complete felicity is assured and permanent, it will be something for anthropologists to write home about. It will be a score for old Jean Jacques Rousseau who, in his "Social Contract," assumed the innate goodness and decency of man. It will also be a score for meliorists, reformers and Utopians who have maintained that the mass of mankind would be essentially wise and virtuous if it could get rid of its exploiters and oppressors.

Among modern men efforts to demonstrate this theory have been disappointing. The world is littered with the wrecks of Messianic colonies which derived their inspiration from Rousseau's assumption of human beatitude. Hatred, envy, covetousness, jealousy and fear have crept in. The only ones which have survived have been those with a strong amalgam of religion, like the Latter Day Saints.

In this garden of Eden in British Guiana, they have not, of course, partaken of the fruit of the tree of knowledge. Their bountiful land did not urge them to circumvent nature—which is our full-time job—to chain their waterfalls or delve for gold or iron to contrive crafts and processes to serve artificially stimulated desires. They haven't much and they don't want much. That clicks nicely with the late William James' definition of happiness, in which desires are the numerator and wants the denominator. Boost the former too much in proportion to the latter and you get unhappiness. There are those who think that's what's the matter with modern man.

Consider a great entrepreneur of modern industry viewing one of those great waterfalls for the first time. Quickly he would translate its thunders into kilowatts and vision the entire valley energized by it. One falters in following his vision too far—this sunlit people driven to subways by the congestion which this great center of power would make and energize; ticket choppers; time clock punchers; lock-step multitudes moving back and forth from a flat to a job. These captive kilowatts also would provide energy to root roadways through the jungle; and then they would be available to power radios to tell the Indians in the next valley they were a lot of low-down this and thats.

Dr. Crile, famous physician, just now in the news with his discovery of the "abdominal brain," could tell us as much as any one about hatred and anger. He has traced its chemistration and its glandular functioning. It has survival value, as it has with the animals. It is a spur to action, a sudden reinforcement of physical strength and courage at a moment when the issue is life and death.

There seems to be no doubt but that it is standard equipment in the human species. But rarely does it serve modern man. It seems to me that future research in Dr. Zahl's valley will be enlightening. Did fear and anger atrophy among these people because they were of no daily use? Then why do we modern men cling to these vestigial traits? Perish the thought, but if we could trade places with the doctor's Indians, would we be as bored as they would be frightened?

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

In recent years all sorts of governmental, philanthropic and private agencies have been endeavoring to educate prospective mothers about childbirth. The mother who does not know may be the subject of all sorts of fears and worries. Here for example is a letter from such a woman:

Dear Doctor: Is it true that you can mark a baby while carrying it? I have a 5-month-old baby girl that has no hair. Is there anything that I could rub on her scalp to encourage the growth? My mother-in-law says that I marked my little girl as she keeps nodding her head yes, now and then, like I had the habit of doing before she was born. Is there anything that I can do to break her of this habit?

Of all the persistent notions, not founded on fact, that prevail among people, this one seems the hardest to destroy. All authorities are convinced that there is not the slightest truth in such unfortunate superstitions.

We know with certainty that there is no nervous connection between the mother and the unborn child. Usually these occurrences are just coincidental, often embellished with imaginative details. Not one case suitably investigated has ever stood up.

The mothers of Sparta in ancient Greece were commanded to look only on pictures and statues which showed the strong and beautiful, so that their children would be strong and beautiful. But we know today that it is not possible to affect the child, who is actually the sum of its parents, by any such an activity. The idea most widely prevalent is the one that a shock to the mother will mark the child; yet, during the World war, when many prospective mothers were exposed to unusual horrors, the number of babies born with markings was no greater than in normal times.

As I have frequently explained in these columns, children differ as to the time when hair, teeth or other appurtenances of the human body appear. An extraordinary delay should demand investigation by the doctor, because there are some constitutional diseases which affect the growth of hair.

As to the nodding, it must be remembered that a 5-month-old baby is just beginning to hold up its head, because the muscles are still weak and untrained. A little fatigue will make the head nod. Furthermore, if the mother has the habit of frequent nodding, baby may imitate her. But there is no need for worry, because children get over so many things just by growing up.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

What is one to do when a parent is an acknowledged Black Sheep and a child adores him (or her) nonetheless? Is one to let the child go on loving an unworthy parent only to have him shocked and grieved by the revelation of his unworthiness? Or is one to let the child go on mistakenly loving him? So asks the other half of the tragedy.

I think that the only way out of this difficulty is by an old, old road. "Judge not that ye be not judged." Cover the failure with the mantle of silent love and go on hoping after all hope is dead. Let the child go on loving. Love cannot hurt anyone, but it can heal when all else has failed. Leave the future to the future. There is nothing else to be done.

I would tell the child as much of the truth as was necessary to keep the record clear, but I would be careful that in the telling I let none of my hurt and resentment slip into the tale. If I were not sure that I could do this I would get some gentle, forgiving soul to do the essential telling. It is possible to tell the truth without shocking and frightening a child. One can enlist his pity, his sympathy, his affection for the good that still lives in the Black Sheep. It is there or this child would not cling to his love for the parent.

This is no easy thing to do, but it is far the better way. When time has healed some of the wound and eased most of the pain, the child will have a clearer view of the matter and come to his own decision. He will have been saved the pain and bitterness of learning that his loved one had little right to his love. But who has a right to love? Its very nature makes it free, a gift of divine origin, bestowed alike on the just and the unjust, worthiness being out of the question. Few of us could lay claim to love on any score save that of need. The greater the sinner the greater his need.

I am not afraid of the shock to the child when he learns the accepted truth about this loved one. If he was told the necessary facts and left to love as he chose, he can be only the gainer by the experience.

John's father drank so that his mother was forced to leave him and go to work to support the boy. She said nothing harsh about the boy's father but stated the facts and went on from there, leaving John the right to love and respect his father as he did.

One day, when John was fourteen, he and the rest of the school, were on the way home for luncheon. John's father came around the corner drunk and staggering. One boy called over his shoulder, tauntingly, "There's your old man, John."

John looked around, saw his father and immediately went to him, slipped his arm into his and helped him to his home. When he got back from lunch he went up to the lad who had taunted him and said, "That was my father. Now what of it?" "O—nothing, John. I didn't mean anything. Honest, I didn't!"

"See you don't," said John, "because I'm going to punch the head off you if you even open your mouth about him."

You see, John knew, but he held on, and it didn't hurt him any, nor his father either.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON,—Intramural squabble No. 1 at present goes on between Secretary Hit-'Em-Harold Ickes and stately Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. It is over boat and picnic concessions on Boulder dam reservoir on the Colorado.

The only thing these two important public officials have in common is a hatred of Hitlerism, which they express often and forcefully. Next to Hitler it would seem they dislike each other most.

The affair over Lake Mead (which is Boulder dam reservoir) is their second battle of the Marne. The first was over the confirmation of Ebert K. Burlew as under-secretary of interior. Ickes wanted him. He had had long experience in the department. Pittman denounced him as unsuitable for such a post. They fought that out in public lands committee and in the senate. Ickes won.

The second battle began when Pittman proposed to annex part of the public domain about Lake Mead as a recreation ground for Nevada. Boulder Dam backs up water in precipitous Colorado canyon for 100 miles. A few miles back of the dam, one arm of this lake reaches out into Nevada along the Vegas Wash, within 19 miles of desert-bound Las Vegas (10,000 population), in southernmost Nevada. There are 2,610 square miles of federally owned public domain around the reservoir. Pittman introduced a bill setting aside 12 miles of it as a state park. His 12 miles included the outreaching arm of the lake in Vegas Wash.

Gamblers Interested?

The idea was for the state to set up a resort on the lake shore, attract patrons from far and near, as well as make an outing spot where Las Vegas could sail boats, fish and picnic.

Las Vegans indorsed the plan. So did the state legislature. Bitterly opposed was diminutive Boulder City, created by the six companies which built the dam and now supported in part by the boat concessions at the dam.

Ickes, out west on tour, inspected the park site. Into his ear were poured tales which Pittman says were conjured up by Boulder City concessionaires to block the state park.

The surprised senate public lands committee heard Ickes' reports and ordered hearings, putting Pittman at the head of them.

"It would appear," Ickes wrote, "that as a result of the recent clean-up of anti-social conditions in the city of Los Angeles, a number of gamblers who formerly flourished there have betaken themselves to Las Vegas. It is rumored that they have set about to monopolize the gambling concerns of that city. It is further rumored that they are heartily in support of this state park because they want to extend their enterprises so as to be able to reach out for the tourists who visit Boulder Dam and Lake Mead.

"It would not be the first time that persons with ulterior motives imposed upon a representative or senator (this burned Pittman up) by persuading him to offer a bill that would create an objectionable privilege without divulging to him their ulterior motives."

Suspects Ickes Slap-Back

He pointed out that 160 acres of privately owned land in the park area were reported under option to the Los Angeles cullies. Under Nevada's liberal gambling and saloon license laws, Ickes intimated, there could be "unrestricted drinking and gambling" in the area.

Pittman, suspecting that this was Ickes' way of getting even for his earlier rough handling of Burlew, denied there was any gambler motive. He said state laws could prohibit gambling in the entire park area.

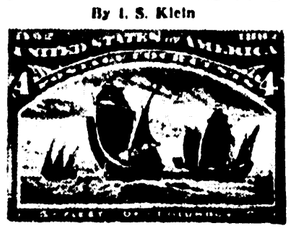
He even proposed to gerrymander the 160 acres right out of the park, thus shutting it away from access to the lake.

But Ickes remembered that Nevada's legislature had kept that state the hell-roaringest spot in the United States.

Pittman termed such an attitude a "reflection on the good name of the state of Nevada," and predicted the senate would pass the bill, and slap Ickes back among his Indian paintings and tiled bathrooms.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein



THE rigors of navigating a leaky ship on an uncharted sea worked hardship enough on Christopher Columbus when he set sail for the new world in August, 1492, but his tiny fleet was scarcely under way when another, even more serious, problem developed, mutiny in the crew.

It is easy to understand this, of course. Here was a band of lusty, ignorant men, directed by officers hardly more learned. They sailed with visions of gold and precious jewels at the end of the course, but very shortly the dread of the unknown sea began to frighten them.

So they tried to turn back. But Columbus employed every subterfuge to keep moving ahead. Daily he cut many leagues from the distance he reckoned they had sailed and when he found that the compasses no longer pointed true north he adjusted them.

He took occasion, moreover, to point to every bit of driftwood, seaweed or to every bird as indication of land nearby. Even a head wind was shown as an assurance that they could return. And in the end Columbus triumphed. His fleet is shown above on a stamp of the U. S. Columbian series of 1893, 4-cent blue, enlarged.

What Next In Europe?

When the partition of Czechoslovakia was initiated by the peace of Munich the way was prepared for logical consequences which have now been fulfilled.

The latest stroke of Der Fuehrer leaves the situation confused in detail but not as to its main and sinister meaning. Poland and Hungary may contend for slices of the partitioned nation. They may seem to gain a momentary advantage. But it will not be for any longer than Hitler decrees. With Bohemia in his grasp he has indeed effectuated a major part of his thrust to the east.

The principal question now confronting the so-called European democracies is: How far shall Hitler be allowed to go? A breathless Europe will await the "next step" in this progress of Reich expansion, hoping, but in no sense confidently assuming, that the fuehrer may at last have reached a point of territorial satiety.

It is apparent, at all events, that Germany's dominance of central Europe has been greatly strengthened by these developments. What the future holds in store will be determined by the insistence with which the aggressive policies outlined in "Mein Kampf" are forwarded within this particular area.

The immediate motivation for Hitler's' latest move is almost beside the point. The breakup of Czechoslovakia illustrates again how devastating can be the Nazi technique and how swiftly it can operate. Hitler has laid aside none of his ruthlessness. He intends to exploit to the limit the advantages won at Munich. Appeasement for him means a series of grabs executed as and when he pleases.

The uncertainty in eastern Europe will be increased many fold. How long Rumania and Yugoslavia can maintain their independence is anybody's guess. Much has been written recently of resistance of the common folk of the Balkans to Nazi ideologies. There may be such resistance, but it is beyond belief that it can stand effectively against the Nazi pressure.

These most recent changes in the map of Europe are important principally by reason of their implications with respect to the future. They are not in themselves vital objectives of Hitler's scheme of things. They represent, however, phases of the development of German power which ultimately will find dramatic and, perhaps, terrifying expression.

Napoleon's greed for glory and for power carried him from France to Italy, to Holland, to Spain, to Austria and to Poland, even to the Nile. His present-day counterpart in six crowded years has brought an abject, beaten nation back to strength and power and has extended its frontiers to include two independent nations and added nearly 20,000,000 people to its population.

But Napoleon's insatiable urge for new worlds to conquer also carried him to Moscow and this circumstance in the analogy provides cause for comfort. He knew no restraints once his passion for imperialism had been enkindled and there is nothing in the dramatic record of the last six years to suggest that Hitler's restless energy ever will be stilled, that he will be content to consolidate his gains and curb his acquisitive instincts.

And unless he does there is certain to be a Moscow waiting for him as a step on the journey to St. Helena. It is significant, also heartening, that the stories of the conquerors are not marked by happy endings.

PRESERVING DEMOCRACY

"We hold that democracy ends where the persecution of minorities begins," remarked Dean Gauss, of Princeton university, in a recent Phi Beta Kappa address.

It is a conclusion which will be challenged by no thinking American. A cardinal principle of democratic life is that of all-around freedom-in religion, in politics, in economic and social affairs. The only restraint has to do with subversive movements looking toward the overthrow of the American system.

For Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholarship society, to dedicate itself to the maintenance of academic liberty is for it to undertake a task of no little consequence for democracy as a whole.

The world at large is beset by so many suppressive forces that honest and sincere believers in the freedom of popular government may well band together for preservation of the liberties which, in the aggregate, mean so much for creative individualism.

AL SCORES A BULL'S-EYE

Al Smith, though in virtual retirement, has not lost his faculty of terse, pungent comment.

"There are two things that don't fit together," says Al in a recent and typical thrust, "political patronage and a reduction of the cost of government."

And that is literally true, especially so at a time when relief itself has assumed the aspect of partisan largesse.

Padded payrolls and unnecessary jobs are no doubt responsible for nine-tenths of current governmental wastefulness—municipal, state and federal.

Political patronage, most assuredly, is our chief trouble. Until it is markedly reduced, not to say wholly eliminated, we shall probably continue to wallow in the red.

• BRUCE CATTON IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Back in the fabulous clipper ship era, American merchant vessels were the finest and fastest in the world and they carried 90 per cent of America's overseas trade.

Square-riggers and bucko mates are gone forever, and the merchant marine long since fell on evil days. So it is rather exciting to learn that there is actually a good chance that those old days may return again—in a streamlined, mechanized, twentieth-century version.

A merchant marine revival of startling proportions is under way. Fifty-two new merchant vessels were laid down in American yards last year. The United States Maritime commission, which has this revival under its wing, aims to see at least 50 new ships built each year for ten years.

United States May Ride Crest

The commission feels that these ships will be the best that can be built anywhere. When the program is completed, the United States merchant fleet will rank about as near the top as a fleet can get, from the standpoint of speed and efficiency.

Foreign trade routes of interest to American exporters will be serviced better than they are at present, and service will be given to many points which now are not covered at all.

This Maritime commission is another of those innumerable government agencies, and it is spoon-feeding the revival assiduously with federal funds. By the end of 1939, something like $390,000,000 will have been spent.

For the new merchant fleet is being subsidized. But the subsidies are open and direct, not disguised as mail contracts; and they are expected to lead to profitable steamship operation by private owners and away from government ownership and operation.

Subsidy Alternatives

The commission can grant two kinds of subsidy. First, there is the construction differential. It is cheaper, unfortunately, to build a ship abroad than in this country. Suppose, as a shipper, you want to build a big cargo boat which will cost $1,000,000. A survey shows that your Japanese competitor can duplicate that boat at home for $700,000.

In that case, the Maritime commission puts up $300,000 of the construction price. You don't get the money; it goes direct to the builder. You put up one-quarter of the $700,000 balance in cash, and you can then borrow the rest of the price from the government on a 20-year loan at 3½ per cent interest.

The other kind of subsidy is the operating differential.

Suppose, again, that you are a ship owner, running a ship on some definite overseas route. Your principal competitor may be a Greek, with far lower operating costs—lower wages, lower bills for repairs and supplies, and so on.

The commission makes a careful study to see just how much more you have to pay to keep your line in operation than your Greek competitor has to pay—and the government pays you the difference.

Wartime Values

Under these two kinds of subsidies, then, the commission is undertaking to revive the merchant marine. It figures not only that this will be a fine thing for our export trade, but that it will be of great value to the navy.

For instance: last year 12 tankers were laid down for the Standard Oil company of New Jersey. They will be the world's finest tankers, able to steam at a 19-knot clip.

In case of war, they would be ideal auxiliaries for the fleet. Because of the special defense features that are being built into them, the commission is paying 28 per cent of their cost.

JIMMIE FIDLER In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD, March 18.—A very strange thing has been happening in Hollywood these past few years. It started with "The Life of Louis Pasteur," and it has become increasingly evident with each new biographical picture and each new adventure film. Today it—and by "it" I mean a new trend—is in full swing. Screen biographies and outdoor thrillers are the fad with this inevitable result: the ladies, who had ruled the movies for 20 years, are being forced into a back seat; the men are coming into their own.

Make a list of the important pictures produced in the last three years and you will find that 90 per cent of them have been "men's stories." Make a list of those proposed for the coming year and you will see that the percentage still holds good. And it will continue to do so just as long as biographical dramas are the order of the day, for history offers 10 interesting men for every outstanding woman. All of which is not meant as a reflection on the abilities of the speaker sex. The ladies, unfortunately, were "emancipated" only a generation or so ago.

The new trend means that the chances of every Hollywood actress have been curtailed. The men are getting all the plums. Even Nancy Kelly, hailed as the most promising young dramatic find of the past year, is forced to pay comparative bits in pictures that spotlight the men in the cast. It's a tough break for the ladies, but they had such a long reign that they've small cause for complaint.

Personal observations: It's always a shock to meet Basil Rathbone off-screen—he doesn't look a day over 30. When Bob Taylor sits alone in a cafe, he invariably pulls out pencil and paper while waiting for his order, and makes a great pretense of concentration. You'll never see Gloria Stuart without more than a dash of blue in her costume. Someone, sometime, must have played a mean trick on Pat O'Brien—he always sniffs his highball suspiciously before downing it.

When Barbara Stanwyck is dressed in slacks—and she usually is—she likes to reverse the chair, straddle it and lean her chin on its back. There's no dodging the fact—Gracie Allen, with each passing year, talks more and more like her screen self. Despite that descending voice of which his studio is so proud, Freddie Bartholomew still shrills unpleasantly when he's excited. List Fred Astaire among Hollywood's most perfectly groomed males—he always looks like he's just stepped out of a bandbox. Gues Sonja Henie can't be worried about laugh lines—when she smiles, she squints.

Grace Moore's voice, in a real temper, acquires a metallic ing. Humphrey Bogart is a "double-smoker"—releasing the smoke from his mouth, he then re-inhales it through his nostrils. It's near-sightedness that causes Joan Bennett to look anywhere but at the passers-by when she's lunching in public—if she doesn't "see" people, they can't expect her to recognize them. Add habitual doodlers: Roland Young—he's practically speechless without a pencil in his hand. Whenever a reporter steps on his set, Henry Fonda's face always assumes an "I-dare-you" expression.

Here's an extra chuckle to be cashed in when you see Lee Tracy and Peggy Shannon walk into the lion's cage in "Fixer Dugan," and start shepherding the big cats through their act. In spite of the precautions taken when that scene was shot, neither Peggy nor Lee seemed enthusiastic about it. Louis Roth, the 64-year-old trainer, tried to restore their confidence. "No lion will ever hurt you unless you show your fear," he argued. "Just think of them as little kittens—believe you could knock them out with one blow if they get tough!" I don't think I've ever seen a funnier expression on a human face than Lee Tracy wore as he looked from Roth to the snarling lion.

Which reminds me—there was melodrama enacted the other night in the home of Robert Young. Bob was reading in the library. It was past midnight and the rest of the family was in bed. Suddenly, he heard a noise from the upper floors of the house, apparently from the attic, and immediately the thought of kidnapers flashed through his mind. A soft-voiced telephone call and, almost immediately a carload of police arrived. Guns in hand, they pussyfooted up the stairs and into the attic. And there, standing defiant in the flashlight's beam, they saw the culprit. It was the neighbors' tom-cat, out on his nightly prowl. Bob's still blushing.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

1,700-YEARS-OLD WINE—This oldest bottle of liquid wine was found in a 1,700-year-old Roman stone coffin near Speyer, Germany. A chemical analysis disclosed the presence of the usual wine sediment. In the top encrustation, traces of wax and olive oil were found, indicating that the wine was originally protected with olive oil. The wine was apparently of local origin of a very sour type sweetened with honey.

THE BRUNSWICK SPRINGS—As a natural curiosity the Brunswick Springs, near Bloomfield, Vermont, are unique in that, side by side, six springs of different mineral composition spring from the soil. The different mineral substances are arsenic, bromide, sulphur, magnesia, calcium, and iron. Mineral springs obtain their chemical substances from the rocks through which they flow. The occurrence in the geological formation of six different minerals in a row is very remarkable.

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Many times in the past, explorers have found "the happy valley of Rasselas, where nobody starves." The idyllic valley in British Guiana, where nobody hates, is something else again. Its discoverer, Dr. Paul A. Zahl, of Union college, understandably touches off some sizable headlines.

A new aboriginal human society to which the curse of Cain has not penetrated, where nobody's hand is raised against his brother, where the emotion of anger is unknown—that's news, particularly in a day when the nations are putting on night shifts to keep up with their hating.

Not only is this the land of brotherly love, but the land of perfect happiness, according to Dr. Zahl. Apparently it is also a land without fear as the natives were friendly and hospitable and not in the least disturbed by the arrival of visitors from another world. Dr. Zahl contrasted these aborigines with others who have long been in contact with white men. The inference from his report is no compliment to our civilization.

In their high mountain gorge, these happy and amiable dwellers on the Uitshi river have natural protection, above and below, in some of the greatest waterfalls on earth, two of them with 10 times the drop of Niagara, and with a tremendous volume of water. The people are perhaps unique in this planetary life-laboratory because of the isolation which has made them secure against attack, and because of the fertility of their country, which has freed them from the fear of want.

If later research—and surely such inquiry will be made—finds that this attainment of complete felicity is assured and permanent, it will be something for anthropologists to write home about. It will be a score for old Jean Jacques Rousseau who, in his "Social Contract," assumed the innate goodness and decency of man. It will also be a score for meliorists, reformers and Utopians who have maintained that the mass of mankind would be essentially wise and virtuous if it could get rid of its exploiters and oppressors.

Among modern men efforts to demonstrate this theory have been disappointing. The world is littered with the wrecks of Messianic colonies which derived their inspiration from Rousseau's assumption of human beatitude. Hatred, envy, covetousness, jealousy and fear have crept in. The only ones which have survived have been those with a strong amalgam of religion, like the Latter Day Saints.

In this garden of Eden in British Guiana, they have not, of course, partaken of the fruit of the tree of knowledge. Their bountiful land did not urge them to circumvent nature—which is our full-time job—to chain their waterfalls or delve for gold or iron to contrive crafts and processes to serve artificially stimulated desires. They haven't much and they don't want much. That clicks nicely with the late William James' definition of happiness, in which desires are the numerator and wants the denominator. Boost the former too much in proportion to the latter and you get unhappiness. There are those who think that's what's the matter with modern man.

Consider a great entrepreneur of modern industry viewing one of those great waterfalls for the first time. Quickly he would translate its thunders into kilowatts and vision the entire valley energized by it. One falters in following his vision too far—this sunlit people driven to subways by the congestion which this great center of power would make and energize; ticket choppers; time clock punchers; lock-step multitudes moving back and forth from a flat to a job. These captive kilowatts also would provide energy to root roadways through the jungle; and then they would be available to power radios to tell the Indians in the next valley they were a lot of low-down this and thats.

Dr. Crile, famous physician, just now in the news with his discovery of the "abdominal brain," could tell us as much as any one about hatred and anger. He has traced its chemistration and its glandular functioning. It has survival value, as it has with the animals. It is a spur to action, a sudden reinforcement of physical strength and courage at a moment when the issue is life and death.

There seems to be no doubt but that it is standard equipment in the human species. But rarely does it serve modern man. It seems to me that future research in Dr. Zahl's valley will be enlightening. Did fear and anger atrophy among these people because they were of no daily use? Then why do we modern men cling to these vestigial traits? Perish the thought, but if we could trade places with the doctor's Indians, would we be as bored as they would be frightened?

By ANGELO PATRI

What is one to do when a parent is an acknowledged Black Sheep and a child adores him (or her) nonetheless? Is one to let the child go on loving an unworthy parent only to have him shocked and grieved by the revelation of his unworthiness? Or is one to let the child go on mistakenly loving him? So asks the other half of the tragedy.

I think that the only way out of this difficulty is by an old, old road. "Judge not that ye be not judged." Cover the failure with the mantle of silent love and go on hoping after all hope is dead. Let the child go on loving. Love cannot hurt anyone, but it can heal when all else has failed. Leave the future to the future. There is nothing else to be done.

I would tell the child as much of the truth as was necessary to keep the record clear, but I would be careful that in the telling I let none of my hurt and resentment slip into the tale. If I were not sure that I could do this I would get some gentle, forgiving soul to do the essential telling. It is possible to tell the truth without shocking and frightening a child. One can enlist his pity, his sympathy, his affection for the good that still lives in the Black Sheep. It is there or this child would not cling to his love for the parent.

This is no easy thing to do, but it is far the better way. When time has healed some of the wound and eased most of the pain, the child will have a clearer view of the matter and come to his own decision. He will have been saved the pain and bitterness of learning that his loved one had little right to his love. But who has a right to love? Its very nature makes it free, a gift of divine origin, bestowed alike on the just and the unjust, worthiness being out of the question. Few of us could lay claim to love on any score save that of need. The greater the sinner the greater his need.

I am not afraid of the shock to the child when he learns the accepted truth about this loved one. If he was told the necessary facts and left to love as he chose, he can be only the gainer by the experience.

John's father drank so that his mother was forced to leave him and go to work to support the boy. She said nothing harsh about the boy's father but stated the facts and went on from there, leaving John the right to love and respect his father as he did.

One day, when John was fourteen, he and the rest of the school, were on the way home for luncheon. John's father came around the corner drunk and staggering. One boy called over his shoulder, tauntingly, "There's your old man, John."

John looked around, saw his father and immediately went to him, slipped his arm into his and helped him to his home. When he got back from lunch he went up to the lad who had taunted him and said, "That was my father. Now what of it?" "O—nothing, John. I didn't mean anything. Honest, I didn't!"

"See you don't," said John, "because I'm going to punch the head off you if you even open your mouth about him."

You see, John knew, but he held on, and it didn't hurt him any, nor his father either.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON,—Intramural squabble No. 1 at present goes on between Secretary Hit-'Em-Harold Ickes and stately Senator Key Pittman of Nevada, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. It is over boat and picnic concessions on Boulder dam reservoir on the Colorado.

The only thing these two important public officials have in common is a hatred of Hitlerism, which they express often and forcefully. Next to Hitler it would seem they dislike each other most.

The affair over Lake Mead (which is Boulder dam reservoir) is their second battle of the Marne. The first was over the confirmation of Ebert K. Burlew as under-secretary of interior. Ickes wanted him. He had had long experience in the department. Pittman denounced him as unsuitable for such a post. They fought that out in public lands committee and in the senate. Ickes won.

The second battle began when Pittman proposed to annex part of the public domain about Lake Mead as a recreation ground for Nevada. Boulder Dam backs up water in precipitous Colorado canyon for 100 miles. A few miles back of the dam, one arm of this lake reaches out into Nevada along the Vegas Wash, within 19 miles of desert-bound Las Vegas (10,000 population), in southernmost Nevada. There are 2,610 square miles of federally owned public domain around the reservoir. Pittman introduced a bill setting aside 12 miles of it as a state park. His 12 miles included the outreaching arm of the lake in Vegas Wash.

Gamblers Interested?

The idea was for the state to set up a resort on the lake shore, attract patrons from far and near, as well as make an outing spot where Las Vegas could sail boats, fish and picnic.

Las Vegans indorsed the plan. So did the state legislature. Bitterly opposed was diminutive Boulder City, created by the six companies which built the dam and now supported in part by the boat concessions at the dam.

Ickes, out west on tour, inspected the park site. Into his ear were poured tales which Pittman says were conjured up by Boulder City concessionaires to block the state park.

The surprised senate public lands committee heard Ickes' reports and ordered hearings, putting Pittman at the head of them.

"It would appear," Ickes wrote, "that as a result of the recent clean-up of anti-social conditions in the city of Los Angeles, a number of gamblers who formerly flourished there have betaken themselves to Las Vegas. It is rumored that they have set about to monopolize the gambling concerns of that city. It is further rumored that they are heartily in support of this state park because they want to extend their enterprises so as to be able to reach out for the tourists who visit Boulder Dam and Lake Mead.

"It would not be the first time that persons with ulterior motives imposed upon a representative or senator (this burned Pittman up) by persuading him to offer a bill that would create an objectionable privilege without divulging to him their ulterior motives."

Suspects Ickes Slap-Back

He pointed out that 160 acres of privately owned land in the park area were reported under option to the Los Angeles cliques. Under Nevada's liberal gambling and saloon license laws, Ickes intimated, there could be "unrestricted drinking and gambling" in the area.

Pittman, suspecting that this was Ickes' way of getting even for his earlier rough handling of Burlew, denied there was any gambler motive. He said state laws would prohibit gambling in the entire park area.

He even proposed to gerrymander the 160 acres right out of the park, thus shutting it away from access to the lake.

But Ickes remembered that Nevada's legislature had kept that state the hell-roaringest spot in the United States.

Pittman termed such an attitude a "reflection on the good name of the state of Nevada," and predicted the senate would pass the bill, and slap Ickes back among his Indian paintings and tiled bathrooms.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

THE rigors of navigating a leaky ship on an uncharted sea worked hardship enough on Christopher Columbus when he set sail for the new world in August, 1492, but his tiny fleet was scarcely under way when another, even more serious, problem developed, mutiny in the crew.

It is easy to understand this, of course. Here was a band of lusty, ignorant men, directed by officers hardly more learned. They sailed with visions of gold and precious jewels at the end of the course, but very shortly the dread of the unknown sea began to frighten them.

So they tried to turn back. But Columbus employed every subterfuge to keep moving ahead. Daily he cut many leagues from the distance he reckoned they had sailed and when he found that the compasses no longer pointed true north he adjusted them.

He took occasion, moreover, to point to every bit of driftwood, seaweed or to every bird as indication of land nearby. Even a head wind was shown as an assurance that they could return. And in the end Columbus triumphed. His fleet is shown above on a stamp of the U. S. Columbian series of 1893, 4-cent blue, enlarged.

1,000 CHINESE PLANE VICTIMS

British And American Hospitals Destroyed In Air Raids

HONGKONG, March 18.—(AP)—A toll of about 1,000 Chinese dead and wounded was reported today in widespread Japanese air raids in central and northwest China which destroyed American and British mission hospitals.

Advices from Chungking, temporary capital of China, said the United States embassy there had been informed that the American Southern Baptist hospital at Chengchow, northern Honan province, was hit directly Friday and that six Chinese patients were killed.

An American-maintained refugee camp at Changchow which has accommodated thousands of war and flood refugees in the past nine months, these reports said, also was bombed; heavy casualties were said to have been inflicted on the camp.

Both the hospital and the camp were clearly marked by American flags.

(Reports in Shanghai said none of the seven Americans on the mission staff in Chengchow was injured. They are headed by Hospital Superintendent Sanford Ayers of Atlanta, Ga.)

Six Japanese bombs were reported to have hit the English Baptist hospital at Sian, in Shensi province, killing or wounding most of its native staff but not injuring any of its British officials.

Other Japanese bombs scored hits on seven Sian refugee camps and schools, inflicting at least 300 casualties, these reports said.

Chinese were reported in Shanghai to have launched a powerful counter-offensive against Japanese forces in central Hupeh, northwest of Hankow, causing the heaviest fighting in recent weeks.

COUP FULLY PLANNED

Propaganda Campaign Conceived By Nazi Experts In Czechoslovakia

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's bloodless territorial acquisition in a year was built on a carefully planned and executed propaganda campaign by Nazi experts in Czechoslovakia.

Spearhead of this high-powered propaganda drive was Ernst Kundt, Czechoslovak deputy who was trained at the Konrad Henlein school which successfully brought Czechoslovakia's Sudeten regions into Germany last autumn.

Behind him were undercover agents and operators. They all had one purpose: To bring Czechoslovak political policies into line with national socialism in preparation for complete Nazi domination as Austria had been prepared for union with expanding Germany.

Events of the last few months in their chronological order show the success of the propaganda campaign which opened the way for German troops into Bohemia and Moravia March 15.

Kundt, who cooperated fully with Henlein while heading the German delegation in the Czechoslovak parliament, was left inside Czechoslovakia to lead the Nazi campaign after the Munich accord September 29.

Appointment of Frantisek Chvalkovsky as Prague's foreign minister placed a pro-Nazi at the controls of Czech diplomacy.

As undercover agents met in Czech cities under swastika banners, the steam-roller movement gained momentum.

Kundt received "a large sum" of money to distribute among needy Germans in Czechoslovakia. Jewish films were banned. Press censorship, already rigid under the Czechs, became Nazi-like in its prohibition of any publications "unfriendly or unfavorable to Germany."

Prague university was "Aryanized." Jews became a minority. "Mein Kampf," Hitler's autobiography, translated into Czech appeared in Prague bookshops. Free entry of all German publications was permitted.

Kundt's first movements were mild, his speech restrained. But as the movement gained adherents, even among the Czechs, he launched out until finally his full program was disclosed.

On February 13 this 42-year-old, Hitler-mustachioed exponent of Nazism said:

"The position of Germans in Czechoslovakia is unbearable. Certain Czech circles have learned nothing from the events of 1938. Germandom in Czechoslovakia is the concern of the German Reich."

To many outside Germany this seemed biased, if not provocative. They knew Germans had forced the Czech government to accept many tenets of nazism. They had created railway and highway lines across Czechoslovakia over which even German troops could pass.

They were in the process of consolidating trade and monetary agreements favorable to Germany. Chvalkovsky's foreign policy was in harmony with the Reich's.

Then an internal fight within the Czechoslovak state arose between Prague and Joseph Tiso, premier of autonomous Slovakia.

Even while Germany was declaring officially that she was "uninterested," Nazi agents in Bratislava were bringing their activities to a finish. Tiso was displaced by Karl Sidor as premier on accusations of encouraging separatist agitation. But Tiso remained the white hope of the Germans.

Ferdinand Durcansky, ousted by [illegible] considering export subsidies for cotton in an effort to retain this country's foreign markets and reduce current surpluses.

[illegible] of Prague, Chvalkovsky, [illegible] part of the Czech people refused to follow suit.

At this propitious moment, Kundt again stepped forth, borrowing a page from the story of Sudetenland.

First rumors, then reports and finally flat assertions accused the Czechs of "terrorism" against Germans. Casualties were said to be mounting and Hitler, "protector of all Germans," was "forced" to intervene.

President Emil Hacha came to Berlin. The Nazi fuehrer told him what to expect and the Czech state ceased to exist the same morning.

German troops rolled into Bohemia and Moravia. Like lightning a protectorate under the swastika was set up with the German army in control.

GEORGE OPPOSES LOW LINT SALES

Senator Against Selling Cotton To Other Nations Below Cost

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, announced today he would ask the senate to go on record in opposition to selling American cotton to foreign buyers below cost to the government.

The Georgia senator said he would introduce Monday a resolution declaring the senate's sentiment to be against foreign sales at reduced prices.

Secretary Wallace has been reported considering export subsidies for cotton in an effort to retain this country's foreign markets and reduce current surpluses.

President Roosevelt, at a press conference Friday, said the administration was seeking some way of disposing of the huge cotton surplus in this country. More than 11,000,000 bales of this are under government loans with $500,000,000 invested.

Officials said powers now in the hands of Secretary Wallace would permit export subsidy operations without additional congressional legislation.

Southern senators have opposed any release of the loan stocks at this time, contending it would lower cotton prices and would compete with the new crop.

George's proposed resolution declared:

"That it is the sense of the senate that pending this world crisis no American cotton be sold to foreign purchasers at a price below the actual cost of said cotton to the government of the United States, and that the secretary of agriculture is directed to negotiate no sales of American cotton to the foreign trade below its cost to this government without the approval of the congress."

At present market prices, no loan cotton could be released under the George resolution. The government has an average of more than 9 cents a pound invested in the cotton, which is considerably above market prices.

Calling attention to the present "international crisis," the George resolution was prefaced by the following:

"Whereas the market for American cotton is rapidly becoming demoralized; and

"Whereas cotton is a vital commodity to national defense; and

"Whereas the United States government is in possession of the largest quantity of raw cotton in the world; and

"Whereas there is now under consideration the disposal of American cotton to the foreign trade below the cost of production and considerably below its cost to this government; and their various proposals a full public hearing could be given the matter.

"Whereas such policy is fraught with the gravest dangers and injustices to the American farmers, American industry and the national economy."

C. OF C. SEEKS TAX RATE SLASH

Senators Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, Pepper, Democrat, Florida, and Mead, Democrat, New York, and Representative Allen, Democrat, Pennsylvania, were reported to have agreed to the suggestion.

Logan said he believed the best program probably would involve government insurance of loans to business and industry by existing banking facilities. He added that "the pressure is so great I expect there will be something done at this session."

The sponsors of the bills said there was a conflict among various government agencies over need for the additional credit facilities.

Chief opposition, they said, was from the federal reserve board and Chairman Jesse Jones of the R. F. C.

Jones has contended that the R. F. C. now provides ample credit facilities for small business, either directly or in cooperation with banks.

Federal reserve spokesmen argue that establishment of any separate system of regional credit banks for little business would duplicate and possibly conflict with the reserve system.

HITLER REJECTS DENUNCIATIONS

Fuehrer Expected To Make Triumphal Entry Into Berlin Today

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Germany tonight promptly rejected British and French denunciations of her conquest of Czecho-Slovakia, declaring they "lacked every political, legal and moral basis."

At the same time Chancellor Hitler called home his ambassador to London, Herbert von Dirksen, "to make a report," reciprocating action taken by Britain yesterday in calling her Berlin envoy back to London.

(France, following Britain's lead, also called her Berlin ambassador home "to report.")

The government announced that its rejection of the British and French denunciations had been delivered to the British and French ambassadors, who earlier in the day had presented notes charging that Germany's course in Czecho-Slovakia was illegal and a violation of the Munich agreement.

These developments occurred as reports of consternation came from European states within arm's reach of the expanding Nazi empire. The foreign office watched the gathering cloud of criticism imperturbably.

While all Europe anxiously watched the lengthening shadow of the swastika, Adolf Hitler rode from Vienna amid tumultous "heils" to a secret stopping place on his way to Berlin. He left to lieutenants the task of imposing the Nazi will on Bohemia-Moravia and ironing out relations with Slovakia, Germany's new protectorates.

The fuehrer was expected to make a triumphal entry into Berlin Sunday.

He named Baron Konstantin von Neurath, former German foreign minister and president of the secret cabinet council, as Reichs-protector of Bohemia-Moravia. Von Neurath, responsible only to the fuehrer, will have supreme power over 7,000,000 Czechs who have become German subjects.

Meanwhile, Rumania feared for her fertile wheat fields and oil wells, alarm was reported in Lithuania, concern was shown in Poland, suspicion grew of a coup d'etat in Danzig and the possibility was mentioned of German aggression against Hungary.

Helmuth Wohlthat, adviser to Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi economic dictator, was in Bucharest, apparently attempting to tighten Germany's economic sway in southeastern Europe.

A government spokesman, however, described as "arrant nonsense" reports that Rumania and Hungary were slated to follow Czecho-Slovakia in Hitler's book of conquests.

(A spokesman for the Rumanian embassy in London said his government had received and rejected a German proposal that Rumania accept virtual German dictation over her economics in return for Nazi guarantees of Rumanian territorial integrity.)

A German spokesman denied there had been any ultimatum to Rumania.

UNITED STATES BOOSTS TARIFF

and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor nations the aggregate sentiments of our own people."

The treasury ordered the extra tariff by imposing what are known as "countervailing duties," effective April 23.

(The tariff act of 1930 provides that such duties shall be levied—in addition to regular tariffs—on any foreign products subsidized, in manufacture or export, by the government of the country of origin.)

The treasury acted after Attorney-General Murphy ruled that German goods imported under barter arrangements should be subject to extra duties.

Officials said the treasury could not say at this time what goods would be affected. It was said, however, that "a substantial part" of imports from Germany would feel the extra duty. The principal imports have been chemicals, toys, medicine, paper and china.

Cotton and other products which Germany cannot readily obtain elsewhere have constituted the bulk of Reich imports from this country.

The administration also, authoritative sources said today, will give complete moral backing to the determined fight by Vladmir S. Hurban, the Czech minister, to prevent his dismembered country's legation here from falling into German hands.

The state department, it was said, will lend the German embassy no assistance whatever in obtaining possession of the legation.

Hurban said he would not turn over the legation until the Czecho-Slovak national asembly by a three-fifths majority approved the merger with Germany.

Since the national assembly no longer exists, it appears the doughty Czech may continue to hold on for some years to come, perhaps coming to preside over the only bit of independent Czech territory in the world.

Germany's only recourse would be to sue before the United States supreme court which, by the constitution, is given original jurisdiction in cases involving ambassadors, public ministers and consuls.

LOCAL 'DRESS-UP' CONTEST STARTS

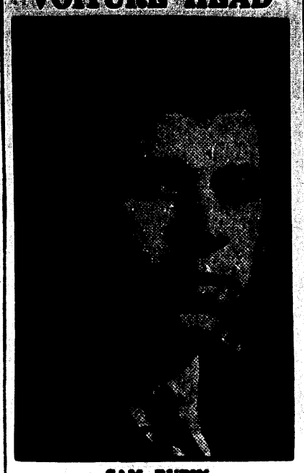
moderate investment in spring clothing, accompanied by good taste, wins out over everything else.

But the thing to do is to get those new clothes, in the most effective and modish styles possible and wear them each day up to April 5, or someone may be deprived of rightfully winning a coveted honor, for last-minute appearance may not always win out with those judges, whose keen, discerning eyes are to be on duty throughout each day and far into the night from now to Wednesday, April 5, so you'd better watch out!

VOITURE HEAD



SAM RUBIN

Officers of voiture No. 168, of the Forty and Eight, American Legion organization, were elected at the meeting held the past week, Sam Rubin being named chef de gare.

The entire list of officers elected, besides Mr. Rubin, was as follows: W. D. Ross, chef de train; A. N. Robinson, conducteur; C. M. Mitchell, correspondant; H. L. Stamets, commis voyageur; Dr. R. L. Wood, medicin; Mike Abraham, drapeur; Oscar Johnson, lampiste; Ernest D. Holloway, aumonier.

Plans were discussed for holding a "wreck" in the near future at Tallulah. Sam Orchard was named as chairman of a committee to effect arrangements with the post there for holding the affair.

TERRIFIC ROAR MADE BY PLUNGE

dergoing tests at low altitudes near Seattle for several days.

Air-speed indicators were jammed at 200 miles an hour when residents of this little mountain town reached the wreckage. Although the ship carried about 3,000 gallons of gasoline, there was no fire. Barr, at the controls, had shut off ignition switches before the plane hit.

The outer left motor fell on a hilltop, 1,000 yards from where the plane landed, about 200 yards from the Tacoma-Mount Rainier highway.

The left wing broke off about 10 feet from the fuselage and between the two left wing motors. One section landed about 200 yards and another about 500 yards from the plane. Bits of wreckage from the tail were scattered over a quarter-mile area and many were gathered up by souvenir hunters.

The plane landed flatly and the bodies were at flight stations throughout the ship with Pilot Barr's body still at the controls.

Witnesses said the plane appeared suddenly out of the clouds and that the sound of its motors died down momentarily.

The motors then seemed to speed up and the plane began a long, crazy spin earthward. The tail assembly apparently broke away during the fall. It struck in a narrow ravine in logged-off land.

"It traveled toward the earth at tremendous speed," said Mrs. L. W. Gilbert of LaGrange. "There was an exceptionally loud noise, not like an explosion but more like a roar.

"It was terrible to stand there and watch it fall. The noise was terrific, even though we were some distance away."

Seattle headquarters of the Boeing Airplane company, which built the $500,000 "Stratoliner," named the victims as:

Julius Barr, Boeing test pilot.
Earl A. Ferguson, Boeing test pilot.
John Kylstra, Boeing engineer.
Ralph L. Cram, Boeing flight engineer and aerodynamics expert.
William Doyle.
Harry West, Boeing flight engineer.
Ben Pearson.
P. Guilonard, assistant general manager of Royal Dutch Airlines.
A. G. von Baumauer, Dutch line.
Harlan Hull, chief test pilot for Transcontinental and Western airways.

The company said an eleventh man, E. B. Kinneman, may have been aboard the plane.

The Stratoliner was the first four-engined transport designed and equipped with cabins and facilities for high altitude operation 20,000 feet or higher, above storms on the earth's surface.

It was to carry 33 passengers by day or 25 in luxurious night accommodations, with a crew of four or five, and had a capacity of two tons of mail and air express.

This plane was the first of 10 to be built. It had a wing span of 107 feet, a length of 74 feet and an overall height of 17 feet, three inches.

One of its innovations was a "supercharged cabin," to provide passengers and crew with "sea-level" air pressure while flying 20,000 feet in the air. This was a sealed cabin, into which air was pumped, creating and automatically maintaining air pressure comparable to that at sea level.

HIGHWAY MASS MEET PLANNED

patches of hardsurfacing have been completed in places on this route by the state highway commission.

A large delegation of business and professional men as well as others interested, will attend the mass meeting in Monticello, it was assured Saturday ,and the date when it will be held will be announced shortly.

It was stated at the Chamber of Commerce that stretches of highway between Columbia and Alexandria that need hardsurfacing will be completed with concrete before the present year ends so that the chief requirement will comprise the completion of the Arkansas highway to give a complete through north and south hardsurfaced route through the states of Arkansas and Louisiana.

DALADIER VOTED DICTATOR POWER

Action Taken To Allow Him To Move As Swiftly As Hitler

PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies voted Premier Daladier unprecedented dictatorial powers tonight as informed quarters disclosed a French-British move to enlist Soviet Russia's aid in a triple front against German economic pressure on Rumania.

The sweeping decree powers Daladier demanded to enable France to move as fast as the dictatorships passed by a vote of 321 to 264 in the chamber. Senate approval at tomorrow's session was considered a foregone conclusion.

In another move to put the nation's defenses in order, the premier called an emergency cabinet session for tomorrow at which members of parliament said he would ask approval of decrees calling to the colors specialists from a number of military service classes.

French sources said meanwhile that King Carol of Rumania had advised Britain and France of his willingness to resist Adolf Hitler's eastward drive if they could provide markets for Rumanian exports, of which Germany now is the greatest purchaser.

The Rumanian monarch was said to have asked Paris and London for a reply within 48 hours on what support they could give against the Nazi drive.

Thereupon the two governments, these sources said, asked Moscow if the Soviet Union would join them in buying from Rumania to block Hitler.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet conferred in quick succession with the Rumanian ambassador, former Premier George Tatarescu, British Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps and Jacob Surits, Soviet ambassador.

The chamber's final vote of approval on the decree powers, which would give Daladier dictatorial rule until November 30, was the fifth vote of confidence received by the premier in a single day's session.

He posed the question of confidence for the fourth time when he asked the chamber to reject a leftist amendment to a bill which would have prevented interference with "public liberty" by decree. The amendment was rejected, 321 votes to 261.

Senators of Daladier's own party, which holds a majority in the senate, already have voted to approve the stringent decree powers.

With senate adoption tomorrow a virtual certainty, it appeared that by Monday Daladier would be in a position to wield more power than any post-war premier of France.

By the terms of the bill he could dissolve political parties, ban public meetings and newspapers, prolong parliament's life or dissolve it, or virtually put France in a state of mobilization without obtaining parliamentary approval.

Daladier refused flatly to give the chamber any definite information on what he proposed to do with the decree powers. He said they were military measures and could not be debated openly.

Through his ministers and through statements he made to deputies of the finance committee, however, this much of his program seemed certain:

1. Reinforcement of France's armed forces by calling the specialists to the colors for the army, navy and air forces.

2. Speeding up production in arms and other war industries by treasury loans and by increasing working hours.

3. Buying war stocks abroad to meet gaps in French production of supplies of war materials.

4. Increasing working hours beyond the 40-hour-a-week limit imposed by the people's front government social laws in industries other than those producing war materials.

In addition to these primary points, the deputies reported that to satisfy his rightist majority, Daladier would prolong the life of the present parliament for two additional years until 1942 and institute a plan of electoral reform advocated by the right.

PITTMAN WANTS CASH FOR ARMS

speedy consideration of their proposal on the floors of congress.

They won the backing of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who said he favored bringing into the senate for debate a resolution introduced by 12 senators.

"I'm for the principle behind this resolution," Borah declared, adding, however, that he believed there must be some revision of it.

The proposed amendment would require an acquiescent vote of the people before congress could declare war, except in case of invasion or threat of invasion of the western hemisphere by a hostile power.

Pittman's resolution provides that the new neutrality program would be invoked within 30 days after "the outbreak of declared or undeclared conflict between foreign states."

Under the existing neutrality law, the president must find that a state of war exists between nations before the act can be invoked.

Pittman told reporters that in his opinion the change proposed in his resolution would apply the new neutrality program to the undeclared Sino-Japanese war. The present act never has been involved as to those hostilities.

The Pittman resolution would give the president authority to proclaim zones through which it would be unlawful for United States citizens to travel.

This provision, he said, would "protect careless citizens who might be injured and involve us in a war."

In the past the administration has been represented as wishing broader authority in administering neutrality legislation. However, Pittman said that his resolution would decrease rather than increase the president's discretionary powers.

His proposal would not apply to civil strife in foreign countries. He said the effect of this would be to permit the sale of arms and other goods to both sides in the Spanish civil war.

The Nevada senator told reporters that he was motivated in drafting the new legislation by five factors, which he outlined as follows:

"1. The injustice in refusing to export arms, ammunition, and implements of war to a country which has few or no munition factories, such as China, while permitting such a country as Japan, which has ample facilities and munition factories to acquire from our country all the necessary materials for manufacturing arms, ammunition, and implements of war.

"2. The necessity to expand the facility and capacity of existing private manufacturies of arms, ammunitions, and implements of war to meet an emergent demand of the United States for such articles and materials.

"3. The impracticability if not impossibility of the government, through its own factories and munition works, increasing capacity and facilities sufficiently rapid to meet the existing emergency.

"4. Because of the unjust, if not unneutral administration of the existing act, unless, in addition to arms, ammunition, and implements of war, the articles and materials used in the manufacture of arms, ammunition and implements of war are also embargoed.

"5. It is evident that in view of increasing surpluses of some of our exports and export products, and the financial and economic conditions in the United States, congress would not vote to embargo all articles and materials used in the manufacture of arms, ammunition, and implements of war."

Several provisions of the existing neutrality act would be re-enacted, including those providing for embargoing credits to designated belligerents, requiring the licensing of arms shipments, preventing the arming of American vessels and prohibiting the use of American ports as bases of supply under certain conditions.

NAZI PRESSURE ON RUMANIA SEVERE

mania's petroleum, which Rumania declined to accept.

Futher negotiations therefore were in order with the Rumanians, impressed by the political developments of the week, open to new suggestions from Germany.

Dr. Wohlthat, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's economic adviser, has been here since early this month. He came to Bucharest to regulate technical problems concerned with payments and the exchange of products between the two countries.

Rumania and other Balkan countries sell vast quantities of food and raw materials to Germany but regard too much such business as unsatisfactory from their point of view because it is almost entirely on a barter basis.

Raw materials are exchanged for manufactured products which Germany has attempted to dump into the Balkans in excess of the needs of the southeastern European states.

A joke current in the Balkans is that each farmer has 10 cameras because cameras are all he can get from Germany for his wheat.

Thus the Balkan nations in the past few years have been trying to sell to the western European democracies and to the United States to avoid being drawn completely into the German economic system.

They want gold and free currencies which Germany cannot supply.

Substantial indications that both France and Britain would buy more from the Balkans have stiffened Balkan resistance to economic domination by Germany.

HUNGARY BLOCKS ROADS AT BORDER

have asked Moscow if the Soviet Union would join them in buying from Rumania to block Hitler.

Germany now is the largest outlet for Rumania's exports.

Moscow kept a close watch on the situation but official comment was lacking.

Hitler himself left Vienna and Berlin prepared a rousing reception Sunday.

Meanwhile Hungarian troops completed occupation of eastern Carpatho-Ukraine and began blocking roads into Rumania to halt all traffic.

Hungarian infantrymen numbering an estimated 200,000 were in eastern Carpatho-Ukraine.

They had orders to speed up pacification of the former Czechoslovak territory. This was interpreted as indicating that they would be urgently needed on the Rumanian frontier.

Central European tension overshadowed the dormant Spanish civil war. While nationalists warned of an offensive to wipe out republican resistance, the Madrid regime declared its readiness to negotiate an "honorable peace" and asked for an immediate nationalist reply.

HUNGARIAN TROOPS BLOCK RUMANIA ROADS

TIVADAR, Carpatho-Ukraine (On the Rumanian Frontier), March 18—(AP)—Hungarian troops tonight completed occupation of eastern Carpatho-Ukraine, facing Rumania, and began blocking roads into Rumania.

The main road in the easternmost sector, seized by a column under Colonel Baron Unger, was blocked with tree trunks and barbed wire to a depth of a quarter of a mile back from the border. Troops dug deep ditches on either side of the road.

An estimated 200,000 Hungarian troops were in eastern Ruthenia alone for an undisclosed purpose.

Excellently uniformed and equipped, they were pouring into the eastern area, where concrete roads facilitate progress even by the heaviest trucks.

The roads were being blocked, it was said, to stop all traffic with Rumania.

The frontier between Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) and Rumania has no fortifications and the highways, built by Czechoslovakia, had been meant for the use of Rumanian reinforcements if Czechoslovakia needed support.

Now Hungary benefits by this system of highways and excellent railway lines.

Carpatho-Ukraine has been almost completely cleared of Czech troops by the fast-moving Hungarian units, but Ukrainian irregular bands hiding in mountain recesses still were holding out.

The vast number of Hungarian troops had orders to speed the pacification of Carpatho-Ukraine. This was interpreted as a sign that they would be urgently needed on the Rumanian frontier.

Large patrols of Hungarian infantrymen were scouring the Rumanian border.

It was learned that Hungary recently had received more than 5,000 trucks from Germany and Italy. She is short of motor vehicles. Thousands of packhorses have been requisitioned from farms and hundreds of peasant carts are moving up to the frontier.

WELCOME EXPECTED BY NAZI SOLDIERS

PRAGUE, March 18.—(AP)—Some German troops expressed amazement today at the icy greeting the Czechs gave them as they occupied Bohemia and Moravia. They said they thought they were coming here to quell a revolution and were surprised that they were not given a great welcome.

The German soldiers—most of them from 18 to 20 years old—have shown good discipline. The khaki of the Czech army is still seen on the streets with the German field gray.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE DISPATCH BITTER NOTES

LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—Britain and France today sent bitter denunciatory notes to Germany for her seizure of Czechoslovakia and acted quickly to block a reported Nazi move against Rumania.

Both nations, it was said on high authority, are trying to persuade Soviet Russia to join them in aiding Rumania to protect herself against a German threat to her independent economic existence.

Acting almost as a team, the two democracies lost no time in moving to cope with Germany's absorption of Czechoslovakia and the threat to Rumania.

Prime Minister Chamberlain rushed back from Birmingham and presided over a momentous 2½-hour cabinet session—the first Saturday session of the cabinet since last year's September crisis.

No official announcement followed the British cabinet meeting, but it was stated authoritatively that the session dealt with a request from Rumania for a statement of Britain's position on the German-Rumanian situation.

Rumania was reported to have received—and then rejected—a virtual ultimatum from Germany to grant the Reich sole access to Rumania's rich oil, grain and other resources in exchange for German "protection" of Rumanian territory.

they can meet strict physical requirements and educational tests.

Other measures to step up training, officials disclosed, include:

Reduction of the army's pilot training course from 12 to 9 months. Some 15 civilian schools, already turning out commercial pilots, will be employed to give the first three months of primary training.

At Randolph and Kelly Fields, Tex., basic and advanced courses will be shortened from four to three months each. Classes will be increased from three to four annually and doubled in size to about 700 students. The immediate aim is to turn out annually 1,000 instead of the approximately 500 flying cadets.

Dr. John W Finch, director of the bureau of mines, warned that political and economic conditions abroad necessitated this country's accumulation of certain national defense minerals.

In a radio address, Finch said America needed a two year's import supply of aluminum, antimony, chromium, manganese, nickel, mercury, tin and tungsten.

"The chaotic political and economic conditions existing in the world today, with their sinister implications of widespread warfare," Finch said, "give added significance to the problem of mineral insufficiency and the needs of national defense."

HITLER'S COUP FULLY PLANNED

Propaganda Campaign Conducted By Nazi Experts In Czechoslovakia

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler's third bloodless territorial acquisition in a year was built on a carefully planned and executed propaganda campaign by Nazi experts in Czechoslovakia.

Spearhead of this high-powered propaganda drive was Ernst Kundt, Czechoslovak deputy who was trained in the Konrad Henlein school which successfully brought Czechoslovakia's Sudeten regions into Germany last autumn.

Behind him were undercover agents and operators. They all had one purpose: To bring Czechoslovak political policies into line with national socialism in preparation for complete Nazi domination as Austria had been prepared for union with expanding Germany.

Events of the last few months in their chronological order show the success of the propaganda campaign which opened the way for German troops into Bohemia and Moravia March 15.

Kundt, who cooperated fully with Henlein while heading the German delegation in the Czechoslovak parliament, was left inside Czechoslovakia to lead the Nazi campaign after the Munich accord September 29.

Appointment of Frantisek Chvalkovsky as Prague's foreign minister placed a pro-Nazi at the controls of Czech diplomacy.

As undercover agents met in Czech cities under swastika banners, the steam-roller movement gained momentum.

Kundt received "a large sum" of money to distribute among needy Germans in Czechoslovakia. Jewish films were banned. Press censorship, already rigid under the Czechs, became Nazi-like in its prohibition of any publications "unfriendly or unfavorable to Germany."

Prague university was "Aryanized." Jews became a minority. "Mein Kampf," Hitler's autobiography, translated into Czech appeared in Prague bookshops. Free entry of all German publications was permitted.

Kundt's first movements were mild, his speech restrained. But as the movement gained adherents, even among the Czechs, he launched out until finally his full program was disclosed.

On February 13 this 42-year-old, Hitler-mustachioed exponent of Nazism said:

"The position of Germans in Czechoslovakia is unbearable. Certain Czech circles have learned nothing from the events of 1938. Germandom in Czechoslovakia is the concern of the German Reich."

To many outside Germany this seemed biased, if not provocative. They knew Germans had forced the Czech government to accept many tenets of naziism. They had created railway and highway lines across Czechoslovakia over which even German troops could pass.

They were in the process of consolidating trade and monetary agreements favorable to Germany. Chvalkovsky's foreign policy was in harmony with the Reich's.

Then an internal fight within the Czechoslovak state arose between Prague and Joseph Tiso, premier of autonomous Slovakia.

Even while Germany was declaring officially that she was "uninterested," Nazi agents in Bratislava were bringing their activities to a finish. Tiso was displaced by Karl Sidor as premier on accusations of encouraging separatist agitation. But Tiso remained the white hope of the Germans.

Ferdinand Durcansky, ousted by Prague from a cabinet post along with Tiso, was given use of a Vienna Nazi radio station to attack the Sidor government. Slovakia declared her independence of Prague. Carpatho-Ukraine, third part of the federal state, tried to follow suit.

At this propitious moment, Kundt again stepped forth, borrowing a page from the story of Sudetenland.

First rumors, then reports and finally flat assertions accused the Czechs of "terrorism" against Germans. Casualties were said to be mounting and Hitler, "protector of all Germans," was "forced" to intervene.

President Emil Hacha came to Berlin. The Nazi fuehrer told him what to expect and the Czech state ceased to exist the same morning.

German troops rolled into Bohemia and Moravia. Like lightning a protectorate under the swastika was set up with the German army in control.

GEORGE OPPOSES LOW LINT SALES

Senator Against Selling Cotton To Other Nations Below Cost

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—Senator George, Democrat, Georgia, announced today he would ask the senate to go on record in opposition to selling American cotton to foreign buyers below cost to the government.

The Georgia senator said he would introduce Monday a resolution declaring the senate's sentiment to be against foreign sales at reduced prices.

Secretary Wallace has been reported considering export subsidies for cotton in an effort to retain this country's foreign markets and reduce current surpluses.

President Roosevelt, at a press conference Friday, said the administration was seeking some way of disposing of the huge cotton surplus in this country. More than 11,000,000 bales of this are under government loans with $500,000,000 invested.

Officials said powers now in the hands of Secretary Wallace would permit export subsidy operations without additional congressional legislation.

Southern senators have opposed any release of the loan stocks at this time, contending it would lower cotton prices and would compete with the new crop.

George's proposed resolution declared:

"That it is the sense of the senate that pending this world crisis no American cotton be sold to foreign purchasers at a price below the actual cost of said cotton to the government of the United States, and that the secretary of agriculture is directed to negotiate no sales of American cotton to the foreign trade below its cost to this government without the approval of the congress."

At present market prices, no loan cotton could be released under the George resolution. The government has an average of more than 9 cents a pound invested in the cotton, which is considerably above market prices.

Calling attention to the present "international crisis," the George resolution was prefaced by the following:

"Whereas the market for American cotton is rapidly becoming demoralized; and

"Whereas cotton is a vital commodity to national defense; and

"Whereas the United States government is in possession of the largest quantity of raw cotton in the world; and

"Whereas there is now under consideration the disposal of American cotton to the foreign trade below the cost of production and considerably below its cost to this government; and

"Whereas such policy is fraught with the gravest dangers and injustices to the American farmers, American industry and the national economy."

C. OF C. SEEKS TAX RATE SLASH

Senators Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, Pepper, Democrat, Florida, and Mead, Democrat, New York, and Representative Allen, Democrat, Pennsylvania, were reported to have agreed to the suggestion.

Logan said he believed the best program probably would involve government insurance of loans to business and industry by existing banking facilities. He added that "the pressure is so great I expect there will be something done at this session."

The sponsors of the bills said there was a conflict among various government agencies over need for the additional credit facilities.

Chief opposition, they said, was from the federal reserve board and Chairman Jesse Jones of the R. F. C.

Jones has contended that the R. F. C. now provides ample credit facilities for small business, either directly or in cooperation with banks.

Federal reserve spokesmen argue that establishment of any separate system of regional credit banks for little business would duplicate and possibly conflict with the reserve system.

HITLER REJECTS DENUNCIATIONS

Fuehrer Expected To Make Triumphal Entry Into Berlin Today

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—Germany tonight promptly rejected British and French denunciations of her conquest of Czecho-Slovakia, declaring they "lacked every political, legal and moral basis."

At the same time Chancellor Hitler called home his ambassador to London, Herbert von Dirksen, "to make a report," reciprocating action taken by Britain yesterday in calling her Berlin envoy back to London.

(France, following Britain's lead, also called her Berlin ambassador home "to report.")

The government announced that its rejection of the British and French denunciations had been delivered to the British and French ambassadors, who earlier in the day had presented notes charging that Germany's course in Czecho-Slovakia was illegal and a violation of the Munich agreement.

These developments occurred as reports of consternation came from European states within arm's reach of the expanding Nazi empire. The foreign office watched the gathering cloud of criticism imperturbably.

While all Europe anxiously watched the lengthening shadow of the swastika, Adolf Hitler rode from Vienna amid tumultous "heils" to a secret stopping place on his way to Berlin. He left to lieutenants the task of imposing the Nazi will on Bohemia-Moravia and ironing out relations with Slovakia, Germany's new protectorates.

The fuehrer was expected to make a triumphal entry into Berlin Sunday.

He named Baron Konstantin von Neurath, former German foreign minister and president of the secret cabinet council, as Reichs-protector of Bohemia-Moravia. Von Neurath, responsible only to the fuehrer, will have supreme power over 7,000,000 Czechs who have become German subjects.

Meanwhile, Rumania feared for her fertile wheat fields and oil wells, alarm was reported in Lithuania, concern was shown in Poland, suspicion grew of a coup d'etat in Danzig and the possibility was mentioned of German aggression against Hungary.

Helmuth Wohlthat, adviser to Field Marshall Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Nazi economic dictator, was in Bucharest, apparently attempting to tighten Germany's economic sway in southeastern Europe.

A government spokesman, however, described as "arrant nonsense" reports that Rumania and Hungary were slated to follow Czecho-Slovakia in Hitler's book of conquests.

(A spokesman for the Rumanian embassy in London said his government had received and rejected a German proposal that Rumania accept virtual German dictation over her economics in return for Nazi guarantees of Rumanian territorial integrity.)

A German spokesman denied there had been any ultimatum to Rumania.

UNITED STATES BOOSTS TARIFF

and more effective than mere words, of bringing home to aggressor nations the aggregate sentiments of our own people."

The treasury ordered the extra tariff by imposing what are known as "countervailing duties," effective April 23.

(The tariff act of 1930 provides that such duties shall be levied—in addition to regular tariffs—on any foreign products subsidized, in manufacture or export, by the government of the country of origin.)

The treasury acted after Attorney-General Murphy ruled that German goods imported under barter arrangements should be subject to extra duties.

Officials said the treasury could not say at this time what goods would be affected. It was said, however, that "a substantial part" of imports from Germany would feel the extra duty. The principal imports have been chemicals, toys, medicine, paper and china.

Cotton and other products which Germany cannot readily obtain elsewhere have constituted the bulk of Reich imports from this country.

The administration also, authoritative sources said today, will give complete moral backing to the determined fight by Vladmir S. Hurban, the Czech minister, to prevent his dismembered country's legation here from falling into German hands.

The state department, it was said, will lend the German embassy no assistance whatever in obtaining possession of the legation.

Hurban said he would not turn over the legation until the Czecho-Slovak national asembly by a three-fifths majority approved the merger with Germany.

Since the national assembly no longer exists, it appears the doughty Czech may continue to hold on for some years to come, perhaps coming to preside over the only bit of independent Czech territory in the world.

Germany's only recourse would be to sue before the United States supreme court which, by the constitution, is given original jurisdiction in cases involving ambassadors, public ministers and consuls.

SAM RUBIN

Officers of voiture No. 168, of the Forty and Eight, American Legion organization, were elected at the meeting held the past week, Sam Rubin being named chef de gare.

The entire list of officers elected, besides Mr. Rubin, was as follows: W. D. Ross, chef de train; A. N. Robinson, conducteur; C. M. Mitchell, correspondant; H. L. Stamets, commis voyageur; Dr. R. L. Wood, medicin; Mike Abraham, drapeur; Oscar Johnson, lampiste; Ernest D. Holloway, aumonier.

Plans were discussed for holding a "wreck" in the near future at Tallulah. Sam Orchard was named as chairman of a committee to effect arrangements with the post there for holding the affair.

dergoing tests at low altitudes near Seattle for several days.

Air-speed indicators were jammed at 200 miles an hour when residents of this little mountain town reached the wreckage. Although the ship carried about 3,000 gallons of gasoline, there was no fire. Barr, at the controls, had shut off ignition switches before the plane hit.

The outer left motor fell on a hilltop, 1,000 yards from where the plane landed, about 200 yards from the Tacoma-Mount Rainier highway.

The left wing broke off about 10 feet from the fuselage and between the two left wing motors. One section landed about 200 yards and another about 500 yards from the plane. Bits of wreckage from the tail were scattered over a quarter-mile area and many were gathered up by souvenir hunters.

The plane landed flatly and the bodies were at flight stations throughout the ship with Pilot Barr's body still at the controls.

Witnesses said the plane appeared suddenly out of the clouds and that the sound of its motors died down momentarily.

The motors then seemed to speed up and the plane began a long, crazy spin earthward. The tail assembly apparently broke away during the fall. It struck in a narrow ravine in logged-off land.

"It traveled toward the earth at tremendous speed," said Mrs. L. W. Gilbert of LaGrange. "There was an exceptionally loud noise, not like an explosion but more like a roar.

"It was terrible to stand there and watch it fall. The noise was terrific, even though we were some distance away."

Seattle headquarters of the Boeing Airplane company, which built the $500,000 "Stratoliner," named the victims as:

Julius Barr, Boeing test pilot.
Earl A. Ferguson, Boeing test pilot.
John Kylstra, Boeing engineer.
Ralph L. Cram, Boeing flight engineer and aerodynamics expert.
William Doyle.
Harry West, Boeing flight engineer.
Ben Pearson.
P. Guilonard, assistant general manager of Royal Dutch Airlines.
A. G. von Baumauer, Dutch line.
Harlan Hull, chief test pilot for Transcontinental and Western airways.

The company said an eleventh man, E. B. Kinneman, may have been aboard the plane.

The Stratoliner was the first four-engined transport designed and equipped with cabins and facilities for high altitude operation 20,000 feet or higher, above storms on the earth's surface.

It was to carry 33 passengers by day or 25 in luxurious night accommodations, with a crew of four or five, and had a capacity of two tons of mail and air express.

This plane was the first of 10 to be built. It had a wing span of 107 feet, a length of 74 feet and an overall height of 17 feet, three inches.

One of its innovations was a "supercharged cabin," to provide passengers and crew with "sea-level" air pressure while flying 20,000 feet in the air. This was a sealed cabin, into which air was pumped, creating and automatically maintaining air pressure comparable to that at sea level.

patches of hardsurfacing have been completed in places on this route by the state highway commission.

A large delegation of business and professional men as well as others interested, will attend the mass meeting in Monticello, it was assured Saturday, and the date when it will be held will be announced shortly.

It was stated at the Chamber of Commerce that stretches of highway between Columbia and Alexandria that need hardsurfacing will be completed with concrete before the present year ends so that the chief requirement will comprise the completion of the Arkansas highway to give a complete through north and south hardsurfaced route through the states of Arkansas and Louisiana.

DALADIER VOTED DICTATOR POWER

Action Taken To Allow Him To Move As Swiftly As Hitler

PARIS, March 18.—(AP)—The chamber of deputies voted Premier Daladier unprecedented dictatorial powers tonight as informed quarters disclosed a French-British move to enlist Soviet Russia's aid in a triple front against German economic pressure on Rumania.

The sweeping decree powers Daladier demanded to enable France to move as fast as the dictatorships passed by a vote of 321 to 264 in the chamber. Senate approval at tomorrow's session was considered a foregone conclusion.

In another move to put the nation's defenses in order, the premier called an emergency cabinet session for tomorrow at which members of parliament said he would ask approval of decrees calling to the colors specialists from a number of military service classes.

French sources said meanwhile that King Carol of Rumania had advised Britain and France of his willingness to resist Adolf Hitler's eastward drive if they could provide markets for Rumanian exports, of which Germany now is the greatest purchaser.

The Rumanian monarch was said to have asked Paris and London for a reply within 48 hours on what support they could give against the Nazi drive.

Thereupon the two governments, these sources said, asked Moscow if the Soviet Union would join them in buying from Rumania to block Hitler.

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet conferred in quick succession with the Rumanian ambassador, former Premier George Tatarescu, British Ambassador Sir Eric Phipps and Jacob Surits, Soviet ambassador.

The chamber's final vote of approval on the decree powers, which would give Daladier dictatorial rule until November 30, was the fifth vote of confidence received by the premier in a single day's session.

He posed the question of confidence for the fourth time when he asked the chamber to reject a leftist amendment to a bill which would have prevented interference with "public liberty" by decree. The amendment was rejected, 321 votes to 261.

Senators of Daladier's own party, which holds a majority in the senate, already have voted to approve the stringent decree powers.

With senate adoption tomorrow a virtual certainty, it appeared that by Monday Daladier would be in a position to wield more power than any post-war premier of France.

By the terms of the bill he could dissolve political parties, ban public meetings and newspapers, prolong parliament's life or dissolve it, or virtually put France in a state of mobilization without obtaining parliamentary approval.

Daladier refused flatly to give the chamber any definite information on what he proposed to do with the decree powers. He said they were military measures and could not be debated openly.

Through his ministers and through statements he made to deputies of the finance committee, however, this much of his program seemed certain:

1. Reinforcement of France's armed forces by calling the specialists to the colors for the army, navy and air forces.

2. Speeding up production in arms and other war industries by treasury loans and by increasing working hours.

3. Buying war stocks abroad to meet gaps in French production of supplies of war materials.

4. Increasing working hours beyond the 40-hour-a-week limit imposed by the people's front government social laws in industries other than those producing war materials.

In addition to these primary points, the deputies reported that to satisfy his rightist majority, Daladier would prolong the life of the present parliament for two additional years until 1942 and institute a plan of electoral reform advocated by the right.

speedy consideration of their proposal on the floors of congress.

They won the backing of Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who said he favored bringing into the senate for debate a resolution introduced by 12 senators.

"I'm for the principle behind this resolution," Borah declared, adding, however, that he believed there must be some revision of it.

The proposed amendment would require an acquiescent vote of the people before congress could declare war, except in case of invasion or threat of invasion of the western hemisphere by a hostile power.

Pittman's resolution provides that the new neutrality program would be invoked within 30 days after "the outbreak of declared or undeclared conflict between foreign states."

Under the existing neutrality law, the president must find that a state of war exists between nations before the act can be invoked.

Pittman told reporters that in his opinion the change proposed in his resolution would apply the new neutrality program to the undeclared Sino-Japanese war. The present act never has been invoked as to those hostilities.

The Pittman resolution would give the president authority to proclaim zones through which it would be unlawful for United States citizens to travel.

This provision, he said, would "protect careless citizens who might be injured and involve us in a war."

In the past the administration has been represented as wishing broader authority in administering neutrality legislation. However, Pittman said that his resolution would decrease rather than increase the president's discretionary powers.

His proposal would not apply to civil strife in foreign countries. He said the effect of this would be to permit the sale of arms and other goods to both sides in the Spanish civil war.

The Nevada senator told reporters that he was motivated in drafting the new legislation by five factors, which he outlined as follows:

"1. The injustice in refusing to export arms, ammunition, and implements of war to a country which has few or no munition factories, such as China, while permitting such a country as Japan, which has ample facilities and munition factories to acquire from our country all the necessary materials for manufacturing arms, ammunition, and implements of war.

"2. The necessity to expand the facility and capacity of existing private manufacturies of arms, ammunitions, and implements of war to meet an emergent demand of the United States for such articles and materials.

"3. The impracticability if not impossibility of the government, through its own factories and munition works, increasing capacity and facilities sufficiently rapid to meet the existing emergency.

"4. Because of the unjust, if not unneutral administration of the existing act, unless, in addition to arms, ammunition, and implements of war, the articles and materials used in the manufacture of arms, ammunition and implements of war are also embargoed.

"5. It is evident that in view of increasing surpluses of some of our exports and export products, and the financial and economic conditions in the United States, congress would not vote to embargo all articles and materials used in the manufacture of arms, ammunition, and implements of war."

Several provisions of the existing neutrality act would be re-enacted, including those providing for embargoing credits to designated belligerents, requiring the licensing of arms shipments, preventing the arming of American vessels and prohibiting the use of American ports as bases of supply under certain conditions.

mania's petroleum, which Rumania declined to accept.

Futher negotiations therefore were in order with the Rumanians, impressed by the political developments of the week, open to new suggestions from Germany.

Dr. Wohlthat, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering's economic adviser, has been here since early this month. He came to Bucharest to regulate technical problems concerned with payments and the exchange of products between the two countries.

Rumania and other Balkan countries sell vast quantities of food and raw materials to Germany but regard too much such business as unsatisfactory from their point of view because it is almost entirely on a barter basis.

Raw materials are exchanged for manufactured products which Germany has attempted to dump into the Balkans in excess of the needs of the southeastern European states.

A joke current in the Balkans is that each farmer has 10 cameras because cameras are all he can get from Germany for his wheat.

Thus the Balkan nations in the past few years have been trying to sell to the western European democracies and to the United States to avoid being drawn completely into the German economic system.

They want gold and free currencies which Germany cannot supply.

Substantial indications that both France and Britain would buy more from the Balkans have stiffened Balkan resistance to economic domination by Germany.

"The communication from the defense council to the nationalist government is:

HUNGARY BLOCKS ROADS AT BORDER

have asked Moscow if the Soviet Union would join them in buying from Rumania to block Hitler.

Germany now is the largest outlet for Rumania's exports.

Moscow kept a close watch on the situation but official comment was lacking.

Hitler himself left Vienna and Berlin prepared a rousing reception Sunday.

Meanwhile Hungarian troops completed occupation of eastern Carpatho-Ukraine and began blocking roads into Rumania to halt all traffic.

Hungarian infantrymen numbering an estimated 200,000 were in eastern Carpatho-Ukraine.

They had orders to speed up pacification of the former Czechoslovak territory. This was interpreted as indicating that they would be urgently needed on the Rumanian frontier.

Central European tension overshadowed the dormant Spanish civil war. While nationalists warned of an offensive to wipe out republican resistance, the Madrid regime declared its readiness to negotiate an "honorable peace" and asked for an immediate nationalist reply.

WELCOME EXPECTED BY NAZI SOLDIERS

PRAGUE, March 18.—(AP)—Some German troops expressed amazement today at the icy greeting the Czechs gave them as they occupied Bohemia and Moravia. They said they thought they were coming here to quell a revolution and were surprised that they were not given a great welcome.

The German soldiers—most of them from 18 to 20 years old—have shown good discipline. The khaki of the Czech army is still seen on the streets with the German field gray.

HUNGARIAN TROOPS BLOCK RUMANIA ROADS

TIVADAR, Carpatho-Ukraine (On the Rumanian Frontier), March 18.—(AP)—Hungarian troops tonight completed occupation of eastern Carpatho-Ukraine, facing Rumania, and began blocking roads into Rumania.

The main road in the easternmost sector, seized by a column under Colonel Baron Unger, was blocked with tree trunks and barbed wire to a depth of a quarter of a mile back from the border. Troops dug deep ditches on either side of the road.

An estimated 200,000 Hungarian troops were in eastern Ruthenia alone for an undisclosed purpose.

Excellently uniformed and equipped, they were pouring into the eastern area, where concrete roads facilitate progress even by the heaviest trucks.

The roads were being blocked, it was said, to stop all traffic with Rumania.

The frontier between Carpatho-Ukraine (Ruthenia) and Rumania has no fortifications and the highways, built by Czechoslovakia, had been meant for the use of Rumanian reinforcements if Czechoslovakia needed support.

Now Hungary benefits by this system of highways and excellent railway lines.

Carpatho-Ukraine has been almost completely cleared of Czech troops by the fast-moving Hungarian units, but Ukrainian irregular bands hiding in mountain recesses still were holding out.

The vast number of Hungarian troops had orders to speed the pacification of Carpatho-Ukraine. This was interpreted as a sign that they would be urgently needed on the Rumanian frontier.

Large patrols of Hungarian infantrymen were scouring the Rumanian border.

It was learned that Hungary recently had received more than 5,000 trucks from Germany and Italy. She is short of motor vehicles. Thousands of packhorses have been requisitioned from farms and numbers of peasant carts are moving up to the frontier.

BRITAIN AND FRANCE DISPATCH BITTER NOTES

LONDON, March 18.—(AP)—Britain and France today sent bitter denunciatory notes to Germany for her seizure of Czechoslovakia and acted quickly to block a reported Nazi move against Rumania.

Both nations, it was said on high authority, are trying to persuade Soviet Russia to join them in aiding Rumania to protect herself against a German threat to her independent economic existence.

Acting almost as a team, the two democracies lost no time in moving to cope with Germany's absorption of Czechoslovakia and the threat to Rumania.

Prime Minister Chamberlain rushed back from Birmingham and presided over a momentous 2½-hour cabinet session—the first Saturday session of the cabinet since last year's September crisis.

No official announcement followed the British cabinet meeting, but it was stated authoritatively that the session dealt with a request from Rumania for a statement of Britain's position on the German-Rumanian situation.

Rumania was reported to have received—and then rejected—a virtual ultimatum from Germany to grant the Reich sole access to Rumania's rich oil, grain and other resources in exchange for German "protection" of Rumanian territory.

they can meet strict physical requirements and educational tests.

Other measures to step up training, officials disclosed, include:

Reduction of the army's pilot training course from 12 to 9 months. Some 15 civilian schools, already turning out commercial pilots, will be employed to give the first three months of primary training.

At Randolph and Kelly Fields, Tex., basic and advanced courses will be shortened from four to three months each. Classes will be increased from three to four annually and doubled in size to about 700 students. The immediate aim is to turn out annually 1,000 instead of the approximately 500 flying cadets.

Dr. John W. Finch, director of the bureau of mines, warned that political and economic conditions abroad necessitated this country's accumulation of certain national defense minerals.

In a radio address, Finch said America needed a two year's import supply of aluminum, antimony, chromium, manganese, nickel, mercury, tin and tungsten.

"The chaotic political and economic conditions existing in the world today, with their sinister implications of widespread warfare," Finch said, "give added significance to the problem of mineral insufficiency and the needs of national defense."

BUOY MARKINGS AGAIN PROPOSED

Colmer Wants U. S. To Show Boundary Between Louisiana And Mississippi

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—For a second time, the department of commerce has expressed opposition to proposed legislation to require the government to mark the boundary line between Mississippi and Louisiana with buoys.

Representative William M. Colmer, Democrat, Mississippi, author of two bills to authorize the commissioner of lighthouses to mark portions of the Pearl river and of the Pearl river-Cat island channel said today he had been advised the government would do the actual work provided the state paid expenses.

An unfavorable report on Colmer's bills was made last year on the same theory—that such legislation would mark a departure from the policy of the government.

In a letter to George R. Smith, attorney for the Mississippi seafood commission, Gulfport, Colmer said;

"I have discussed this matter with Senator Bilbo, who was also interested, and we have concluded that in view of the adverse report of the department it would be impossible to get the legislation through."

The unfavorable report was sent to Chairman Bland of the house committee on merchant marine and fisheries, by J. M. Johnson, acting secretary of commerce, on the basis of studies made by H. D. King, commissioner of lighthouses.

King, reviewing the bills, estimated the extent of the boundary line proposed to be marked at approximately 40 miles, of which about 15 are in the Pearl river and about 25 miles through Lake Borgne and Mississippi sound from the mouth of Pearl river to Cat island channel.

"The placing of buoys or other sea marks to indicate the location of the boundary between political subdivisions of the United States is not considered to come within the duly authorized functions of the lighthouse service, which is charged with the establishment and maintenance of lighthouses, beacons, buoys, etc., as aids to navigation," King said, adding, "That is, for safeguarding and facilitating the navigation of vessels in the waters of or adjacent to the United States."

The proposed legislation, he said, "is primarily for the interest and benefit of the two states affected and would not serve a purpose for which the lighthouse service or the federal government has a responsibility."

He said that while the Colmer bills would carry an appropriation of funds and confer requisite authority upon the lighthouse service to do the marking, the effect of the legislation might be to establish a precedent, "in view of the possible demand for federal assistance in marking others of the large number of boundary lines between states and other political subdivisions."

"It does not appear," King continued, "that there are other instances where such boundaries have been marked by and at the expense of the United States, although in some cases there may have been cooperation by a federal agency, such as the coast and geodetic survey, without incurring additional expense."

King searched back records which disclosed that the question of marking a portion of the Mississippi-Louisiana boundary came before the commerce department back in 1908 following enactment of legislation "to provide for the buoying and marking of the water boundaries between the states of Louisiana and Mississippi from the mouth of the Pearl river to the Gulf of Mexico, as fixed by the decree of the supreme court of the United States."

King said the records show that cooperation was furnished by the coast and geodetic survey and the lighthouse service of the commerce department, "but that the lighthouse service was not authorized to incur expense."

King offered the lighthouse service's cooperation—"the furnishing of information and advice to the state authorities * * * and the work of placing buoys, provided it were reimbursed by the interested states for the expense incurred by it."

He said the service also would grant authority to the states for establishment and maintenance of the buoys "the same as is now done in the case of a similar situation as respects the boundary between the states of Maryland and Virginia and on the eastern shore of Chesapeake bay where the states concerned establish and maintain the buoyage."

King said even were the legislation enacted "there would also be involved the important function of determining the location and course of the boundary line, for which the lighthouse service does not have facilities."

● SERIAL STORY

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES

COPYRIGHT, 1939, NEA SERVICE, INC

CHAPTER VII

It was late in September that Susie, still unaware that her cry had been heard and heeded, was gently guided toward her destiny. Afterward she remembered the date and called it her birthday because that was the day she began to live.

She was tending her waffle irons, not thinking, Susie seldom thought any more, when two girls entered the shop and sat at the counter near her. One of the girls, Susie had heard her called Dottie, was proudly initiating the other, obviously a newcomer, into the joys of the Waffle Shoppe.

"Susie's waffles simply melt in your mouth," Dottie said. And, to show her familiarity, added, "How do you make them, Susie? I'd like the recipe."

Susie had been asked a hundred times for the recipe and always she gave it, up to a certain point. There was a little trick about making waffles that she had learned from her mother. The little trick meant money to Susie. She guarded her secret even from the manager. Taking a typewritten slip from the cupboard she handed it to Dotty.

"Don't grease the iron," she said mechanically. "Have it very hot." Her voice was dull, flat. Dottie thanked her and she and her friend chatted on. The girls did not know, nor did Susie, that the fates had chosen them for hand-maidens, that they would move into the radius of Susie's life long enough to change it, then be gone forever, their usefulnes ended.

After finishing their waffles the girls turned to scanning a Chicago paper, reading the football lineups and schedules, looking for familiar names. As far as Susie was concerned they had already gone. She heard their conversation, but it drifted across her tired, discouraged mind without making any special impression.

Turning the page Dottie glanced at the Harker smash advertisement, exclaiming over the smart, cleverly drawnsketches. Suddenly she laughed, pointing to a boxed notice in the center of the layout. Dottie read, "Would you like to be beautiful?" Then both girls laughed. They were both beautiful swans and they knew it.

"We should show this to Florence," Dotty said. "She could certainly use a little beauty."

"Just try it and see how quick your head comes off," her friend returned. Taking a compact from her purse she daintily touched her lips with crimson. "Wouldn't it be terrible to be homely?" she asked, looking complacently into the mirror.

"Terrible," Dottie agreed, without the slightest conception of how terrible it could be. They wandered out of the shop, leaving the paper behind them.

Straightening the counter, Susie picked up the paper. About to toss it aside, she hesitated. There it was again, the fates at her elbow. Indifferently she scanned the paper. Several times her eyes passed over the Harker page, always coming back. Gradually the import made a dent in her consciousness and she read the notice through.

"Harker's wants to prove that any woman can be beautiful, alluring, desirable. If you doubt us please write a letter telling us why. Tell us what it has meant to you to be unattractive. Without obligation or expense the writer of the best letter will be beautified by Harker's."

Reading the advertisement, Susie's breathing quickened. Silly, of course. No one could make her beautiful, not even Harker's to prove their point. She guessed she'd write and tell them so. They didn't want a homely girl, they simply wanted to make a pretty girl prettier.

In spite of the argument Susie was a little excited. At last some one had noticed the unattractive girl. Beauty contests were old, this was—, well, this was exciting. All afternoon a letter to Harker's ran through her mind, the idea of winning the contest did not occur to her. The letter was to be a flat denial of Harker's claims from one who knew.

Again and again she read the advertisement. The model, they called the girl a model just as in the beauty contests, was to be given advice and treatment by Harker's experienced cosmeticians, the gymnasium and a physical director would be at her disposal. When the miracle was wrought she would be gowned by Harker, hatted and booted by Harker. The letters were to be written to John Harker.

By 10 o'clock, when Susie went home, she had not only mentally written her letter, she had made up her mind that she must be the girl.

"No other girl needs it like I do," she thought desperately. "No other girl has suffered so from being homely."

She wrote her letter six times before being satisfied. Among other things she wrote, "You have a comforting theory, but it can't be done. If you could but see me you would know. I am one of those unfortunate individuals who was born an ugly duckling and must remain so." Then she added the line which was to touch John Harker's heart: "I once said that I would give my hope of heaven and all the rest of my life to be beautiful for one year. I meant it then and I mean it now."

Susie dispatched her letter. She had wild thoughts of going to Chicago, of seeing John Harker personally, begging him to try. One moment she was hopeful, the next mirthlessly amused at her own impertinance. She would have worried less had she known that the fates had gone to considerable trouble to bring about this exact state of affairs and that her number was up even before she wrote the letter.

While Susie waited, thrilled in spite of herself, the letters rolled into John Harker's office, hundreds of them, thousands of them. The job of sorting and reading was turned over to Jeff Bowman and ten helpers. The letters were readily weeded out, the big majority palpably being from young women who saw a chance to secure a free makeup and an outfit of clothes.

After a strenuous week 100 letters were placed on John Harker's desk. He and Clifford Kane went through them. Three hours later 95 hopeful messages had been discarded, the other five applications were taken under advisement. Kane, none too enthusiastic over the scheme, suggested they choose one of the five blindly and go ahead. He was definitely opposed to Susie whom Harker favored.

Jeff Bowman, chancing into the office, settled the matter. "Why not do a little quiet investigating?" he inquired. "Let's look up all five, then we'll be sure."

"In my mind Susie is our girl," Harker insisted, holding her letter in his hand. "She'd give her hope of heaven to be beautiful for one year. Isn't that pathetic? Isn't that terrible? Women are supposed to be lovely, that's their chief function in life. This girl realizes that, she suffers—it's terrible, I tell you."

"Sure it's terrible, Chief," Jeff agreed, "but I still hold out for an investigation. Naturally we can't fight deformities. Your friend Susie tells us nothing of her background, not even her age. You can't go at this thing blind, you can't send for Susie and then disappoint her."

Kane shrugged wearily, at the same time eyeing Jeff with animosity. The young fool had too much authority, too much influence over the Chief. One of these days he'd succeed in getting Jeff fired.

"Go see about tomorrow's copy, Jeff," he said curtly. "Mr. Harker and I can figure this out."

"Stay right where you are," Harker interposed as Jeff started for the door. "You're right about this thing. Do a little sleuthing in your own way and bring the report to me. After that we'll decide—on Susie." He laughed good-naturedly.

BUOY MARKINGS AGAIN PROPOSED

Colmer Wants U. S. To Show Boundary Between Louisiana And Mississippi

By Ernest B. Vaccaro

WASHINGTON, March 18.—(AP)—For a second time, the department of commerce has expressed opposition to proposed legislation to require the government to mark the boundary line between Mississippi and Louisiana with buoys.

He said that while the Colmer bills would carry an appropriation of funds and confer requisite authority upon the lighthouse service to do the marking, the effect of the legislation might be to establish a precedent, "in view of the possible demand for federal assistance in marking others of the large number of boundary lines between states and other political subdivisions."

"It does not appear," King continued, "that there are other instances where such boundaries have been marked by and at the expense of the United States, although in some cases there may have been cooperation by a federal agency, such as the coast and geodetic survey, without incurring additional expense."

King searched back records which disclosed that the question of marking a portion of the Mississippi-Louisiana boundary came before the commerce department back in 1908 following enactment of legislation "to provide for the buoying and marking of the water boundaries between the states of Louisiana and Mississippi from the mouth of the Pearl river to the Gulf of Mexico, as fixed by the decree of the supreme court of the United States."

King said the records show that cooperation was furnished by the coast and geodetic survey and the lighthouse service of the commerce department, "but that the lighthouse service was not authorized to incur expense."

King offered the lighthouse service's cooperation—"the furnishing of information and advice to the state authorities * * * and the work of placing buoys, provided it were reimbursed by the interested states for the expense incurred by it."

He said the service also would grant authority to the states for establishment and maintenance of the buoys "the same as is now done in the case of a similar situation as respects the boundary between the states of Maryland and Virginia and on the eastern shore of Chesapeake bay where the states concerned establish and maintain the buoyage."

King said even were the legislation enacted "there would also be involved the important function of determining the location and course of the boundary line, for which the lighthouse service does not have facilities."

WOMEN WANT BEAUTY!

BY LOUISE HOLMES

CHAPTER VII

It was late in September that Susie, still unaware that her cry had been heard and heeded, was gently guided toward her destiny. Afterward she remembered the date and called it her birthday because that was the day she began to live.

She was tending her waffle irons, not thinking, Susie seldom thought any more, when two girls entered the shop and sat at the counter near her. One of the girls, Susie had heard her called Dottie, was proudly initiating the other, obviously a newcomer, into the joys of the Waffle Shoppe.

"Susie's waffles simply melt in your mouth," Dottie said. And, to show her familiarity, added, "How do you make them, Susie? I'd like the recipe."

Susie had been asked a hundred times for the recipe and always she gave it, up to a certain point. There was a little trick about making waffles that she had learned from her mother. The little trick meant money to Susie. She guarded her secret even from the manager. Taking a typewritten slip from the cupboard she handed it to Dotty.

"Don't grease the iron," she said mechanically. "Have it very hot." Her voice was dull, flat. Dottie thanked her and she and her friend chatted on. The girls did not know, nor did Susie, that the fates had chosen them for hand-maidens, that they would move into the radius of Susie's life long enough to change it, then be gone forever, their usefulnes ended.

After finishing their waffles the girls turned to scanning a Chicago paper, reading the football lineups and schedules, looking for familiar names. As far as Susie was concerned they had already gone. She heard their conversation, but it drifted across her tired, discouraged mind without making any special impression.

Turning the page Dottie glanced at the Harker smash advertisement, exclaiming over the smart, cleverly drawnsketches. Suddenly she laughed, pointing to a boxed notice in the center of the layout. Dottie read. "Would you like to be beautiful?" Then both girls laughed. They were both beautiful swans and they knew it.

"We should show this to Florence," Dotty said. "She could certainly use a little beauty."

"Just try it and see how quick your head comes off," her friend returned. Taking a compact from her purse she daintily touched her lips with crimson. "Wouldn't it be terrible to be homely?" she asked, looking complacently into the mirror.

"Terrible," Dottie agreed, without the slightest conception of how terrible it could be. They wandered out of the shop, leaving the paper behind them.

Straightening the counter, Susie picked up the paper. About to toss it aside, she hesitated. There it was again, the fates at her elbow. Indifferently she scanned the paper. Several times her eyes passed over the Harker page, always coming back. Gradually the import made a dent in her consciousness and she read the notice through.

"Harker's wants to prove that any woman can be beautiful, alluring, desirable. If you doubt us please write a letter telling us why. Tell us what it has meant to you to be unattractive. Without obligation or expense the writer of the best letter will be beautified by Harker's."

Reading the advertisement, Susie's breathing quickened. Silly, of course. No one could make her beautiful, not even Harker's to prove their point. She guessed she'd write and tell them so. They didn't want a homely girl, they simply wanted to make a pretty girl prettier.

In spite of the argument Susie was a little excited. At last some one had noticed the unattractive girl. Beauty contests were old, this was—, well, this was exciting. All afternoon a letter to Harker's ran through her mind, the idea of winning the contest did not occur to her. The letter was to be a flat denial of Harker's claims from one who knew.

Again and again she read the advertisement. The model, they called the girl a model just as in the beauty contests, was to be given advice and treatment by Harker's experienced cosmeticians, the gymnasium and a physical director would be at her disposal. When the miracle was wrought she would be gowned by Harker, hatted and booted by Harker. The letters were to be written to John Harker.

By 10 o'clock, when Susie went home, she had not only mentally written her letter, she had made up her mind that she must be the girl.

"No other girl needs it like I do," she thought desperately. "No other girl has suffered so from being homely."

She wrote her letter six times before being satisfied. Among other things she wrote, "You have a comforting theory, but it can't be done. If you could but see me you would know. I am one of those unfortunate individuals who was born an ugly duckling and must remain so." Then she added the line which was to touch John Harker's heart: "I once said that I would give my hope of heaven and all the rest of my life to be beautiful for one year. I meant it then and I mean it now."

Susie dispatched her letter. She had wild thoughts of going to Chicago, of seeing John Harker personally, begging him to try. One moment she was hopeful, the next mirthlessly amused at her own impertinance. She would have worried less had she known that the fates had gone to considerable trouble to bring about this exact state of affairs and that her number was up even before she wrote the letter.

While Susie waited, thrilled in spite of herself, the letters rolled into John Harker's office, hundreds of them, thousands of them. The job of sorting and reading was turned over to Jeff Bowman and ten helpers. The letters were readily weeded out, the big majority palpably being from young women who saw a chance to secure a free makeup and an outfit of clothes.

After a strenuous week 100 letters were placed on John Harker's desk. He and Clifford Kane went through them. Three hours later 95 hopeful messages had been discarded, the other five applications were taken under advisement. Kane, none too enthusiastic over the scheme, suggested they choose one of the five blindly and go ahead. He was definitely opposed to Susie whom Harker favored.

Jeff Bowman, chancing into the office, settled the matter. "Why not do a little quiet investigating?" he inquired. "Let's look up all five, then we'll be sure."

"In my mind Susie is our girl," Harker insisted, holding her letter in his hand. "She'd give her hope of heaven to be beautiful for one year. Isn't that pathetic? Isn't that terrible? Women are supposed to be lovely, that's their chief function in life. This girl realizes that, she suffers—it's terrible, I tell you."

"Sure it's terrible, Chief," Jeff agreed, "but I still hold out for an investigation. Naturally we can't fight deformities. Your friend Susie tells us nothing of her background, not even her age. You can't go at this thing blind, you can't send for Susie and then disappoint her."

Kane shrugged wearily, at the same time eyeing Jeff with animosity. The young fool had too much authority, too much influence over the Chief. One of these days he'd succeed in getting Jeff fired.

"Go see about tomorrow's copy, Jeff," he said curtly. "Mr. Harker and I can figure this out."

"Stay right where you are," Harker interposed as Jeff started for the door. "You're right about this thing. Do a little sleuthing in your own way and bring the report to me. After that we'll decide—on Susie." He laughed good-naturedly.

Nashville Noses Out Shreveport By Score Of 3 To 2

Sports Chatter

By GEORGE V. LOFTON

BASEBALL IS BACK

Tuesday, the 21st, is the first day of spring, they say, but for Monroe's baseball fans the first day of spring will be on Thursday, when Larry Gilbert's Nashville Vols meet the Shreveport Sports, of the Texas league, in case you don't know, in the first exhibition game of the season.

Shreveport, for a change, has a good squad on hand to engage the Vols and Thursday's game should be interesting. Anyway, there's every indication that those fans who aren't absolutely tied down to their jobs will be on hand for the inaugural session, as it were.

Fortunately, Monroe's club owners persuaded Larry Gilbert to bring his Vols here to train and so far it's been a good deal all around. Gilbert is well pleased because the weather has been ideal. The Monroe owners likewise have been satisfied because the deal has brought Monroe plenty of good publicity and there's the chance that the White Sox will gain one or more players who should click in the Cotton States league as a result.

Lest you forget, the Monroe club officials gave Gilbert a guarantee to bring the Vols here, and we hope local fans will show their appreciation by turning out in paying numbers for the exhibition games here.

GILBERT, THE PROPHET

Larry Gilbert, a week ago, was beaming about the weather. Near perfect conditions had prevailed. In fact, Gilbert and Freddie Russell, sports editor of the Nashville Banner, were comparing Monroe's weather to that which annually prevails in Florida, and to Florida's detriment.

"But," said Larry, "the weather's been too perfect. I hope it rains about Wednesday. Then I'll give the boys a rest to ease up on the training grind."

Sure enough, it rained last Wednesday morning. But it wasn't much of a rain, and at noon the sun was shining brightly and the diamond at Casino park was in excellent condition. But Larry wasn't to be denied his reputation as a weather prophet.

The Nashville boss gave his boys the day off.

A NEW HURLER

Monroe has a new pitcher who's going to be a star, take the word of John Yelovic for it. Of course, it will be some 18 years before the Sox will cash in on his worth, but he'll be in there just the same.

A husky son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Yelovic the other day—an event

FORMER COTTON STATES PITCHERS HURL FOR SPORTS

Dunkel, Bronkhurst And Perry Hold Southern Leaguers To Five Hits

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP)—Nashville's Southern leaguers began their exhibition schedule today by setting down the Shreveport Sports, 3 to 2.

Dykes Potter, Sharkey Eiland and Cowboy Thornton twirled for the Vols, allowing 8 hits while their mates collected 5 bingles off a trio of rookie hurlers for the Texas leaguers.

All of the Shreveport hurlers were Cotton States league products—Tom Perry and Al Bronkhurst of Monroe and Lefty Dunkel of Pine Bluff.

TIGERS CAPTURE TEAM CROWN AND DIVISION AWARDS

Bastrop Finishes In Second Place 13 Points Behind Winners

The Neville High school Tigers remained northeast Louisiana boxing champions at the close of the sixth annual district tournament here last night, but the Bengals wound up with the smallest number of points they had ever scored in the annual fights. The largest crowd ever to witness title fights here was on hand.

Neville won the team title with 33 points, 13 points short of their 1938 score. The Bastrop Rams were runner-ups for the title with 20 points. Neville also won the lightweight and heavyweight division trophies. The Tigers scored 18 points against second place Bastrop's 12 to win in the lightweight division; and the locals scored 15 points against second place Grayson's nine points to win in the heavyweight division.

The individual champions, produced by three schools, are:

90 pounds: Thurman Goodnight, Bastrop.
98 pounds: E. B. Peddy, Neville.
105 pounds: Aubrey Young, Neville.
112 pounds: Bobby Bazine, Bastrop.
118 pounds: Buck Brantley, Neville.
126 pounds: R. H. Kirkland, Forest.
135 pounds: Robert Gates, Neville.
145 pounds: Tonyette Byrd, Bastrop.
155 pounds: Perry Snyder, Neville.
165 pounds: Vaughan Payne, Neville.

The teams' scores, other than those of Neville and Bastrop, were: Tallulah, 12; Grayson, nine; Forest, six; Oak Grove, five; Lake Providence, four; Start, none.

All bouts on last night's program went the full three rounds with the exception of the Aubrey Young, Neville, and Pemberton, Tallulah, fight. Young and Pemberton fought two full rounds, but Pemberton, after taking a beating in the second, was unable to come back for the third.

Trophies and first, second and third place medals for individual fighters were presented by Dr. W. L. Bendel of Monroe.

CENTER PLANNING TOURNAMENT DAY

High Schools Throughout Area Invited To Event Slated Saturday

The second annual Day of Tournaments at Northeast Center of L. S. U. will be held here next Saturday, beginning at 8:30 a.m., it was announced last night by A. S. Huffman, director of physical education at Northeast Center.

The tournament, in which high schools throughout this area are invited to participate, is being sponsored by the physical education department at the junior college, with Miss Ada Bess Hart, physical educational director for women, in charge of the events for girls, and Coach Huffman in charge of the events for boys.

The major activities on the day's program will be softball, volley ball, tennis and horseshoe pitching. Other events will include ping pong tetherball, rifle shooting and box hockey.

Approximately 450 students from high schools of northeast Louisiana participated in the events last year, and an even larger entry is expected this year.

Any school desiring to enter the tournaments, but which has not received an invitation, is invited to file an entry with the physical education department at Northeast Center immediately, Coach Huffman said last night.

Since 1924, all of the air speed records have been set by seaplanes. Also since 1923, the United States has not set a record. The present record of 440 miles an hour is held by Italy.

Talbot Picks Ted Williams As Best Of Crop Of Rookies

Sports Writer Predicts Fans Will Love Red Sox Outfielder

By Gayle Talbot

TAMPA, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Having stuck out my neck to the extent of picking Cincinnati to win the National league flag, I might as well go ahead and name you the rookie of the year, the one most likely to star from his first day in the big show and bring new color to the game.

I take Ted Williams, the loose-jointed kid from Minneapolis who will open the season in right field for the Boston Red Sox. Maybe it's a hunch, but I take him over Detroit's Fred Hutchinson and Frank Croucher, the Yankees' Charlie Keller and Joe Gallagher, the Cardinals' Tom Sunkel, and all the rest.

Ted, who hit .366 and flavored his efforts with 43 home runs last year, has more than mechanical ability. He is a rare young bird, destined to become a character around the ball lots. There's an aura of greatness about him, tinged slightly with goofiness, and the fans are going to love him.

"Just think," he said the other day. "I'm going to see cities like New York and Chicago That'll be an education in itself, even if I wasn't making money. Hell, a fellow can always pick up a dollar. You know, I'd play right field and center field both in these exhibition games if Mr. Cronin would let me."

Hutchinson, Detroit's prize young pitcher, isn't saying much. He has been put in an awkward spot, both by the great publicity he has received and by the repeated charge of scouts and rival coast league players that "he hasn't got a thing." He obviously would be a sucker to start arguing with his critics. He only says, quietly: "That's what they say," and goes on getting his arm in shape.

I watched him closely as he pitched in an inter-camp game, trying my best to figure out how he won 25 games last season. He has only average speed, a good cure and fine control, but he handles himself with the assurance of a veteran. I noticed that just as he delivers the ball his arm gives a peculiar sort of "fluttery" motion, but I don't know whether that's important. Probably not.

Whenever an American Association man and an International league man get together down here there's sure to be a hot argument about the respective abilities of Williams and Keller. Ray Blades, new manager of the Cards, who as the Rochester pilot in recent years saw more than he liked of Keller at Newark, raved about him for 10 minutes.

"He's the greatest I ever saw outside the big leagues," he declared. "Joe McCarthy can just put him in the outfield and forget all about him. In my opinion, he's a better player than Joe Gordon. Not only can he hit and field, but I doubt there's a faster man in the American league. I'm sure he can do a hundred in 10 seconds flat in his uniform."

To which Donie Bush, Williams' boss at Minneapolis, lifts a polite eyebrow and says: "Keller, eh? wait until they get a look at our boy." It will be one of the year's features to watch the progress of this pair. I still take Williams.

It's a shame that Japhet Lynn won't remain around to pitch for Detroit after the season starts. A rodeo performer in the off-season, Japhet is up from Columbus, where he took part in 50 games last year, mostly as relief pitcher. Japhet was asked if he had pitched any no-hit games.

"No," he said, "but it's only because I'm superstitious. I could of had several, but each time I'd get to the ninth without a hit against me I would lay one in there easy and let somebody smack it. I notice these fellows that pitch no-hitters never amount to much afterwards, and I don't want that to happen to me."

HUMPHREYS NAMED COACH TO REPLACE ALLYN M'KEEN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Cecil "Sonny" Humphreys, assistant coach at West Tennessee State Teachers' college here for two years, today was named head coach, succeeding Allyn McKeen who went to a similar post at Mississippi State college.

Dr. R. W. Johnson, secretary of the college athletic board, said Humphreys' appointment had been approved by President J. W. Brister.

Humphreys, a native of Paris, Tenn., was graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1936.

He will take over the Teachers' spring training immediately. His assistants have not been named.

WINS AND LOSES

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Kemp Wicker was both the winning and losing pitcher in the Brooklyn Dodgers' four-inning practice game as the regulars beat the yannigans 6-1. Tot Pressnell and Bill Crouch pitched the first inning and Paul Doyle and Wicker relieved them. Crouch complained of a lame arm and left after pitching to one batter. Wicker also took his place and gave up the winning runs, thus becoming the loser while he still was the pitcher of record for the winning side.

OKLAHOMA WINS WRESTLING TITLE

Captures Three Individual Crowns To Clinch National Championship

LANCASTER, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—Capturing three individual titles, Oklahoma A. and M. tonight clinched its third straight national collegiate wrestling championship before a crowd of 2,000 at Franklin and Marshall college.

At the conclusion of the individual title bouts, the Aggies boasted 22 points and Lehigh's eastern champions were second with 11. The Engineers, however, had no chance of overcoming the Aggie lead in the consolation bouts for second and third place that were to follow.

Trailing the Aggies and Lehigh in the team race were Minnesota with eight points, Illinois and Franklin and Marshall with seven each, Indiana with six and Michigan with five.

The Aggies champions were Joe McDaniels, who won the bantamweight title for the third straight year, Captain Stanley Henson, former 145 pound champion who won the 155 pound crown, and Johnny Harrell, heavyweight.

Sports Chatter

BASEBALL IS BACK

Tuesday, the 21st, is the first day of spring, they say, but for Monroe's baseball fans the first day of spring will be on Thursday, when Larry Gilbert's Nashville Vols meet the Shreveport Sports, of the Texas league, in case you don't know, in the first exhibition game of the season.

Shreveport, for a change, has a good squad on hand to engage the Vols and Thursday's game should be interesting. Anyway, there's every indication that those fans who aren't absolutely tied down to their jobs will be on hand for the inaugural session, as it were.

Fortunately, Monroe's club owners persuaded Larry Gilbert to bring his Vols here to train and so far it's been a good deal all around. Gilbert is well pleased because the weather has been ideal. The Monroe owners likewise have been satisfied because the deal has brought Monroe plenty of good publicity and there's the chance that the White Sox will gain one or more players who should click in the Cotton States league as a result.

Lest you forget, the Monroe club officials gave Gilbert a guarantee to bring the Vols here, and we hope local fans will show their appreciation by turning out in paying numbers for the exhibition games here.

GILBERT, THE PROPHET

Larry Gilbert, a week ago, was beaming about the weather. Near perfect conditions had prevailed. In fact, Gilbert and Freddie Russell, sports editor of the Nashville Banner, were comparing Monroe's weather to that which annually prevails in Florida, and to Florida's detriment.

"But," said Larry, "the weather's been too perfect. I hope it rains about Wednesday. Then I'll give the boys a rest to ease up on the training grind."

Sure enough, it rained last Wednesday morning. But it wasn't much of a rain, and at noon the sun was shining brightly and the diamond at Casino park was in excellent condition. But Larry wasn't to be denied his reputation as a weather prophet.

The Nashville boss gave his boys the day off.

A NEW HURLER

Monroe has a new pitcher who's going to be a star, take the word of John Yelovic for it. Of course, it will be some 18 years before the Sox will cash in on his worth, but he'll be in there just the same.

A husky son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Yelovic the other day—an event

FORMER COTTON STATES PITCHERS HURL FOR SPORTS

Dunkel, Bronkhurst And Perry Hold Southern Leaguers To Five Hits

SHREVEPORT, La., March 18.—(AP)—Nashville's Southern leaguers began their exhibition schedule today by setting down the Shreveport Sports, 3 to 2.

Dykes Potter, Sharkey Eiland and Cowboy Thornton twirled for the Vols, allowing 8 hits while their mates collected 5 bingles off a trio of rookie hurlers for the Texas leaguers.

All of the Shreveport hurlers were Cotton States league products—Tom Perry and Al Bronkhurst of Monroe and Lefty Dunkel of Pine Bluff.

Bastrop Finishes In Second Place 13 Points Behind Winners

The Neville High school Tigers remained northeast Louisiana boxing champions at the close of the sixth annual district tournament here last night, but the Bengals wound up with the smallest number of points they had ever scored in the annual fights. The largest crowd ever to witness title fights here was on hand.

Neville won the team title with 33 points, 13 points short of their 1938 score. The Bastrop Rams were runner-ups for the title with 20 points. Neville also won the lightweight and heavyweight division trophies. The Tigers scored 18 points against second place Bastrop's 12 to win in the lightweight division; and the locals scored 13 points against second place Grayson's nine points to win in the heavyweight division.

The individual champions, produced by three schools, are:

90 pounds: Thurman Goodnight, Bastrop.
98 pounds: E. B. Peddy, Neville.
105 pounds: Aubrey Young, Neville.
112 pounds: Bobby Bazine, Bastrop.
118 pounds: Buck Brantley, Neville.
126 pounds: R. H. Kirkland, Forest.
135 pounds: Robert Gates, Neville.
145 pounds: Tonyette Byrd, Bastrop.
155 pounds: Perry Snyder, Neville.
165 pounds: Vaughan Payne, Neville.

The teams' scores, other than those of Neville and Bastrop, were: Tallulah, 12; Grayson, nine; Forest, six; Oak Grove, five; Lake Providence, four; Start, none.

All bouts on last night's program went the full three rounds with the exception of the Aubrey Young, Neville, and Pemberton, Tallulah, fight. Young and Pemberton fought two full rounds, but Pemberton, after taking a beating in the second, was unable to come back for the third.

Trophies and first, second and third place medals for individual fighters were presented by Dr. W. L. Bendel of Monroe.

CENTER PLANNING TOURNAMENT DAY

High Schools Throughout Area Invited To Event Slated Saturday

The second annual Day of Tournaments at Northeast Center of L. S. U. will be held here next Saturday, beginning at 8:30 a.m., it was announced last night by A. S. Huffman, director of physical education at Northeast Center.

The tournament, in which high schools throughout this area are invited to participate, is being sponsored by the physical education department at the junior college, with Miss Ada Bess Hart, physical educational director for women, in charge of the events for girls, and Coach Huffman in charge of the events for boys.

The major activities on the day's program will be softball, volley ball, tennis and horseshoe pitching. Other events will include ping pong tetherball, rifle shooting and box hockey.

Approximately 450 students from high schools of northeast Louisiana participated in the events last year, and an even larger entry is expected this year.

Any school desiring to enter the tournaments, but which has not received an invitation, is invited to file an entry with the physical education department at Northeast Center immediately, Coach Huffman said last night.

Since 1924, all of the air speed records have been set by seaplanes. Also since 1923, the United States has not set a record. The present record of 440 miles an hour is held by Italy.

Talbot Picks Ted Williams As Best Of Crop Of Rookies

Sports Writer Predicts Fans Will Love Red Sox Outfielder

By Gayle Talbot

TAMPA, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Having stuck out my neck to the extent of picking Cincinnati to win the National league flag, I might as well go ahead and name you the rookie of the year, the one most likely to star from his first day in the big show and bring new color to the game.

I take Ted Williams, the loose-jointed kid from Minneapolis who will open the season in right field for the Boston Red Sox. Maybe it's a hunch, but I take him over Detroit's Fred Hutchinson and Frank Croucher, the Yankees' Charlie Keller and Joe Gallagher, the Cardinals' Tom Sunkel, and all the rest.

Ted, who hit .366 and flavored his efforts with 43 home runs last year, has more than mechanical ability. He is a rare young bird, destined to become a character around the ball lots. There's an aura of greatness about him, tinged slightly with goofiness, and the fans are going to love him.

"Just think," he said the other day. "I'm going to see cities like New York and Chicago That'll be an education in itself, even if I wasn't making money. Hell, a fellow can always pick up a dollar. You know, I'd play right field and center field both in these exhibition games if Mr. Cronin would let me."

Hutchinson, Detroit's prize young pitcher, isn't saying much. He has been put in an awkward spot, both by the great publicity he has received and by the repeated charge of scouts and rival coast league players that "he hasn't got a thing." He obviously would be a sucker to start arguing with his critics. He only says, quietly: "That's what they say," and goes on getting his arm in shape.

I watched him closely as he pitched in an inter-camp game, trying my best to figure out how he won 25 games last season. He has only average speed, a good cure and fine control, but he handles himself with the assurance of a veteran. I noticed that just as he delivers the ball his arm gives a peculiar sort of "fluttery" motion, but I don't know whether that's important. Probably not.

Whenever an American Association man and an International league man get together down here there's sure to be a hot argument about the respective abilities of Williams and Keller. Ray Blades, new manager of the Cards, who as the Rochester pilot in recent years saw more than he liked of Keller at Newark, raved about him for 10 minutes.

"He's the greatest I ever saw outside the big leagues," he declared. "Joe McCarthy can just put him in the outfield and forget all about him. In my opinion, he's a better player than Joe Gordon. Not only can he hit and field, but I doubt there's a faster man in the American league. I'm sure he can do a hundred in 10 seconds flat in his uniform."

To which Donie Bush, Williams' boss at Minneapolis, lifts a polite eyebrow and says: "Keller, eh? wait until they get a look at our boy." It will be one of the year's features to watch the progress of this pair. I still take Williams.

It's a shame that Japhet Lynn won't remain around to pitch for Detroit after the season starts. A rodeo performer in the off-season, Japhet is up from Columbus, where he took part in 50 games last year, mostly as relief pitcher. Japhet was asked if he had pitched any no-hit games.

"No," he said, "but it's only because I'm superstitious. I could of had several, but each time I'd get to the ninth without a hit against me I would lay one in there easy and let somebody smack it. I notice these fellows that pitch no-hitters never amount to much afterwards, and I don't want that to happen to me."

HUMPHREYS NAMED COACH TO REPLACE ALLYN M'KEEN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 18.—(AP)—Cecil "Sonny" Humphreys, assistant coach at West Tennessee State Teachers' college here for two years, today was named head coach, succeeding Allyn McKeen who went to a similar post at Mississippi State college.

Dr. R. W. Johnson, secretary of the college athletic board, said Humphreys' appointment had been approved by President J. W. Brister.

Humphreys, a native of Paris, Tenn., was graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1936.

He will take over the Teachers' spring training immediately. His assistants have not been named.

WINS AND LOSES

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 18.—(AP)—Kemp Wicker was both the winning and losing pitcher in the Brooklyn Dodgers' four-inning practice game as the regulars beat the yannigans 6-1. Tot Pressnell and Bill Crouch pitched the first inning and Paul Doyle and Wicker relieved them. Crouch complained of a lame arm and left after pitching to one batter. Wicker also took his place and gave up the winning runs, thus becoming the loser while he still was the pitcher of record for the winning side.

OKLAHOMA WINS WRESTLING TITLE

Captures Three Individual Crowns To Clinch National Championship

LANCASTER, Pa., March 18.—(AP)—Capturing three individual titles, Oklahoma A. and M. tonight clinched its third straight national collegiate wrestling championship before a crowd of 2,000 at Franklin and Marshall college.

At the conclusion of the individual title bouts, the Aggies boasted 22 points and Lehigh's eastern champions were second with 11. The Engineers, however, had no chance of overcoming the Aggie lead in the consolation bouts for second and third place that were to follow.

Trailing the Aggies and Lehigh in the team race were Minnesota with eight points, Illinois and Franklin and Marshall with seven each, Indiana with six and Michigan with five.

The Aggies champions were Joe McDaniels, who won the bantamweight title for the third straight year, Captain Stanley Henson, former 145 pound champion who won the 155 pound crown, and Johnny Harrell, heavyweight.

WHITE SOX ENGAGE IN FIRST PRACTICE GAM

5-INNING CONTEST ENDS IN TRIUMPH FOR CONWAY NINE

George Taitt Hurls Team To 3-2 Victory; Taylor And Jones Hit Best

The Monroe White Sox, with almost their entire roster on hand, engaged in their first practice game yesterday, playing a five inning affair. The squad will go through another workout this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Casino park and the entire roster is expected to be accounted for by tomorrow.

With the Nashville Volunteers, who have made Monroe their spring training headquarters, in Shreveport and launched upon their exhibition campaign, the White Sox's training has taken the spotlight here.

Although the Sox will not swing into their exhibition series until April 1, there will be two games here this week. The Vols, after games today in Shreveport and tomorrow at Longview, Tex., will return here tomorrow night, rest Tuesday, and go to Natchez, Miss., for an exhibition Wednesday. On Thursday Monroe will see its first local exhibition, when the Vols meet the Shreveport Sports as Casino park.

Next Saturday the Cleveland Indians "B" team will be here for a battle with the Vols, and then on next Sunday the two teams will play a second game here.

SHILLING SEEMS TO FILL TRIBE'S BILL AT SECOND

Slapnicka Predicts That Cleveland Will Finish Next To Yankees

By James Marlow

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—Vice-President Cy Slapnicka of the Cleveland Indians, giving off a kind of rosy glow today, said he thought Rookie Jim Shilling was probably the filling the ball club needed for that cavity around second base.

Slapnicka seemed so happy, indeed, that he said he felt sure he had a pain remover from the dull ache at shortstop, too, ventured the notion his team would finish next to the New York Yankees, and even announced Pitcher Johnny Broaca, a holdout, would sign up shortly.

Odell Hale played second for the Indians last year and hit .278 but his arm was such that Manager Oscar Vitt got the creeps every time he thought of the double-plays the team wasn't getting.

Until a week ago Shilling had been playing second fiddle instead of second base at the Indians' spring training camp here but today Slapnicka gushed when he mentioned him. He said:

"Shilling's fast, there's no doubt about his arm, he has a good pair of hands, I think he'll bat .275 against big league pitching, and that's all anybody could ask of a second baseman. I'm responsible for picking him up. I know more about him than anybody on the team. All he needed was confidence to make the big time. Now he's got it."

Last year on the New Orleans Pelicans Shilling played every position except catcher, although his specialty was second, and hit .291 against Southern association flinging.

Slapnicka, despite the eulogies, made it plain that in order to cinch the job Shilling would have to keep on setting the world afire the rest of spring training.

The Indians' vice-president said he didn't want to throw a harpoon into the hopes of the other boys scrambling for the job and Hale was still around, and still capable, and then there was Oscar Grimes.

Slapnicka, however, said of Grimes: "He hasn't shown as good as we thought he would, although he's not out of the running."

Grimes, who hit .307 with Milwaukee last year, was brought down here as the fair-haired boy for the second base job. The Indians even hired as coach Oscar Mellilo who had been no slouch at second for the St. Louis Browns in his playing days. He was to help Grimes polish up his technique.

Last week, though, Shilling, who had been fooling around first base during the absence of Hal Trosky, was moved over to second for a game against his old teammates, the Pelicans. He made three double plays and was pretty in all departments.

Slapnicka made his long speech about Shilling because he wanted to deny stories that the Indians recently tried to trade their heavy-hitting outfielder, Earl Averill, a holdout, to the St. Louis Browns for Second Baseman Don Heffner. That was last winter, Slapnicka said. Not this spring.

Shortstop Lyn Lary, a holdout, is playing golf on the gulf coast, Slapnicka said—maybe for Lary's benefit—but the Indians aren't giving a big rap because they have Jim Webb of Meridian, Miss., who hit .276 with Cleveland last year.

Broaca will be in camp within a few days and sign up, Slapnicka said.

Happy now with everything apparently solved—or is it?—except the question of Pitcher Johnny Allen's arm, which won't be used much till the regular season gets under way, Slapnicka spent a few hours on the Indians' chances.

"I don't like to predict because you know what they say about the man who tried to forecast the weather in Texas," he said. "They say he's either a fool or a newcomer. But I think we'll be next to the Yankees."

DUKE BEATS CLEMSON IN PRACTICE BATTLE

DURHAM, N. C., March 18.—(AP)—Duke and Clemson almost duplicated their last year's spring practice game in Duke stadium today, the two teams scoring seven touchdowns in a wide-open, spectacular engagement which the Blue Devils won, 26-20. Last year nine touchdowns were scored as Duke won, 30-24.

Banks McFadden was the Spearhead of the Clemson attack, cutting loose on several fine runs, and keeping the Blue Devils in hot water throughout the game with a running forward pass that was amazingly accurate.

George McAfee, Duke quarterback who last year scored four of Duke's five touchdowns against the Tigers, scored three of the four today, checking out 60 yards for the opening marker of the game early in the first period. His others were scored on short bucks.

CATHOLIC CAGE TOURNEY WILL BEGIN WEDNESDAY

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP)—The national Catholic high school basketball championship begins next Wednesday night on the Loyola university floor with 32 picked teams of the country competing.

Pairings include:

Friday morning—Calvert Hall, Baltimore, vs. Catholic High, Baton Rouge, La.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., will defend its 1938 championship.

Teddy Haslam was second and Chance Ray third. The entry of Waxwing and Polly Hastings, the latter finishing next to last, paid $5.80 for $2.

Coward's four-year-old filly Be Jabbers equalled the track record to lead her stablemate Phalasan to the wire in 1:11 1-5 in the six furlongs Oakland handicap. The entry paid $8.20 to win and $6.40 to show. Bunny Baby was third.

Coaching Baseball

KEEPING CANDIDATES BUSY

A baseball coach, as well as the coach in any other major sport, is confronted with the problem of getting the most out of his practice periods. Baseball is a game in which the youngsters must have fundamental skills in order to be called good players. It is the job of the coach to plan his practice periods so that the players may become skilled in "play situations."

In professional baseball the managers do not have as much time to stress fundamentals as the college and high school coaches. Professional managers have to assume that the candidates are already well versed in fundamentals.

The purpose of this article is to discuss drills which should help in making out efficient practice programs. Fundamentals will not be discussed. If the coach is confronted with fundamental problems and wishes to call upon us we shall be glad to help him if we can.

Drill I

Immediately upon reaching the practice field the candidates should go through a loosening up drill. It is best for the infielders to throw to each other, the outfielders to the outfielders, and the catchers to each other. One catcher will, of course, warm up a pitcher to be used in batting practice. "Pepper" games may be organized for the rest of the squad. The players should begin the warming up drill by being fairly close together and then increase the distance between them to take care of the ordinary throws that they will have to make. This is particularly true of the infielders and catchers.

Drill II

After the regular batting practice drills are over, it is well to begin on play situations of the infield. Place the second baseman and shortstop in their playing positions. The coach stands near the pitcher's mound, towards home plate, and without letting either player know to whom he will throw, he throws ground balls to either the shortstop or second baseman. The player who receives the ball throws to the other player who covers the base and he completes the play by throwing to the first baseman. The players are not under any strain at all and the coach can watch very closely the foot-work of the player who first receives the throw. He can also check the player who first receives the ball, as to whether or not he is close enough to make an under-hand or far enough away to make an over-hand throw. The first baseman can also be checked in playing his position. On hard hit balls he can assume an erect position and on slow hit balls he can practice on stretching to meet the ball.

While this drill is being carried on the outfielders can be given fielding practice. The third baseman, pitchers and catchers can work together on fielding bunts.

Gus Kallio Announces Program For Wednesday Night At Local Arena

Carl von Bromberg of Germany and Ned Taylor of Seattle, Wash., winners of bouts of last Wednesday night's inaugural program at the Monroe wrestling arena, 310 Walnut street, will oppose each other in the main event of next Wednesday night's program, it was announced yesterday afternoon by Promoter Gus Kallio.

Von Bromberg defeated Professor Toto Higami, clever Japanese grappler, in last week's program, and Taylor defeated Bob Castle, Memphis, Tenn., wrestler.

For next Wednesday night's semi-final bout, Promoter Kallio has booked Clyde Woods, of Michigan, and Jimmy "Bulldog" Mallory, Shreveport wrestler who served as referee for the program which marked Kallio's advent as a promoter here.

A feature of this week's mat entertainment will be the free admission of every member of the fair sex who is accompanied by one paid admission.

A large attendance last Wednesday night having taxed the seating capacity of bleachers and all of the ringside chairs which the promoter could purchase in Monroe and West Monroe, 300 additional chairs have been ordered through a local merchant and will be delivered and installed in the arena before Wednesday night.

A bleacher section for negroes is being constructed. Their entrance door will be located at the rear of the large, one-story arena building.

There are a hundred-odd details in connection with operation of the arena which Promoter Kallio is working hard to perfect. Among his ideas for making the arena an interesting place for patrons is the installation of a museum to contain some of his collection of hundreds of pictures of wrestlers from practically every land on the globe.

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—(AP)—Favorites moved ahead today in the second day's play of the third annual Biloxi Open Amateur Golf tournament as Gordon Smith of Mobile, the medalist, shot a 69 and Henry Castillo of Louisiana State university stroked a sensational 65. Par is 70.

Castillo's round, one over the course record, included five birdies and an eagle. A 20-foot putt on the seventh hole and other long putts helped the Tampa, Fla., shotmaker defeat Archie Gonzales of New Orleans, 7 and 5.

Smith, Alabama state champion, defeated Ed Rankin of Detroit, Mich., 4 and 3.

Spec Wilson of Laurel, Miss., set down U. B. Koen of Biloxi, 5 and 3, and Lyn Lary, holdout shortstop of the Cleveland Indians baseball team, eliminated Al Villegas of New Orleans, 1 up, after 19 holes.

Two other L. S. U. players besides Castillo were victorious in the championship flight. Emile Zachariah of Baton Rouge downed Stan Patterson, teammate from Natchez, 3 and 2, and Bert McDowell, L. S. U. student from Kansas City, defeated W. T. Beasley, Biloxi, 6 and 5.

John E. Breaux, Jr., Biloxi, won, 2 and 1, over another Biloxian, Gene Yousko. Robert Gault, Battle Creek, Mich., won over Gene Fogerty, New Orleans, by default.

In the first flight Warren Renfrow, L. S. U. player from McAllister, Okla., eliminated J. W. Bradley, Chicago, 1 up. Anson Holley, Biloxi city champion, defeated Bud Buchanan, Gulfport. Three other flights brought together the remainder of the field of 80.

5-INNING CONTEST ENDS IN TRIUMPH FOR CONWAY NINE

George Taitt Hurls Team To 3-2 Victory; Taylor And Jones Hit Best

The Monroe White Sox, with almost their entire roster on hand, engaged in their first practice game yesterday, playing a five inning affair. The squad will go through another workout this afternoon at 1 o'clock at Casino park and the entire roster is expected to be accounted for by tomorrow.

With the Nashville Volunteers, who have made Monroe their spring training headquarters, in Shreveport and launched upon their exhibition campaign, the White Sox's training has taken the spotlight here.

Although the Sox will not swing into their exhibition series until April 1, there will be two games here this week. The Vols, after games today in Shreveport and tomorrow at Longview, Tex., will return here tomorrow night, rest Tuesday, and go to Natchez, Miss., for an exhibition Wednesday. On Thursday Monroe will see its first local exhibition, when the Vols meet the Shreveport Sports as Casino park.

Next Saturday the Cleveland Indians "B" team will be here for a battle with the Vols, and then on next Sunday the two teams will play a second game here.

SHILLING SEEMS TO FILL TRIBE'S BILL AT SECOND

Slapnicka Predicts That Cleveland Will Finish Next To Yankees

By James Marlow

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—Vice-President Cy Slapnicka of the Cleveland Indians, giving off a kind of rosy glow today, said he thought Rookie Jim Shilling was probably the filling the ball club needed for that cavity around second base.

Slapnicka seemed so happy, indeed, that he said he felt sure he had a pain remover from the dull ache at shortstop, too, ventured the notion his team would finish next to the New York Yankees, and even announced Pitcher Johnny Broaca, a holdout, would sign up shortly.

Odell Hale played second for the Indians last year and hit .278 but his arm was such that Manager Oscar Vitt got the creeps every time he thought of the double-plays the team wasn't getting.

Until a week ago Shilling had been playing second fiddle instead of second base at the Indians' spring training camp here but today Slapnicka gushed when he mentioned him. He said:

"Shilling's fast, there's no doubt about his arm, he has a good pair of hands, I think he'll bat .275 against big league pitching, and that's all anybody could ask of a second baseman. I'm responsible for picking him up. I know more about him than anybody on the team. All he needed was confidence to make the big time. Now he's got it."

Last year on the New Orleans Pelicans Shilling played every position except catcher, although his specialty was second, and hit .291 against Southern association flinging.

Slapnicka, despite the eulogies, made it plain that in order to cinch the job Shilling would have to keep on setting the world afire the rest of spring training.

The Indians' vice-president said he didn't want to throw a harpoon into the hopes of the other boys scrambling for the job and Hale was still around, and still capable, and then there was Oscar Grimes.

Slapnicka, however, said of Grimes: "He hasn't shown as good as we thought he would, although he's not out of the running."

Grimes, who hit .307 with Milwaukee last year, was brought down here as the fair-haired boy for the second base job. The Indians even hired as coach Oscar Mellilo who had been no slouch at second for the St. Louis Browns in his playing days. He was to help Grimes polish up his technique.

Last week, though, Shilling, who had been fooling around first base during the absence of Hal Trosky, was moved over to second for a game against his old teammates, the Pelicans. He made three double plays and was pretty in all departments.

Slapnicka made his long speech about Shilling because he wanted to deny stories that the Indians recently tried to trade their heavy-hitting outfielder, Earl Averill, a holdout, to the St. Louis Browns for Second Baseman Don Heffner. That was last winter, Slapnicka said. Not this spring.

Shortstop Lyn Lary, a holdout, is playing golf on the gulf coast, Slapnicka said—maybe for Lary's benefit—but the Indians aren't giving a big rap because they have Jim Webb of Meridian, Miss., who hit .276 with Cleveland last year.

Broaca will be in camp within a few days and sign up, Slapnicka said.

Happy now with everything apparently solved—or is it?—except the question of Pitcher Johnny Allen's arm, which won't be used much till the regular season gets under way, Slapnicka spent a few hours on the Indians' chances.

"I don't like to predict because you know what they say about the man who tried to forecast the weather in Texas," he said. "They say he's either a fool or a newcomer. But I think we'll be next to the Yankees."

DUKE BEATS CLEMSON IN PRACTICE BATTLE

DURHAM, N. C., March 18.—(AP)—Duke and Clemson almost duplicated their last year's spring practice game in Duke stadium today, the two teams scoring seven touchdowns in a wide-open, spectacular engagement which the Blue Devils won, 26-20. Last year nine touchdowns were scored as Duke won, 30-24.

Banks McFadden was the Spearhead of the Clemson attack, cutting loose on several fine runs, and keeping the Blue Devils in hot water throughout the game with a running forward pass that was amazingly accurate.

George McAfee, Duke quarterback who last year scored four of Duke's five touchdowns against the Tigers, scored three of the four today, checking out 60 yards for the opening marker of the game early in the first period. His others were scored on short bucks.

CATHOLIC CAGE TOURNEY WILL BEGIN WEDNESDAY

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP)—The national Catholic high school basketball championship begins next Wednesday night on the Loyola university floor with 32 picked teams of the country competing.

Pairings include:

Friday morning—Calvert Hall, Baltimore, vs. Catholic High, Baton Rouge, La.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., will defend its 1938 championship.

HAMMOND HANDICAP WON AT ORLEANS BY WAXWING

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—(AP)—R. A. Coward's Waxwing made every post a winning one at the Fair Grounds today to take the $1,500 Hammond handicap over a mile and 70 yards. Teddy Haslam was second and Chance Ray third. The entry of Waxwing and Polly Hastings, the latter finishing next to last, paid $5.80 for $2.

Coward's four-year-old filly Be Jabbers equalled the track record to lead her stablemate Phalasan to the wire in 1:11 1-5 in the six furlongs Oakland handicap. The entry paid $8.20 to win and $6.40 to show. Bunny Baby was third.

Herbert B. Whilden, a bookkeeper, who died at Charleston, S. C., in 1935, left $1,250 each to North Carolina and South Carolina to be used for educational purposes.

For next Wednesday night's semi-final bout, Promoter Kallio has booked Clyde Woods, of Michigan, and Jimmy "Bulldog" Mallory, Shreveport wrestler who served as referee for the program which marked Kallio's advent as a promoter here.

A feature of this week's mat entertainment will be the free admission of every member of the fair sex who is accompanied by one paid admission.

A large attendance last Wednesday night having taxed the seating capacity of bleachers and all of the ringside chairs which the promoter could purchase in Monroe and West Monroe, 300 additional chairs have been ordered through a local merchant and will be delivered and installed in the arena before Wednesday night.

A bleacher section for negroes is being constructed. Their entrance door will be located at the rear of the large, one-story arena building.

There are a hundred-odd details in connection with operation of the arena which Promoter Kallio is working hard to perfect. Among his ideas for making the arena an interesting place for patrons is the installation of a museum to contain some of his collection of hundreds of pictures of wrestlers from practically every land on the globe.

FAVORITES MOVE UP IN TOURNEY

Sensational Five Under Par Turned In By Castillo Of L. S. U.

BILOXI, Miss., March 18.—(AP)—Favorites moved ahead today in the second day's play of the third annual Biloxi Open Amateur Golf tournament as Gordon Smith of Mobile, the medalist, shot a 69 and Henry Castillo of Louisiana State university stroked a sensational 65. Par is 70.

Castillo's round, one over the course record, included five birdies and an eagle. A 20-foot putt on the seventh hole and other long putts helped the Tampa, Fla., shotmaker defeat Archie Gonzales of New Orleans, 7 and 5.

Smith, Alabama state champion, defeated Ed Rankin of Detroit, Mich., 4 and 3.

Spec Wilson of Laurel, Miss., set down U. B. Koen of Biloxi, 5 and 3, and Lyn Lary, holdout shortstop of the Cleveland Indians baseball team, eliminated Al Villegas of New Orleans, 1 up, after 19 holes.

Two other L. S. U. players besides Castillo were victorious in the championship flight. Emile Zachariah of Baton Rouge downed Stan Patterson, teammate from Natchez, 3 and 2, and Bert McDowell, L. S. U. student from Kansas City, defeated W. T. Beasley, Biloxi, 6 and 5.

John E. Breaux, Jr., Biloxi, won, 2 and 1, over another Biloxian, Gene Yousko. Robert Gault, Battle Creek, Mich., won over Gene Fogerty, New Orleans, by default.

Pairings bring together tomorrow morning Smith-Wilson, Castillo-Lary, Zachariah-McDowell and Breaux-Gault. The semi-finals will be played in the afternoon. The 36-hole finals will be played Monday.

...RSES ...AS BEST IN GRAND NATIONAL

...r Kilstar, Workman Or Royal Danieli Expected To Win

By Scotty Reston

ASTREE, Eng., March 18.—(AP)—Britain's top-hatted racing correspondents decided today that one of three home bred horses, Kilstar, Workman and Royal Danieli, will win the 101st Grand National steeplechase on Friday.

Their prediction was made with the usual apology—that in the past 100 years Grand National favorites generally have swooned in Becher's Brook.

Kilstar, owned by Dorothy Paget, is the 11 to 2 choice while Royal Danieli, H. C. McNally's hopeful, and Workman, representative of Sir Alex MacGuire hold down the second spot at 10 to 1.

Royal Danieli, second by a nose to the American-owned Battleship last year, returned to the first three after victory at Baldoyle, Ireland, yesterday.

There are three American-owned runners: Mrs. Camille Evan's Royal Mail, only former winner of the race (1937), Mrs. Marion Scott's War Vessel, Son of Man o' War and Mrs. Louise E. Stoddard's Milano, which will be ridden by her husband.

War Vessel is considered a good outsider at 33 to 1 simply because the British critics have more respect for the sons of Man o' War since the 40 to 1 Battleship won last year's race for Mrs. Scott's silks.

The horses start arriving tomorrow for the big race. All 38 have finished their preliminary racing and jockeys for all but two have been selected. Practically the only detail that remains is for the Irish Hospital sweepstakes draw in Dublin Monday and Tuesday. On this draw alone around $4,000,000 will change hands.

Kilstar, stablemate of Golden Miller which won for Miss Paget in 1934, is the most unusual national favorite in years. A decided commoner by birth, a British army officer's mount until less than a year ago, Kilstar is favorite mainly because he concealed his ability until after the handicaps were published.

Purchased by Miss Paget "to fill an empty stall," Kilstar was a 40 to 1 shot when he was given 143 pounds, only three over the maximum. Since then he has won his only two major races on much worse terms against many of his competitors Friday. It is generally believed he would be given at least 20 pounds more to carry if the handicaps had been posted today.

5-INNING CONTEST WON BY CONWAYS

ent boast a squad of 20 players and three or four others are expected to be present by tomorrow.

Manager Doug "Poco" Taitt, who piloted the Sox to the Cotton States championship last year, said last night that "Red" Pruitt, third baseman last year, was expected to be back.

Early rumors this year were to the effect that Pruitt was leaving professional baseball to join the Crossett Millers, a semi-pro team at Crossett, Ark., in the Ouachita Valley league. However, Manager Taitt said it appeared certain that Pruitt would be back.

With Pruitt back in camp, Manager Taitt said, the Sox will be still in need of a second baseman, a couple of outfielders and at least two more good pitchers. It is hoped that the locals' needs can be supplied from the number of rookies now on hand.

Old regulars in camp are Johnny Conway, short stop; Frank Hackney, second baseman who is being shifted to the outfield; Manager Taitt, outfielder; Hank Taylor, catcher; and John Yelovic, "Red" Andrews, Frank Narbut and Tex Nugent, pitchers. Floyd Speer, a righthander acquired from Hot Springs' 1938 team, is also taking part in the drills.

The rookies on hand are Mike Cullum, third baseman; Theo Williford, catcher; Jerrald, a short stop from a Nashville semi-pro league; Julius McBride, a rightfielder, also from a semi-pro team near Nashville; Bob Pearson, [illegible] Monroe pitcher, who hurled for ...ce Brown in the Big Six league last season; Harold Wright, a 17-year-old pitcher from Little Rock, Ark.; George Taitt, younger brother of the Monroe pilot, who is seeking a place on the pitching staff; Ed Stroud and Drew Takewell, a pair of Monroe pitching aspirants; Murrell Jones, a first baseman, and one of the best rookie prospects from this section, who played with Clarks in the Big Six last year; Edwin Gaddy, a second baseman from Monticello, Ark., who hit .318 in a CCC league in his neighborhood in 1938; and Leroy Hewitte, an outfielder from Mer Rouge.

In addition to "Red" Pruitt, those expected to be here by tomorrow are Robert Ling, a second baseman, who comes highly touted by Nashville semi-pros; Smith, an outfielder from Oklahoma; and Dick Harrison, another second baseman from Nashville.

The game yesterday was an intra-squad affair between the Yelovics and the Conways. The Conways, with young Taitt on the mound, won the contest, 3 to 2.

Hank Taylor and Murrell Jones were the hitting stars of the game. Takewell went the route on the mound for the Yelovics.

The lineups were:

Conways—Conway, short stop; Gaddy, second base; Jones, first base; Hackney, left field; Cullen, third base; Hewitte, center field; McBride, right field; Taylor, catcher; and G. Taitt, pitcher.

that was fully reported in the "Births" column—and John promises faithfully that he'll give Monroe first call on his services when he's ready for Cotton States league duty.

John says he'll let nature take its course—if he has lefthanded tendencies, he'll be a lefthander. And vice versa. If he takes after his old man, he'll be plenty good enough to fool the batters in this circuit.

So it's congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Yelovic, and best wishes to the future baseball star.

FOOTBALL RETURNS

This is baseball weather, and baseball teams from coast to coast are holding the spotlight, but football returns to Monroe Tuesday night.

A full-length film of the Sugar Bowl game will be shown at Neville High school on that night. In case you don't remember, Texas Christian university trimmed Carnegie Tech in the 1939 classic at New Orleans in as thrilling a game as the carnival has seen.

The Mid-Winter Sports association, promoter of the Sugar Bowl attraction, has loaned the picture to John Sherrouse and Ed Seymour, and they're showing it Tuesday night. There will be no admission charge and everybody's invited. The show starts at 8 o'clock.

A TROPHY, AT LAST

Every year we hear a lot about the battle between the eight Cotton States league cities for the "attendance trophy" but from what we can learn, it's been many a year since a trophy was awarded the city which turned out the most fans on opening day. It's been an empty honor, as far as an honest-to-goodness piece of silverware is concerned.

It will be different this year, however. Max Moses, treasurer of the Monroe Baseball club and manager of the Peacock Jewelry company here, has offered a silver trophy to the club which draws the most patrons on opening day, and he's put it on display in his window. The offer has the wholehearted support of President Emmett Harty of the league and all club owners.

So this year the city which recruits the biggest gang on opening day will receive something else besides a lot of talk.

A BASEBALL SERIES

The Morning World today is starting a series of articles on baseball coaching authored by L. P. "Eddie" McLane, athletic director at Louisiana Tech. The series will be particularly interesting to high school coaches, but other baseball enthusiasts will find plenty of "meat" in the discussions.

Eddie is writing the series in an effort to be of assistance primarily to high school coaches who are starting their baseball hopefuls on the way to greater glory for dear old Whoosis on the diamond. He earnestly hopes that the series will be beneficial to the boys who direct the diamond activities of schools in northeast Louisiana.

We have "previewed" the articles and we believe Coach McLane has worked up a lot of valuable information for his readers.

We hope you like it.

'PURPLES' WIN PRACTICE GAME

Gain 7 To 0 Victory Over 'Golds' In Final Spring Training Tilt

Harry Morton and Jake Lively led the "Purples" to a 7-to-0 victory over the "Golds" yesterday afternoon in the final regulation intra-squad football game of the spring training period for the Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians.

The lone touchdown was scored late in the final quarter. With only two minutes left to play, Tommy Younse, the Tribe's new center, up from Ouachita Parish High school, intercepted one of Joe Ady's passes on his own 30-yard line and ran the ball back to midfield.

Lively made 15 yards on a wide end run; Morton picked up 12 more yards and then, with 10 seconds to play, Morton shot a sharp pass to Lively from the 10-yard line and Lively, catching the heave, crossed the goal to score.

Don Short, veteran of the 1938 eleven, who started the game at fullback for the Purples, was taken from the field in the third quarter because of a leg injury and was replaced by Lively, new addition from Grapeland, Tex. "Blondy" Evans, Purple tackle, was also hurt in the third quarter, suffering a mouth injury. He was replaced by Bill McManus.

Both teams were blocking and tackling hard and won the acclaim of Coach James L. Malone as showing the best blocking and tackling of any teams he had ever coached. There were mistakes, however, that should be ironed out before the 1939 campaign gets under way next fall.

Lineups yesterday were:

Purples: Kynock and Hewett, ends; Larson and Evans, tackles; McCain and Regan, guards; Younse, center; Westerman, quarterback; May and Morton, halfbacks; Short, fullback.

Golds: Penick and Macon, ends; Scharf and Hanson, tackles; Keeton and Porter, guards; Perry, center; Westbrook, quarterback; Bryson and Hutchins, halfbacks; Ady, fullback.

PADWAY SHATTERS POLE VAULT MARK

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18.—(AP)—Milt Padway of Wisconsin cracked the world's indoor pole vault record from a dirt runway in the Butler university indoor relays tonight with a towering leap of 14 feet, five-eighths inch. The old mark of 13 feet, seven and three-quarters inches was set by Tommy Warne of Northwestern in 1929.

After first assuring himself of first place with a vault of 13 feet, 8 and five-eights inches, Padway missed twice at the 14 feet, five-eighth inch mark before going over.

Foreign exchange, mixed; control funds buoys some rates. Cotton, easy; liquidation, foreign selling. Sugar, higher; outside buying, trade support. Coffee, soft producer selling.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Traders subject to "war nerves" dumped stocks in today's market and leading issues, at the worst, added 1 to 5 points to their sharp relapse of the preceding session. Prices improved substantially before the close, however, as the opinion gained ground that the sell-off may have been overdone

Pressure of offerings was pronounced at the opening, with blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares changing hands. Activity dwindled somewhat subsequently, but the turnover of 1,007,240 shares was the largest for any Saturday since October 22 last. The total or the preceding Saturday was 533,085 shares.

While virtually all departments suffered in the initial slump, aircrafts were notably resistant, apparently deriving support on the belief the latest German march to the east would serve to speed up rearmament programs of the democracies, even if general hostilities are avoided at the moment.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech to his English constituents late Friday probably brought home to Wall Street more than anything else the seriousness of the outlook abroad although, notwithstanding the stiffening of the attitude of the non-totalitarian states in the current crisis, some observers were still of the opinion a real explosion is not in the cards.

Amsterdam, the only important overseas market open today, pointed downward but inclined to steady before the finish. Offerings of American securities from foreign holders, New York commission houses reported, were comparatively light.

Some analysts advanced the thought the technical position of the domestic market had been bettered materially in view of the fact a large part of the February-March advance had been cancelled, with many stocks hovering in the neighborhood of their January lows.

Bonds dipped with stocks, but selected loans also came back in late dealings. Grains pointed upward as cotton futures slipped. Exchange controls maintained sterling and the French franc in a narrow range, but forward rates for foreign currencies declined again.

Business news—some of it fairly encouraging—was all but ignored as the international scene held the market spotlight.

3 IRISH HORSES SEEN AS BEST IN GRAND NATIONAL

Either Kilstar, Workman Or Royal Danieli Expected To Win

By Scotty Reston

AINTREE, Eng., March 18.—(AP)—Britain's top-hatted racing correspondents decided today that one of three Irish bred horses, Kilstar, Workman and Royal Danieli, will win the 101st Grand National steeplechase on Friday.

Their prediction was made with the usual apology—that in the past 100 years Grand National favorites generally have swooned in Becher's brook.

Kilstar, owned by Dorothy Paget, is the 11 to 2 choice while Royal Danieli, H. C. McNally's hopeful, and Workman, representative of Sir Alex MacGuire hold down the second spot at 10 to 1.

Royal Danieli, second by a nose to the American-owned Battleship last year, returned to the first three after victory at Baldoyle, Ireland, yesterday.

There are three American-owned runners: Mrs. Camille Evan's Royal Mail, only former winner of the race (1937), Mrs. Marion Scott's War Vessel, Son of Man o' War and Mrs. Louise E. Stoddard's Milano, which will be ridden by her husband.

War Vessel is considered a good outsider at 33 to 1 simply because the British critics have more respect for the sons of Man o' War since the 40 to 1 Battleship won last year's race in Mrs. Scott's silks.

The horses start arriving tomorrow for the big race. All 38 have finished their preliminary racing and jockeys for all but two have been selected. Practically the only detail that remains is for the Irish Hospital sweepstakes draw in Dublin Monday and Tuesday. On this draw alone around $4,000,000 will change hands.

Kilstar, stablemate of Golden Miller which won for Miss Paget in 1934, is the most unusual national favorite in years. A decided commoner by birth, a British army officer's mount until less than a year ago, Kilstar is favorite mainly because he concealed his ability until after the handicaps were published.

Purchased by Miss Paget "to fill an empty stall," Kilstar was a 40 to 1 shot when he was given 143 pounds, only three over the maximum. Since then he has won his only two major races on much worse terms against many of his competitors Friday. It is generally believed he would be given at least 20 pounds more to carry if the handicaps had been posted today.

ent boast a squad of 20 players and three or four others are expected to be present by tomorrow.

Manager Doug "Poco" Taitt, who piloted the Sox to the Cotton States championship last year, said last night that "Red" Pruitt, third baseman last year, was expected to be back.

Early rumors this year were to the effect that Pruitt was leaving professional baseball to join the Crossett Millers, a semi-pro team at Crossett, Ark., in the Ouachita Valley league. However, Manager Taitt said it appeared certain that Pruitt would be back.

With Pruitt back in camp, Manager Taitt said, the Sox will be still in need of a second baseman, a couple of outfielders and at least two more good pitchers. It is hoped that the locals' needs can be supplied from the number of rookies now on hand.

Old regulars in camp are Johnny Conway, short stop; Frank Hackney, second baseman who is being shifted to the outfield; Manager Taitt, outfielder; Hank Taylor, catcher; and John Yelovic, "Red" Andrews, Frank Narbut and Tex Nugent, pitchers. Floyd Speer, a righthander acquired from Hot Springs' 1938 team, is also taking part in the drills.

The rookies on hand are Mike Cullum, third baseman; Theo Williford, catcher; Jerrald, a short stop from a Nashville semi-pro league; Julius McBride, a rightfielder, also from a semi-pro team near Nashville; Bob Pearson, a second baseman sent here by Pete Medak, former Sox first baseman, from Hornsby's baseball school at Hot Springs; Nolan, a pitcher, who hurled for Mer Rouge in the Big Six league last season; Harold Wright, a 17-year-old pitcher from Little Rock, Ark.; George Taitt, younger brother of the Monroe pilot, who is seeking a place on the pitching staff; Ed Stroud and Drew Takewell, a pair of Monroe pitching aspirants; Murrell Jones, a first baseman, and one of the best rookie prospects from this section, who played with Clarks in the Big Six last year; Edwin Gaddy, a second baseman from Monticello, Ark., who hit .518 in a CCC league in his neighborhood in 1938; and Leroy Hewitte, an outfielder from Mer Rouge.

In addition to "Red" Pruitt, those expected to be here by tomorrow are Robert Ling, a second baseman, who comes highly touted by Nashville semi-pros; Smith, an outfielder from Oklahoma; and Dick Harrison, another second baseman from Nashville.

The game yesterday was an intra-squad affair between the Yelovics and the Conways. The Conways, with young Taitt on the mound, won the contest, 3 to 2.

Hank Taylor and Murrell Jones were the hitting stars of the game. Takewell went the route on the mound for the Yelovics.

The lineups were:

that was fully reported in the "Births" column—and John promises faithfully that he'll give Monroe first call on his services when he's ready for Cotton States league duty.

John says he'll let nature take its course—if he has lefthanded tendencies, he'll be a lefthander. And vice versa. If he takes after his old man, he'll be plenty good enough to fool the batters in this circuit.

So it's congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. John Yelovic, and best wishes to the future baseball star.

FOOTBALL RETURNS

This is baseball weather, and baseball teams from coast to coast are holding the spotlight, but football returns to Monroe Tuesday night.

A full-length film of the Sugar Bowl game will be shown at Neville High school on that night. In case you don't remember, Texas Christian university trimmed Carnegie Tech in the 1939 classic at New Orleans in as thrilling a game as the carnival has seen.

The Mid-Winter Sports association, promoter of the Sugar Bowl attraction, has loaned the picture to John Sherrouse and Ed Seymour, and they're showing it Tuesday night. There will be no admission charge and everybody's invited. The show starts at 8 o'clock.

A TROPHY, AT LAST

Every year we hear a lot about the battle between the eight Cotton States league cities for the "attendance trophy" but from what we can learn, it's been many a year since a trophy was awarded the city which turned out the most fans on opening day. It's been an empty honor, as far as an honest-to-goodness piece of silverware is concerned.

It will be different this year, however. Max Moses, treasurer of the Monroe Baseball club and manager of the Peacock Jewelry company here, has offered a silver trophy to the club which draws the most patrons on opening day, and he's put it on display in his window. The offer has the wholehearted support of President Emmett Harty of the league and all club owners.

So this year the city which recruits the biggest gang on opening day will receive something else besides a lot of talk.

A BASEBALL SERIES

The Morning World today is starting a series of articles on baseball coaching authored by L. P. "Eddie" McLane, athletic director at Louisiana Tech. The series will be particularly interesting to high school coaches, but other baseball enthusiasts will find plenty of "meat" in the discussions.

Eddie is writing the series in an effort to be of assistance primarily to high school coaches who are starting their baseball hopefuls on the way to greater glory for dear old Whoosis on the diamond. He earnestly hopes that the series will be beneficial to the boys who direct the diamond activities of schools in northeast Louisiana.

We have "previewed" the articles and we believe Coach McLane has worked up a lot of valuable information for his readers.

We hope you like it.

'PURPLES' WIN PRACTICE GAME

Gain 7 To 0 Victory Over 'Golds' In Final Spring Training Tilt

Harry Morton and Jake Lively led the "Purples" to a 7-to-0 victory over the "Golds" yesterday afternoon in the final regulation intra-squad football game of the spring training period for the Northeast Center of L. S. U. Indians.

The lone touchdown was scored late in the final quarter. With only two minutes left to play, Tommy Younse, the Tribe's new center, up from Ouachita Parish High school, intercepted one of Joe Ady's passes on his own 30-yard line and ran the ball back to midfield.

Lively made 15 yards on a wide end run; Morton picked up 12 more yards and then, with 10 seconds to play, Morton shot a sharp pass to Lively from the 10-yard line and Lively, catching the heave, crossed the goal to score.

Don Short, veteran of the 1938 eleven, who started the game at fullback for the Purples, was taken from the field in the third quarter because of a leg injury and was replaced by Lively, new addition from Grapeland, Tex. "Blondy" Evans, Purple tackle, was also hurt in the third quarter, suffering a mouth injury. He was replaced by Bill McManus.

Both teams were blocking and tackling hard and won the acclaim of Coach James L. Malone as showing the best blocking and tackling of any teams he had ever coached. There were mistakes, however, that should be ironed out before the 1939 campaign gets under way next fall.

Lineups yesterday were:

Purples: Kynock and Hewett, ends; Larson and Evans, tackles; McCain and Regan, guards; Younse, center; Westerman, quarterback; May and Morton, halfbacks; Short, fullback.

Golds: Penick and Macon, ends; Scharf and Hanson, tackles; Keeton and Porter, guards; Perry, center; Westbrook, quarterback; Bryson and Hutchins, halfbacks; Ady, fullback.

PADWAY SHATTERS POLE VAULT MARK

INDIANAPOLIS, March 18.—(AP)—Milt Padway of Wisconsin cracked the world's indoor pole vault record from a dirt runway in the Butler university indoor relays tonight with a towering leap of 14 feet, five-eighths inch. The old mark of 13 feet, seven and three-quarters inches was set by Tommy Warne of Northwestern in 1929.

After first assuring himself of first place with a vault of 13 feet, 8 and five-eighths inches, Padway missed twice at the 14 feet, five-eighth inch mark before going over.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, March 18.—(AP)—Traders subject to "war nerves" dumped stocks in today's market and leading issues, at the worst, added 1 to 5 points to their sharp relapse of the preceding session. Prices improved substantially before the close, however, as the opinion gained ground that the sell-off may have been overdone

Pressure of offerings was pronounced at the opening, with blocks of 1,000 to 6,000 shares changing hands. Activity dwindled somewhat subsequently, but the turnover of 1,007,240 shares was the largest for any Saturday since October 22 last. The total or the preceding Saturday was 533,085 shares.

While virtually all departments suffered in the initial slump, aircrafts were notably resistant, apparently deriving support on the belief the latest German march to the east would serve to speed up rearmament programs of the democracies, even if general hostilities are avoided at the moment.

Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech to his English constituents late Friday probably brought home to Wall Street more than anything else the seriousness of the outlook abroad although, notwithstanding the stiffening of the attitude of the non-totalitarian states in the current crisis, some observers were still of the opinion a real explosion is not in the cards.

Amsterdam, the only important overseas market open today, pointed downward but inclined to steady before the finish. Offerings of American securities from foreign holders, New York commission houses reported, were comparatively light.

Some analysts advanced the thought the technical position of the domestic market had been bettered materially in view of the fact a large part of the February-March advance had been cancelled, with many stocks hovering in the neighborhood of their January lows.

Bonds dipped with stocks, but selected loans also came back in late dealings. Grains pointed upward as cotton futures slipped. Exchange controls maintained sterling and the French franc in a narrow range, but forward rates for foreign currencies declined again.

Business news—some of it fairly encouraging—was all but ignored as the international scene held the market spotlight.

People Of Germany Wonder What Hitler Will Do Next

Berliners In Every Walk Of Life Asking Themselves This Question

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—What is the next thing up Hitler's sleeve?

This is a question which thinking Berliners in every walk of life asked themselves today as the Nazi capital organized a conquering hero's welcome for the returning fuehrer.

That the wiping out of Czechoslovakia as a state was not the end of territorial rearrangements in Europe was taken for granted by everybody here—both foreigners and German.

The group of men surrounding Hitler who are told of his plans in advance is exceedingly small. Sometimes it includes only Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Dr. Otto Dietrich, the fuehrer's press chief, whose star seems to be rising.

They are sworn to secrecy and they keep dependably tight-lipped.

Nevertheless events have a way of casting their shadows before them though, as the Nazi technique becomes perfected, these shadows grow shorter.

The September crisis crept along for a month. Dismemberment of Czechoslovakia was clearly discernible to those on the inside for only about a week before it happened.

Two cardinal principles of Hitler's foreign policy furnish clues to the direction in which forecasting shadows are likely to fall.

The first of these is that all Germans stand under the protection of Hitler, who regards it as his divine mission to "bring home into the Reich" all whom it is physically possible to rejoin to greater Germany, and to enable those who must remain outside to practice the Nazi weltanschauung, or "world outlook."

The second key tenet of naziism is that Hitler is determined to guarantee lebenstraum—"space for existence"—to a constantly increased and expanding German nation.

When he annexed Austria the press with one accord began to name him the "leader of all Germans."

With his assumption of a protectorate over Bohemia and Moravia the title of medieval German emperors was applied to Hitler by leading German publicists—"augmentor of the Reich."

Altogether 80,000,000 Germans are now "home in the Reich." Some 30,000,000, however, still remain outside.

In answering the question "what next?" it is justifiable to consider who of those 30,000,000 can physically "come home into the Reich."

Memel, with its 100,000 Germans, comes to mind first. Nobody here doubts but that it will be annexed by Germany sooner or later. Dr. Ernst Neumann, leader of the Memelland Germans, has indicated by his speeches in recent days that he thinks the hour of Memel's return to Germany is not far distant.

(Memel, a territory of 1,099 square miles, was detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles and handed over to Lithuania in 1923.)

Danzig, with its 400,000 inhabitants and 754 square miles, comes to mind next.

The Danzigers themselves do not seem to think the hour has struck just yet. Polish government circles, however, are keeping an anxious eye on this Baltic port, which they now control.

(Danzig, also German before the World war, was made a free city by the Versailles treaty and placed within the Polish customs administration to give Poland an outlet to the Baltic.)

Pomorze (part of the Polish corridor) also comes to mind as a possible early acquisition of the greater German Reich. There still are 175,000 Teutons in Pomorze and 345,000 in the district of Poznan.

(The Polish corridor was incorporated in Poland by post-war treaties.)

Then there are 35,000 Germans in Lithuania, 75,000 in Latvia, and 30,000 in Estonia.

One can often hear it said in Nazi circles that midget states like these have no right to exist by themselves in our day and age when "one must think in terms of vast economic areas."

Three million German-speaking Swiss are, to be sure, contiguous to the greater Reich, but they have shown anything but a disposition to invite Hitler to "liberate" them. The fuehrer has solemnly assured the Swiss he would respect their boundaries.

Fortunately for Germany, the pathway into the Balkans is studded with Germans and can easily be propagandized to want to "come home into the Reich."

Hungary has about 600,000 of them, Rumania 700,000, and Yugoslavia 750,000.

But left out in the cold would be only the 250,000 Germans of the south Tyrol, which is now Italian.

Hitler, friend of Mussolini and his guest in May, 1938, solemnly renounced all claims to these Germans, no matter how they may clamor for him to "bring them home to the Reich."

People Of Germany Wonder What Hitler Will Do Next

Berliners In Every Walk Of Life Asking Themselves This Question

By Louis P. Lochner

BERLIN, March 18.—(AP)—What is the next thing up Hitler's sleeve?

This is a question which thinking Berliners in every walk of life asked themselves today as the Nazi capital organized a conquering hero's welcome for the returning fuehrer.

That the wiping out of Czechoslovakia as a state was not the end of territorial rearrangements in Europe was taken for granted by everybody here—both foreigners and German.

The group of men surrounding Hitler who are told of his plans in advance is exceedingly small. Sometimes it includes only Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Dr. Otto Dietrich, the fuehrer's press chief, whose star seems to be rising.

They are sworn to secrecy and they keep dependably tight-lipped.

Nevertheless events have a way of casting their shadows before them though, as the Nazi technique becomes perfected, these shadows grow shorter.

The September crisis crept along for a month. Dismemberment of Czechoslovakia was clearly discernible to those on the inside for only about a week before it happened.

Two cardinal principles of Hitler's foreign policy furnish clues to the direction in which forecasting shadows are likely to fall.

The first of these is that all Germans stand under the protection of Hitler, who regards it as his divine mission to "bring home into the Reich" all whom it is physically possible to rejoin to greater Germany, and to enable those who must remain outside to practice the Nazi weltanschauung, or "world outlook."

The second key tenet of nazism is that Hitler is determined to guarantee lebenstraum—"space for existence"—to a constantly increased and expanding German nation.

When he annexed Austria the press with one accord began to name him the "leader of all Germans."

With his assumption of a protectorate over Bohemia and Moravia the title of medieval German emperors was applied to Hitler by leading German publicists—"augmentor of the Reich."

Altogether 80,000,000 Germans are now "home in the Reich." Some 30,000,000, however, still remain outside.

In answering the question "what next?" it is justifiable to consider who of those 30,000,000 can physically "come home into the Reich."

Memel, with its 100,000 Germans, comes to mind first. Nobody here doubts but that it will be annexed by Germany sooner or later. Dr. Ernst Neumann, leader of the Memelland Germans, has indicated by his speeches in recent days that he thinks the hour of Memel's return to Germany is not far distant.

(Memel, a territory of 1,099 square miles, was detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles and handed over to Lithuania in 1923.)

Danzig, with its 400,000 inhabitants and 754 square miles, comes to mind next.

The Danzigers themselves do not seem to think the hour has struck just yet. Polish government circles, however, are keeping an anxious eye on this Baltic port, which they now control.

(Danzig, also German before the World war, was made a free city by the Versailles treaty and placed within the Polish customs administration to give Poland an outlet to the Baltic.)

Pomorze (part of the Polish corridor) also comes to mind as a possible early acquisition of the greater German Reich. There still are 175,000 Teutons in Pomorze and 345,000 in the district of Poznan.

(The Polish corridor was incorporated in Poland by post-war treaties.)

Then there are 35,000 Germans in Lithuania, 75,000 in Latvia, and 30,000 in Estonia.

One can often hear it said in Nazi circles that midget states like these have no right to exist by themselves in our day and age when "one must think in terms of vast economic areas."

Three million German-speaking Swiss are, to be sure, contiguous to the greater Reich, but they have shown anything but a disposition to invite Hitler to "liberate" them. The fuehrer has solemnly assured the Swiss he would respect their boundaries.

Fortunately for Germany, the pathway into the Balkans is studded with Germans and can easily be propagandized to want to "come home into the Reich."

Hungary has about 600,000 of them, Rumania 700,000, and Yugoslavia 750,000.

But left out in the cold would be only the 250,000 Germans of the south Tyrol, which is now Italian.

Hitler, friend of Mussolini and his guest in May, 1938, solemnly renounced all claims to these Germans, no matter how they may clamor for him to "bring them home to the Reich."

'Cooter' Lambert Starts Life Again With New Legs

"Boy, these are worth a million dollars! Gee, now I can go place all by myself!" With flashing eyes and expansive smile, George "Cooter" Lambert, Jr., 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lambert, Sr., of 100 South Second street, West Monroe, expressed delight and appreciation. He had just been fitted with two artificial legs to replace injuries inflicted when both his legs were crushed under a train and later required amputation below the knee.

George, or "Cooter" as everybody call hims, was as happy last week as a boy with a new bicycle over his new acquisitions. No less happy were Claude Smith, Jr., 11-year-old son of Rev. C. K. Smith, West Monroe pastor, and the minister himself, both of whom had been constant companions and friends in the lad's misfortunes.

To show his appreciation of his new legs, "Cooter," with the aid of a cane went to Crosely school last Thursday, where he is in the sixth grade, and amazed his fellow students with his ability to transport himself after only 24 hours' use of his artificial legs. Also he made 100 in several subjects that day, surprising all other students to the delight of Mrs. Aimee Cook, his teacher.

The short and previously care-free life of "Cooter" was almost snuffed out last Thanksgiving day when in playing with his constant chum and classmate, Claude Smith, he raced a train and as he stepped on some slippery cinders, he fell under the moving wheels and both legs were crushed below the knees. He was rushed to St. Francis sanitarium where an emergency operation was required, both legs being amputated. For weeks and weeks, "Cooter" waged a desperate but ever optimistic battle to live. At no time did he complain of pain or express regrets or fears for the future. The attentions paid by physicians and nurses were greatly appreciated and he became the favorite of the place.

"Oh, I'll be out all right in a few days," he assured parents and friends with contagious optimism.

Every minute that he could spare from school was spent at "Cooter's" bedside by Claude Smith.

"Will 'Cooter' every play ball, shoot marbles, and fly kites?" he asked his father anxiously.

"I'm afraid not," Rev. Smith admitted." But he may be able to walk with artificial legs."

"Artificial legs, dad, what are they?" he asked his boyish curiosity.

Then the father explained.

"But don't they cost a lot?" he pursued.

"Yes, my son, they will but a way may be found to get them."

The Lambert family is in humble circumstances and the pastor realized thta money would have to come from some other source.

A little later Claude opened up the subject:

"Dad, why can't you ask folks at church to give the money?" he asked earnestly. The father demurred but ultimately consented to mention it in church but to ask for only free will donations.

The next Sunday this was done and the first money came to found what became known at the bank as the "George Lambert Fund," Claude Smith, Jr., in charge, aided by three trustees, F. C. McConnell, George Welch and T. H. Sanders. Money came in from many sources until more than $200 had been subscribed, all without solicitation. And as the Lambert fund grew day by day, "Cooter" was slowly gaining strength. Nurses and physicians supplied him with books, magazines and games and he became unfailingly interested deeply in physicians and medicine. "I'm going to be a doctor when I get big" he told those at his bedside, "I'll use my brain and Claude (who also professed his plan to become a physician) will be my legs!" he declared.

Finally one day "Cooter" was permitted to go home, where a wheel chair was awaiting him. Each morning and afternoon, Claude faithfully wheeled his chum to school and back again. In a hurry, "Cooter" caught up in his studies and amazed and pleased his teacher and Principal George Welch.

Last week the fund had reached $200, just $40 short of $300 which was to be the cost of two artificial legs purchased in Shreveport. But in no way discouraged were either Claude or his father. The two took "Cooter" to the city last Tuesday and spent two days there in order to have the artificial legs adjusted with care. History was recorded when "Cooter" was able to walk the streets of the Caddo parish city with the support of a cane. Rev. Smith at the outset had decided that his charge not resort to crutches as is customary as it was feared he might learn to depend on them too much. A case was submitted and will, it is expected, be discarded soon.

"I'm going to be a doctor when I'm a man and so's Claude. Guess the firm will be Smith and Lambert,' he reiterated yesterday.

A new vista of life has opened—a bright minded lad, in fact two lads—have had their entire future altered it would seem, if they carry out their boyish plans. Both lads have bright minds, and possess qualities that are designated as "what it takes."

"I feel," said Mrs. Lambert, mother of "Cooter," that his legs were his handicaps. They are gone now and I think their absence will cause him to get a new and broader vision of life and that he will map out a purposeful career—all may be a blessing in disguise.'

Both Mrs. Lambert and Rev. Smith stated that they wish to express sincere thanks to the public for the hearty and substantial response that came, all without special appeal, free will offerings being the only ones received. And the final $40., which was needed came on Thursday, it is understood, and was awaiting "Cooter" and his party when they returned from Shreveport.

"I think 'Cooter' has been helped by my son Claude, and also Claude has been immeasurably broadened in his sympathies and appreciation for the woes of others, in connection with the Lambert case," commented Rev. Smith. "A life has been salvaged, a community bound together more closely by a gesture of civic helpfulness. It is quite likely that both boys will ever be influenced by the experience through which they have undergone." was Rev. Smith's remark. And while he modestly declines to accept any credit, everybody knows that he was the real moving spirit that actuated the entire project.

PUBLIC FORUM

To The Editor:

Realizing that most people who live in the United States believe in the ideals and principles of democracy, I wish to call your attention to the following:

Do you know:

(1) That The Institute of Germans Living Abroad located at Stuttgart, Germany, is compiling a German World Migration Register with agents who are tracing and recording the names of all persons who have emigrated from Germany during the last 100 years. A record is, also, kept of the living descendants of these persons.

(2) That the German Bund in the United States rules 56 units scattered from coast to coast.

(3) That each group has its own newspaper and that in addition to these strictly party newspapers of the Bund, there are 20 German newspapers in our country which are printed in the German language and which preach anti-Semitism and ridicule Democracy?

What are we Americans going to do about these and similar Nazi activities within our borders? We can find a way to stop them if we get busy now. If we wait, it may be too late.

We should find some way to exterminate propaganda printed in the languages of those countries who have organized themselves opposed to the United States. American language customs, ideals, and principles should prevail in our country.

CORNERSTONE AT RUSTON OPENED

Only Mass Of Crumpled Paper Found In Methodist Church Remains

RUSTON, La., March 18.—(Special)—Ruston Methodists today, opening the cornerstone of the old Methodist church built in 1903, found only a crumbled mass of paper items that disintegrated with the slightest touch—evidence of their forefathers' good intentions to "preserve for posterity" but illustrating what dampness will do in 36 years, if cornerstones are not adequately sealed.

In the top part of the marble block was a cavity, measuring about four inches deep, four inches wide and 10 inches long, covered with a piece of metal which had corroded and loosened through the years.

T. L. James, chairman of the committee that made possible the erection of the new Methodist church one block east of the old building, removed the contents from the cornerstone, as other Methodists and Ruston citizens stood by to see what their predecessors had placed there.

So bad was the state of preservation that all of the items were intrinsically valueless and difficult to identify. When handled, the paper relics fell apart like ashes. S. D. Pearce, whose name appears on the old cornerstone, was among those attending the ceremonies Saturday morning. He is preparing a history of the church, which will be placed with other items in the new church cornerstone.

Bishop Frank A. Smith of Houston, Tex., will officiate at the dedication of the new church. He will preach twice daily at the new church from March 26 to April 2.

A case was submitted and will, it is expected, be discarded soon.

"I'm going to be a doctor when I'm a man and so's Claude. Guess the firm will be Smith and Lambert,' he reiterated yesterday.

A new vista of life has opened—a bright minded lad, in fact two lads—have had their entire future altered it would seem, if they carry out their boyish plans. Both lads have bright minds, and possess qualities that are designated as "what it takes."

"I feel," said Mrs. Lambert, mother of "Cooter," that his legs were his handicaps. They are gone now and I think their absence will cause him to get a new and broader vision of life and that he will map out a purposeful career—all may be a blessing in disguise.'

Both Mrs. Lambert and Rev. Smith stated that they wish to express sincere thanks to the public for the hearty and substantial response that came, all without special appeal, free will offerings being the only ones received. And the final $40,, which was needed came on Thursday, it is understood, and was awaiting "Cooter" and his party when they returned from Shreveport.

"I think 'Cooter' has been helped by my son Claude, and also Claude has been immeasurably broadened in his sympathies and appreciation for the woes of others, in connection with the Lambert case," commented Rev. Smith. "A life has been salvaged, a community bound together more closely by a gesture of civic helpfulness. It is quite likely that both boys will ever be influenced by the experience through which they have undergone." was Rev. Smith's remark. And while he modestly declines to accept any credit, everybody knows that he was the real moving spirit that actuated the entire project.

PUBLIC FORUM

To The Editor:

Realizing that most people who live in the United States believe in the ideals and principles of democracy, I wish to call your attention to the following:

Do you know:

(1) That The Institute of Germans Living Abroad located at Stuttgart, Germany, is compiling a German World Migration Register with agents who are tracing and recording the names of all persons who have emigrated from Germany during the last 100 years. A record is, also, kept of the living descendants of these persons.

(2) That the German Bund in the United States rules 56 units scattered from coast to coast.

(3) That each group has its own newspaper and that in addition to these strictly party newspapers of the Bund, there are 20 German newspapers in our country which are printed in the German language and which preach anti-Semitism and ridicule Democracy?

What are we Americans going to do about these and similar Nazi activities within our borders? We can find a way to stop them if we get busy now. If we wait, it may be too late.

We should find some way to exterminate propaganda printed in the languages of those countries who have declared themselves opposed to the United States. American language, customs, ideals, and principles should prevail in our country.

...age Given In Home Of Mrs. H. R. Saenger In Honor Of Mrs. P. A. Wynn

...Art Lovers At Attractive Affair

...' Paintings Elicit Considerable Praise From Guests; Honoree's Portrait Exhibited

A charming Sunday afternoon adventure for Monroe's ...ers was Mrs. H. R. Saenger's vernissage at her home on ... Grand street with Mrs. P. A. Wynn of Houston, Tex., ... guest of honor. Mrs. Wynn's portrait, painted by Mrs. ...enger last year, occupied a prominent place in the art ex...it and was greatly admired by the 200 guests who called ...ring the appointed hours. The diamond cross worn by Mrs. ...Wynn was inherited from her great-grandmother and formed ... lovely, decorative note for the por...trait. Mrs. Saenger excels in por...traiture and has to her credit several ...ractive paintings which were on ...play at this time.

The entire lower floor of the Saenger home was converted into a con...temporary studio with floodlights ...arily arranged to bring out the lights ...d shadows in the paintings to the ...st advantage.

Especially decorative are Mrs. Saenger's floral paintings done with a wealth of color and vividness. She has a flair for color and uses it with firmness and assurance. In the still life paintings, one finds evidence of an eye which finds splendor in humble things.

An admirable landscape, recently completed, is the J. R. Wooten home on South Grand showing the flower bordered walk and the beautiful old camellia bushes. Simple, spontaneous and altogether lovely were the hollyhocks done in water colors, in rich shades of pink. All of Mrs. Saenger's still life work, in fact, is well balanced, fresh and stimulating. Several water scenes attracted the interest of guests, one in particular of a fishing boat in the bay of Galveston, was unusually attractive in technique and composition.

Upstairs in Mrs. Saenger's studio were hung the portraits which were beautifully done. Here also was found several interesting objects in clay, the work of Mrs. Saenger who is especially talented in sculpturing. Several pieces were noteworthy for their solidity and balance.

The exhibit took on the aspects of a soiree later in the evening when frozen fruit frappe and luscious confections were served from a lace covered table in the dining room where Mrs. Melville Vaughan, Mrs. Joseph Winkler, Jr., and Miss Clarice Slagle graciously presided. A picturesque plaque of superb blue pansies and pink hyacinth formed the artistic central decor for the candlelit refreshment table.

Mrs. Saenger was wearing a smart black lace and net evening model and Mrs. Wynn, the guest of honor, was wearing a coral pink chiffon and net model.

Assisting in receiving were Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Anthony Thebo, Mrs. Henry Mayo, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Mrs. O. A. Easterling and Mrs. Thomas Monk.

Meeting Held By University Women

The American Association of University Women met at the home of Miss Ivo Wilson with Mrs. W. E. Leigh co-hostess.

Mrs. George Holland, chairman of the program, introduced the topics which were to be discussed. "American Association of University Women Fellowship" was the theme of the program.

Miss Clara Wood discussed "The History of the American Association of University Women Fellowships." Miss Wood stated that the association believed in practical idealism, and that it had acted on this belief in establishing fellowships to help women who give promise of outstanding scholarly distinction. The first fellowship was established in 1890. The fellowships awarded by the association are for advanced work only. In all 240 fellowships have been made. Each association unit determines the name of its fellowship and the amount of its endowment goal, and designates its fellowships, national or international. The need for fellowships is greater today than ever. Progress of human knowledge has lengthened the road to mastery in any subject.

Mrs. John Best reported on "Fellowships and Fellows." She named the American Association of University Women, European Fellowship, American Collegiate Fellowship, Boston Alumnae Fellowship, Latin American Fellowship, and the A. A. U. W. International Fellowship as the most outstanding fellowships awarded by the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. J. Noble White rendered two vocal solos with Mrs. E. Everitt Lawson accompanying.

After the program, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, president, presided, while the chairman of each committee gave the following reports: Mrs. Fred Williamson reported on the educational bills which are being introduced before congress; Mrs. C. C. Colvert gave a report on international relations problems which were discussed at a recent meeting which she attended in Cleveland; Dr. Julia Hunter suggested a health interest in the malaria work of Monroe; Miss Mary Hester gave a report on educational needs and of a survey to be made in Ouachita parish of underprivileged children.

A delicious refreshment course was served by the hostesses to Mrs. W. C. Oliver, Mrs. John Coon, Mrs. J. Noble White, Miss Mary Hester, Mrs. C. C. Colvert, Miss Dean McKoin, Mrs. W. R. Hammond, Mrs. Fred Williamson, Miss Virginia Gangsted, Mrs. C. R. Younse, Dr. Julia Hunter, Mrs. Herbert Steed, Miss Edwynne Joseph, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mrs. George Holland, Mrs. John Best, Miss Lucylle Godwin, Mrs. Ned Leigh, Mrs. E. Everitt Lawson, and Mrs. J. C. Curry.

Monroe Garden Club Meets

The meeting last week of the Monroe Garden club with Mrs. A. G. McHenry was unusually interesting as each member had something of exceptional interest to say in regard to the cultivation of gardens and their own individual ideas and plans.

Monroe gardens placed on the state visiting list at this time were those of Mrs. John Breard, Mrs. Allan Sholars, Mrs. Blanks Parker, Mrs. Clyde Brown, Mrs. J. R. Wooten and Mrs. Leo Keenan's roof garden.

Mrs. Kate Morrice, horticulture chairman, led a constructive quiz on important work to be done in the garden during the month of March. Mrs. Morrice is chairman of the committee working with the city administration in the project of planting 100 magnolia trees as a memorial drive extending from Riverside to the natatorium.

Mrs. Elmer Richards, civic chairman, gave a report on the work being done in cooperation with Dean Colvert in additional landscaping at Northeast Center of L. S. U.

Mrs. Clyde Brown read a paper on the cultivation of the popular summer garden flower, the perinnial phlox.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. McHenry invited her guests into the garden where the beauty of springtime is seen at its best. Blooming in extravagant array are many varieties of camellias, azaleas, wild phlox, as well as hundreds of bulbs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Winkler, Jr., Miss Marie Winkler and Mr. Raymond Vickery attended the opera "Manon" at Louisiana State university last night. Mr. John Winkler was cast in an important role.

BLONDE AND BRUNETTE FIND SUIT BEAUTY

One wears a sailor—one wears a homburg—both wear complexion colors in royella tweed. The brunette—vintage brown and nude; the blonde—chartreuse and royal blue. Each is from groups of colors blended in this news-making fabric, for different types of beauty. A girl dressed like this might well rank high in the "dress-up" contest that opens here today. Suits—Fierman-Kolmer. Hats—Lilly Dache.

Country Life Claims Members Of Society

Many Turning To Farms As Way To Get Away From Bustling Activities In The City

EVERY living soul suddenly discovers when the south wind blows and nature is busily engaged in making billions of buds, that they have a bit of the gypsy in them. Wanderlust stirs the blood of old and young.

Always at this time of the year, the desire is born anew to visit down old trails where nature spreads a bright colored canvas. Shackled, conventionalized, city dwellers dream of the time when they can "get away from it all." Several in Monroe have really done something about it and now have a little place in the country, they can call their very own. The W. A. Walkers, for instance, have a daily rendezvous with Mother Nature. They have found a place far removed from the public highways, where they can dig in the warm, brown earth these cool spring days and rest in the shade of great oaks when summer comes. Minna Lea has suggested naming their country place "Forty Oaks," and most appropriate it is.

When business permits, Meyer Greenwald motors daily to a spot in the country he calls his own. His hobby is fruit trees so he is now hard at work planting an orchard. He is also planning to dam the spring that runs through his acreage and make a lake that will be stocked with fish later on. Meyer and Lily are consulting blue prints with the idea of constructing a rustic cabin in the near future.

Another gentleman farmer is Arthur Dryburgh. He recently purchased the old Truard place on Milhaven road and plans to restore the ante-bellum home to its former beauty. The cypress used in its construction before the War Between the States is in a splendid state of preservation so the original lines of architecture and the stately, high ceilinged rooms will remain just as they are. From early morning until late at night Arthur can be found at his country habitat, planting and planning and visualizing the bounty soon to spring from the soil. His hobby is raising white Plymouth Rock chickens. The fresh eggs he gathers each day for the Dryburgh menage look to him like pearls of great price.

It was really the Bernard Biedenharns who started the rusticating fad in Monroe. So content are they with country life at "BernBett" they count the day lost spent in town. Even though they maintain a beautiful home on North Third street, their heart is in the country where the air is sweet and fresh and life is tranquil, harmonious and very close to the heart's desire. Bernard and Betty, now that spring is here, are up with the lark, riding horseback over the fresh, green countryside. During the rainy season when city dwellers were complaining about the constant downpour, Betty said, "It's wasn't raining rain for her it was raining daffodils." If you could see the army of yellow daffodils surrounding their rustic home you would quite agree with her.

For those who have a yen for the country in the springtime there is always the wide, open road at their disposal. The Gypsy spirit can lead one here and there, east and west and far into the deep south where old homes and gardens are now open to all.

Something to look forward to is Shreveport's second annual garden tour, April 22-23. Eight privately owned gardens will be open to the public, climaxing in a tea at the Shreveport Country club. The flower show will be held at the municipal auditorium, March 24-26.

Among the social courtesies complimenting Miss Theda Bly Lewis ere departure for her new home in Beaumont, Tex., was Miss Helen Wilson's conversational hour at her home in West Monroe.

Readers Clique Holds Meeting

Spring flowers created a festive atmosphere in the reception suite of Mrs. J. S. Harbuck's new home when she was hostess to members of the Readers Clique Wednesday afternoon.

A brief business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. X. Holt, was held. The members answered roll call with a sentence from the last book read. Mrs. G. L. Morgan was selected as study leader for the remainder of the year's subject, "Interior Decorating."

Mrs. Clyde Blanchard presented a well prepared paper on "Period Characteristics in Furniture." She said in part: "Every woman who is interested in a home thinks in terms of furniture, yet few consider that in order to select furniture intelligently one must have some historic knowledge of the subject.

"Inspired by the Italian Renaissance people began to interest themselves in beautifying their homes. Thus, led by great painters and architects, cabinet makers began to create furniture of great beauty, most of the furniture being massive and heavy with elaborate carving. Oak was the wood most generally used in these early days.

"In the last years of the Renaissance, Italian influence declined in England, and that country began to produce furniture of a more individual type. Gothic traditions, which had been submerged by the inflow of Florentine art, were revived. The furniture of this period was noticeably simple in design, being broad, solid heavy and obviously built for comfort rather than display. Mahogany become the popular wood used in 1720 and remained in favor for many years.

"Much of the elegance that prevailed in town houses of the 17th and 18th centuries is noticeable in the smaller country houses, but is expressed in much simpler and plianer form. This is evidenced by the paneled doors with their plain brass or iron latches and heavy bolts, the simple door frames and the small-paned windows. The gate-leg table was used in these houses really as a matter of necessity. The open-faced cupboard, displaying pieces of china and pewter on the shelves, created a homey note. The New England colonists of America affected the same type of furniture as that used in the country houses of England.

"The French Renaissance, which followed the Italian Renaissance was an era in the world's history for lavish expenditure. Three French periods in particular are of interest to us—Louis XIV, Louis XV and Louis XVI—making the production of furniture that has proved adaptable for modern use. The French empire period upon American designing did not become practical until Duncan Phyfe, an American, adapted this furniture to modern needs. Outstanding in his designs, we find the pedestal table, later used for dining room use. Rosewood became as popular as mahogany, and a combination of lacquer and gilt was used a long with various light fruitwoods."

Members enjoying the customary social hour included Mrs. Clyde Blanchard, Mrs. Cecil Blanchard, Mrs. J. S. Harbuck, Mrs. W. F. Hemler, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. X. Holt, Mrs. R. C. Kester, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. Clay Olbon, Mrs. C. J. Phelps, Mrs. H. A. Taylor, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, and a guest, Mrs. Merle Williams.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

The Current Literature Book club held a very interesting meeting in the home of Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich. Beautiful vases of narcissi and red buds were used as decorations throughout the house. The president, Mrs. G. D. Holland, presided over a brief business session.

The afternoon's program comprised a talk on international relations by Mrs. Heidenreich.

The book, "Four Hundred Million Customers," by Carl Crow, was reviewed by Mrs. Raymond John. The book deals with the Chinese people, their manner and customs.

"In China," she said, "shopkeepers choose their employes not for their intelligence, industry and honesty, but because they are members of important and influential families whose trade the shopkeeper desires. The women will not accept, even as a gift, a packet of assorted needles. Orthodox pokee is played as it was played in Texas 30 years ago. A man likes to conduct his business in the open so that every passerby may see and comment upon his industry. An empty beer bottle is counted a precious gift."

The hostess served refreshments to Mesdames V. S. Garnett, G. W. Guerriero, G. D. Holland, Mike John, Jr., R. G. John, J. E. Kersh, J. C. Kramer, Jr., J. M. Menefee, Louis Peters, E. R. Whitaker and John Best.

Recent guests in the home of Mrs George Hair were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Fuquay of Hutchinson, Kans., Mrs. J. O. Henry and Mrs. Margaret Berry of Winnsboro and Miss Hilda Ann Hair of Natchitoches. Mr. and Mrs. Fuquay enjoyed a motor trip in southern Louisiana and in Natchez, Miss., where they attended the garden pilgrimage.

Mr. and Mrs. Mack Davis of Tupelo, Miss., announce the arrival of a son in their home, March 11. Mrs. Davis was formerly Miss Mary Evelyn Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Watkins of West Monroe.

Vernisage Given In Home Of Mrs. H. R. Saenger In Honor Of Mrs. P. A. Wynn

Hostess' Paintings Elicit Considerable Praise From Guests; Honoree's Portrait Exhibited

A charming Sunday afternoon adventure for Monroe's art lovers was Mrs. H. R. Saenger's vernisage at her home on South Grand street with Mrs. P. A. Wynn of Houston, Tex., the guest of honor. Mrs. Wynn's portrait, painted by Mrs. Saenger last year, occupied a prominent place in the art exhibit and was greatly admired by the 200 guests who called during the appointed hours. The diamond cross worn by Mrs. Wynn was inherited from her great-grandmother and formed a lovely, decorative note for the portrait. Mrs. Saenger excels in portraiture and has to her credit several distinctive paintings which were on display at this time.

The entire lower floor of the Saenger home was converted into a contemporary studio with floodlights deftly arranged to bring out the lights and shadows in the paintings to the best advantage.

Especially decorative are Mrs. Saenger's floral paintings done with a warmth of color and vividness. She has a flair for color and uses it with firmness and assurance. In the still life paintings, one finds evidence of an eve which finds splendor in humble things.

An admirable landscape, recently completed, is the J. R. Wooten home on South Grand showing the flower bordered walk and the beautiful old camellia bushes. Simple, spontaneous and altogether lovely were the hollyhocks done in water colors, in rich shades of pink. All of Mrs. Saenger's still life work, in fact, is well balanced, fresh and stimulating. Several water scenes attracted the interest of guests, one in particular of a fishing boat in the bay of Galveston, was unusually attractive in technique and composition.

Upstairs in Mrs. Saenger's studio were hung the portraits which were beautifully done. Here also was found several interesting objects in clay, the work of Mrs. Saenger who is especially talented in sculpturing. Several pieces were noteworthy for their solicity and balance.

The exhibit took on the aspects of a soiree later in the evening when frozen fruit frappe and luscious confections were served from a lace covered table in the dining room where Mrs. Melville Vaughan, Mrs. Joseph Winkler, Jr., and Miss Clarice Slagle graciously presided. A picturesque plaque of superb blue pansies and pink hyacinth formed the artistic central decor for the candlelit refreshment table.

Mrs. Saenger was wearing a smart black lace and net evening model and Mrs. Wynn, the guest of honor, was wearing a coral pink chiffon and net model.

Assisting in receiving were Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. Anthony Thebo, Mrs. Henry Mayo, Mrs. Elmer Slagle, Mrs. O. A. Easterling and Mrs. Thomas Monk.

Meeting Held By University Women

The American Association of University Women met at the home of Miss Ivo Wilson with Mrs. W. E. Leigh co-hostess.

Mrs. George Holland, chairman of the program, introduced the topics which were to be discussed. "American Association of University Women Fellowship" was the theme of the program.

Miss Clara Wood discussed "The History of the American Association of University Women Fellowships." Miss Wood stated that the association believed in practical idealism, and that it had acted on this belief in establishing fellowships to help women who give promise of outstanding scholarly distinction. The first fellowship was established in 1890. The fellowships awarded by the association are for advanced work only. In all 240 fellowships have been made. Each association unit determines the name of its fellowship and the amount of its endowment goal, and designates its fellowships, national or international. The need for fellowships is greater today than ever. Progress of human knowledge has lengthened the road to mastery in any subject.

Mrs. John Best reported on "Fellowships and Fellows." She named the American Association of University Women, European Fellowship, American Collegiate Fellowship, Boston Alumnae Fellowship, Latin American Fellowship, and the A. A. U. W. International Fellowship as the most outstanding fellowships awarded by the American Association of University Women.

Mrs. J. Noble White rendered two vocal solos with Mrs. E. Everitt Lawson accompanying.

After the program, Miss Myrtle Rodgers, president, presided, while the chairman of each committee gave the following reports: Mrs. Fred Williamson reported on the educational bills which are being introduced before congress; Mrs. C. C. Colvert gave a report on international relations problems which were discussed at a recent meeting which she attended in Cleveland; Dr. Julia Hunter suggested a health interest in the malaria work of Monroe; Miss Mary Hester gave a report on educational needs and of a survey to be made in Ouachita parish of underprivileged children.

Monroe Garden Club Meets

The meeting last week of the Monroe Garden club with Mrs. A. G. McHenry was unusually interesting as each member had something of exceptional interest to say in regard to the cultivation of gardens and their own individual ideas and plans.

Monroe gardens placed on the state visiting list at this time were those of Mrs. John Breard, Mrs. Allan Sholars, Mrs. Blanks Parker, Mrs. Clyde Brown, Mrs. J. R. Wooten and Mrs. Leo Keenan's roof garden.

Mrs. Kate Morrice, horticulture chairman, led a constructive quiz on important work to be done in the garden during the month of March. Mrs. Morrice is chairman of the committee working with the city administration in the project of planting 100 magnolia trees as a memorial drive extending from Riverside to the natatorium.

Mrs. Elmer Richards, civic chairman, gave a report on the work being done in cooperation with Dean Colvert in additional landscaping at Northeast Center of L. S. U.

Mrs. Clyde Brown read a paper on the cultivation of the popular summer garden flower, the perinnial phlox.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. McHenry invited her guests into the garden where the beauty of springtime is seen at its best. Blooming in extravagant array are many varieties of camellias, azaleas, wild phlox, as well as hundreds of bulbs.

BLONDE AND BRUNETTE FIND SUIT BEAUTY

One wears a sailor—one wears a homburg—both wear complexion colors in royella tweed. The brunette—vintage brown and nude; the blonde—chartreuse and royal blue. Each is from groups of colors blended in this news-making fabric, for different types of beauty. A girl dressed like this might well rank high in the "dress-up" contest that opens here today. Suits—Fierman-Kolmer. Hats—Lilly Dache.

Country Life Claims Members Of Society

Many Turning To Farms As Way To Get Away From Bustling Activities In The City

EVERY living soul suddenly discovers when the south wind blows and nature is busily engaged in making billions of buds, that they have a bit of the gypsy in them. Wanderlust stirs the blood of old and young.

Always at this time of the year, the desire is born anew to visit down old trails where nature spreads a bright colored canvas. Shackled, conventionalized, city dwellers dream of the time when they can "get away from it all." Several in Monroe have really done something about it and now have a little place in the country, they can call their very own. The W. A. Walkers, for instance, have a daily rendezvous with Mother Nature. They have found a place far removed from the public highways, where they can dig in the warm, brown earth these cool spring days and rest in the shade of great oaks when summer comes. Minna Lea has suggested naming their country place "Forty Oaks," and most appropriate it is.

When business permits, Meyer Greenwald motors daily to a spot in the country he calls his own. His hobby is fruit trees so he is now hard at work planting an orchard. He is also planning to dam the spring that runs through his acreage and make a lake that will be stocked with fish later on. Meyer and Lily are consulting blue prints with the idea of constructing a rustic cabin in the near future.

Another gentleman farmer is Arthur Dryburgh. He recently purchased the old Truard place on Milhaven road and plans to restore the ante-bellum home to its former beauty. The cypress used in its construction before the War Between the States is in a splendid state of preservation so the original lines of architecture and the stately, high ceilinged rooms will remain just as they are. From early morning until late at night Arthur can be found at his country habitat, planting and planning and visualizing the bounty soon to spring from the soil. His hobby is raising white Plymouth Rock chickens. The fresh eggs he gathers each day for the Dryburgh menage look to him like pearls of great price.

It was really the Bernard Biedenharns who started the rusticating fad in Monroe. So content are they with country life at "BernBett" they count the day lost spent in town. Even though they maintain a beautiful home on North Third street, their heart is in the country where the air is sweet and fresh and life is tranquil, harmonious and very close to the heart's desire. Bernard and Betty, now that spring is here, are up with the lark, riding horseback over the fresh, green countryside. During the rainy season when city dwellers were complaining about the constant downpour, Betty said, "It's wasn't raining rain for her it was raining daffodils." If you could see the army of yellow daffodils surrounding their rustic home you would quite agree with her.

For those who have a yen for the country in the springtime there is always the wide, open road at their disposal. The Gypsy spirit can lead one here and there, east and west and far into the deep south where old homes and gardens are now open to all.

Something to look forward to is Shreveport's second annual garden tour, April 22-23. Eight privately owned gardens will be open to the public, climaxing in a tea at the Shreveport Country club. The flower show will be held at the municipal auditorium, March 24-26.

Among the social courtesies complimenting Miss Theda Bly Lewis ere departure for her new home in Beaumont, Tex., was Miss Helen Wilson's conversational hour at her home in West Monroe.

Readers Clique Holds Meeting

Spring flowers created a festive atmosphere in the reception suite of Mrs. J. S. Harbuck's new home when she was hostess to members of the Readers Clique Wednesday afternoon.

A brief business session, presided over by the president, Mrs. X. Holt, was held. The members answered roll call with a sentence from the last book read. Mrs. G. L. Morgan was selected as study leader for the remainder of the year's subject, "Interior Decorating."

Mrs. Clyde Blanchard presented a well prepared paper on "Period Characteristics in Furniture." She said in part: "Every woman who is interested in a home thinks in terms of furniture, yet few consider that in order to select furniture intelligently one must have some historic knowledge of the subject.

"Inspired by the Italian Renaissance people began to interest themselves in beautifying their homes. Thus, led by great painters and architects, cabinet makers began to create furniture of great beauty, most of the furniture being massive and heavy with elaborate carving. Oak was the wood most generally used in these early days.

"In the last years of the Renaissance, Italian influence declined in England, and that country began to produce furniture of a more individual type. Gothic traditions, which had been submerged by the inflow of Florentine art, were revived. The furniture of this period was noticeably simple in design, being broad, solid heavy and obviously built for comfort rather than display. Mahogany become the popular wood used in 1720 and remained in favor for many years.

"Much of the elegance that prevailed in town houses of the 17th and 18th centuries is noticeable in the smaller country houses, but is expressed in much simpler and plianer form. This is evidenced by the paneled doors with their plain brass or iron latches and heavy bolts, the simple door frames and the small-paned windows. The gate-leg table was used in these houses really as a matter of necessity. The open-faced cupboard, displaying pieces of china and pewter on the shelves, created a homey note. The New England colonists of America affected the same type of furniture as that used in the country houses of England.

"The French Renaissance, which followed the Italian Renaissance was an era in the world's history for lavish expenditure. Three French periods in particular are of interest to us—Louis XIV, Louis XV and Louis XVI—making the production of furniture that has proved adaptable for modern use. The French empire period upon American designing did not become practical until Duncan Phyfe, an American, adapted this furniture to modern needs. Outstanding in his designs, we find the pedestal table, later used for dining room use. Rosewood became as popular as mahogany, and a combination of lacquer and gilt was used a long with various light fruitwoods."

Members enjoying the customary social hour included Mrs. Clyde Blanchard, Mrs. Cecil Blanchard, Mrs. J. S. Harbuck, Mrs. W. F. Hemler, Mrs. Burl Hollis, Mrs. X. Holt, Mrs. R. C. Kester, Mrs. G. L. Morgan, Mrs. Clay Olbon, Mrs. C. J. Phelps, Mrs. H. A. Taylor, Mrs. J. L. Whitfield, and a guest, Mrs. Merle Williams.

Current Literature Club Holds Meeting

The Current Literature Book club held a very interesting meeting in the home of Mrs. G. M. Heidenreich. Beautiful vases of narcissi and red buds were used as decorations throughout the house. The president, Mrs. G. D. Holland, presided over a brief business session.

The afternoon's program comprised a talk on international relations by Mrs. Heidenreich.

The book, "Four Hundred Million Customers," by Carl Crow, was reviewed by Mrs. Raymond John. The book deals with the Chinese people, their manner and customs.

"In China," she said, "shopkeepers choose their employes not for their intelligence, industry and honesty, but because they are members of important and influential families whose trade the shopkeeper desires. The women will not accept, even as a gift, a packet of assorted needles. Orthodox pokee is played as it was played in Texas 30 years ago. A man likes to conduct his business in the open so that every passerby may see and comment upon his industry. An empty beer bottle is counted a precious gift."

The hostess served refreshments to Mesdames V. S. Garnett, G. W. Guerriero, G. D. Holland, Mike John, Jr., R. G. John, J. E. Kersh, J. C. Kramer, Jr., J. M. Menefee, Louis Peters, E. R. Whitaker and John Best.

All the realism, humor, pathos and tragedy of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" were portrayed in a sincere and understanding arrangement by Louis Guerriero of this city, who presented the second of the reading hour series before a capacity audience in the Workshop theater at the Louisiana State university March 13.

The story of two itinerant ranch workers, George Milton and Lem Small, to which Steinbeck applied the technique of play writing to novel writing was presented by Mr. Guerriero, who drew his characters sharply, giving the unique devotion of the laborers in a sympathetic yet human interpretation. Mr. Guerriero, a senior in the department of speech, chose this novel as it is represetative of the most characteristic modern writing.

This new phase of Mr. Guerriero's career is especially interesting to his friends, here as he is a graduate of Northeast Center and was prominently identified with the Little Theater movement in Monroe. While a student here he directed some of the most successful productions of that group.

All the realism, humor, pathos and tragedy of John Steinbeck's "Of Mice and Men" were portrayed in a sincere and understanding arrangement by Louis Guerriero of this city, who presented the second of the reading hour series before a capacity audience in the Workshop theater at the Louisiana State university March 13.

The story of two itinerant ranch workers, George Milton and Leni Small, to which Steinbeck applied the technique of play writing to novel writing, was presented by Mr. Guerriero, who drew his characters sharply, giving the unique devotion of the laborers in a sympathetic yet humorous interpretation. Mr. Guerriero, a senior in the department of speech, chose this novel as it is represetative of the most characteristic modern writing.

This new phase of Mr. Guerriero's career is especially interesting to his friends here as he is a graduate of Northeast Center and was prominently identified with the Little Theater movement in Monroe. While a student here he directed some of the most successful productions of that group.

Since going to L. S. U. he has had leads in such major productions as "R. U. R." and "Susan and God."

Gallagher Becomes The Bride Of Dr. Clifton Baylein Flinn At Mer Rouge

ple United With Impressive Ceremony

rmal Reception Held After Rites; Honeymoon Trip Is Taken To Old Mexico

One of the most prominent nuptial events of the spring season was the wedding of Miss Zanona Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guy Gallagher of Mer Rouge, and Dr. Clifton Baylein Flinn of this city, March 10, at the home of the bride's parents.

The lower floor of the spacious colonial home was ensuite and lavishly adorned with fragrant spring blossoms. Palms and ferns created a dignified background for the ceremony performed by Rev. W. F. Roberts, pastor of the First Methodist church of Mer Rouge. On either side of the handsome marble hearth Marie Antoinette baskets overflowed with pink gladiolas and carnations. Tall floor candelabras supporting pink tapers formed an artistic enclosure for the wedding party. The lovely scene was reflected in an antique mirror in the background.

A charming ceremony was the lighting of the tapers by Mr. William Blackwell.

Three girlhood friends of the bride, Miss Melba Edwards, Miss Lois Golson and Mrs. Hassell Clark, wearing picturesque frocks of three shades of lavender and with corsages of pink Tokyo roses, sang "Ich Liebe Dich" and "At Dawning" with violin obligato.

The maid of honor, Miss June Bacon, cousin of the bride, walked down the stairway studded with southern smilax and roses. She wore a beautiful turquoise blue net model over taffeta with a chaplet of fresh flowers in her hair. She carried a fan shaped bouquet of salmon pink gladioli.

The bride with her father who gave her in marriage, descended the stairs in a mellow glow radiated by myriad candles. She wore a distinctive wedding gown of shell-pink starched lace over bridal satin. Her black hair was braided in halo effect and she wore a Juliet cap fashioned of sweetheart roses and orchids. A gorgeous bouquet of orchids and valley lilies was carried. For something old she wore a handsome antique diamond brooch presented to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Alice Felton.

Dr. Flinn and his best man, Mr. Thomas Payne Flinn, Jr., awaited at the improvised altar.

During the ceremony "To A Wild Rose" and "Liebestraum" were impressively rendered.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held and guests invited to the dining room where individual wedding cakes embossed in pink roses, wedding ring mints and pink ices were served. The bride's table was overlaid with handsome lace over white satin had for central decor a pyramid of Calla lilies and pale pink carnations.

The handsome wedding gifts were on display in the library where they were viewed by the guests.

Dr. and Mrs. Flinn left for a honeymoon in Mexico. Mrs. Flinn traveled in a beautiful costume suit of gold color trimmed with lynx fur, with accessories of gold and a corsage of orchids.

Upon their return they will be at home in this city where Dr. Flinn is a prominent member of the medical profession. He obtained his B. A. degree at Vanderbilt university and his M. D. degree at Tulane university. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Pi Phi Chi fraternities.

Mrs. Flinn attended the State Normal at Natchitoches, Crescent Junior college at Eureka Springs and Auburn university, Alabama. She was pledged Phi Kappa sorority.

Mrs. P. E. Pilcher before her departure for Seattle, Wash., was the guest of honor at a handkerchief shower in the home of Mrs. W. T. Baskin on Tuesday afternoon when members of circle eight of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church in West Monroe named her as honor guest.

Many beautiful handkerchiefs were presented and a social hour was enjoyed, during which the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. E. E. Huntsberry left Thursday for Beaumont, Tex., where she will spend the remainder of the spring and summer.

Junior Gavel Holds Meeting

The gracious hospitality extended by Mrs. C. V. McCaskill in her attractive home was enjoyed by members of the Junior Gavel club Thursday afternoon. Throughout the reception suite were artistic arrangements of mixed spring blossoms.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. H. L. Deloney. Roll call and the minutes were read by Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. D. L. Bornman, Jr. Reports were submitted by the treasurer, social service chairman, program chairman and membership chairman.

Mrs. John Naylor, chairman, presented the afternoon's program.

Mrs. C. O. Boyce presented the subject for study, another in a series of lessons on practical English and effective speech, by Estelle B. Hunter, Ph. B. Mrs. Boyce quoted Ben Jonson when she said, "Language most shows a man; speak, that I may see thee.

Mrs. H. L. Deloney gave a splendid review on "How to Win Friends and Influence People" by Dale Carnegie.

She said in part:

"The ability to speak is a short cut to distinction. It puts a man in the limelight, raises him head and shoulders above the crowd. And the man who can speak acceptably is usually given credit for an ability out of all proportions to what he really possesses.

"A movement for adult education is sweeping over the nation today; and the most spectacular force in that movement is Dale Carnegie, a man who has listened to and criticized more talks by adults than has any other man in captivity. According to a recent cartoon by 'Believe-It-or-Not' Ripley, he has criticized 150,000 speeches.

"Dale Carnegie's own career, filled with sharp contrasts, is a striking example of what a man can accomplish when he is obsessed with an original idea and afire with enthusiasm.

"Born on a Missouri farm ten miles from a railway, he never saw a street car until he was 12 years old; yet today, at 46, he is familiar with the far-flung corners of the earth, everywhere from Hong Kong to Hammerfest; and, at one time, he approached closer to the North Pole than Admiral Byrd's headquarters at Little America were to the South Pole.

"The Missouri lad who once picked strawberries and cut cockleburs for five cents an hour is now paid a dollar a minute for training the executives of large corporations in the art of self-expression.

"Since 1912, Mr. Cargnegie has been conducting educational courses for business and professional men and women in New York. At first, he conducted courses in public speaking only—courses designed to train adults, by actual experience, to think on their feet and express their ideas with more clarity, more effectiveness, and more poise, both in business interviews and before groups. But gradually, as the seasons passed, he realized that sorely as these adults needed training in effective speaking, they needed still more training in the fine art of getting along with people in every day business and social contacts. Dealing with people is probably the biggest problem you face, especially if you are a business man. Yes, and that is also true if you are an accountant, housewife, architect, or engineer.

"The University of Chicago and the United Y. M. C. A. schools conducted a survey to determine what adults really want to study. This cost twenty-five thousand dollars and took two years. That survey revealed that health is the prime interest of adults—and that their second interest is people; how to understand and get along with people; how to make people like you; and how to win others to your way of thinking.

"Dale Carnegie gives us six ways to make people like you:

"Become genuinely interested in other people.

"Smile.

"Remember that a man's name is to him the sweetest and most important sound in the English language.

"Be a good listener. Encourage others to talk about themselves.

"Talk in terms of the other man's interest.

"Make the other person feel important—and do it sincerely.

"You can make more friends in two months by becoming interested in other people than you can in two years by trying to get other people interested in you. It is the individual who is not interested in his fellow men who has the greatest difficulties in life and provides the greatest injury to others. It is from among such individuals that all human failures spring."

During the social hour Mrs. McCaskill served refreshments to the following members: Mrs. C. O. Boyce, Mrs. L. A. Duffee, Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Blair Bartleson, Mrs. Merrell Williams, Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., and Mrs. H. L. Deloney.

Parent-Teacher News

Central Grammar

"Traffic Safety" was the theme of a talk made by Mr. Frank Reitzell, chief of police, to members of the Central Grammar school P.-T. A. at their March meeting held in the school Wednesday afternoon.

Inattention, he declared, is responsible for many of the accidents that occur. Many people drive down DeSiard street with their eyes riveted on store windows rather than on the street ahead. In motoring many things he pointed out can happen in the short space of a second.

When driving along the road if the motorist takes his eye off the stretch of highway immediately ahead for a single instant a child may dash out into the path of the car and it is often too late to avert an accident that may cost life or limb.

Chief Reitzell cited the case of a Belgian king who was driving along a European highway. His attention was diverted and the result was such as to cost the life of his queen.

"When you drive your car, think of the car and not of worries at home or in business," he said. "In the old days you could dream and the horse would bring you back home but in the days of the "horseless carriage," there is no horse to bring you home. Safety in traffic is the paramount issue before the American public today.

"The Monroe traffic department has sponsored already for one month a safety campaign and good results have been obtained, but there is much yet to be done. Much depends on the cooperation of such groups as the P.-T. A. to bring success. Teachers need to teach their children what they must do—not all the time what they must not do. The "do's" in traffic are important. Courtesy is also important in traffic. The practice of courtesy will do much to help stop accidents. The bicyclists of today are the motorists of tomorrow. Boys and girls must be taught what is the safe thing to do."

The program comprised a "Captain Jinks dance" by pupils of Mrs. Shirley Courtney's fourth grade room; "Hansel and Gretel Dance," by pupils of Miss Eleona Brinsmade's fourth grade room, and also a second dance number.

Chief Reitzell was introduced by Mrs. Virginia Robinson.

Mrs. Perry Bedgood was elected vice-president of the Central Grammar P.-T. A. group.

Sherrouse

Mrs. C. C. Lindley, program chairman of the Sherrouse P.-T. A., presented Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson Wednesday afternoon to the group, who spoke in a very interesting and able manner on "The Home and Church as Partners in Progress."

She said in part:

"Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the right kind of home training. There all the formative habits are fixed and the foundation is laid. Certainly the church comes next. It is our duty as parents to see that the child is given a church training. The home is compared to the hub of a wheel, the church the spokes and the rim the world."

Mrs. E. J. Brown, the president, conducted a short business session. Each of the six standing committees gave a detailed report of the work accomplished for the year. The following gave reports: Mrs. W. W. Stevens, membership; Mrs. E. R. McBride, publicity; Mrs. C. C. Lindley, program; Mrs. W. S. Vincent, publication; Mrs. George Bennett, finance; Mrs. John Calhoun, hospitality.

Mrs. Brown emphasized that the success of the year's work was due to the splendid cooperation and a more participating membership, thereby meeting the goals which were set for the P.-T. A. Mrs. R. Siegle gave the scripture.

Mrs. C. L. Dillingham gave a report of the district meeting, Sherrouse being represented by five delegates.

Miss Gallagher Becomes The Bride Of Dr. Clifton Baylein Flinn At Mer Rouge

Couple United With Impressive Ceremony

Informal Reception Held After Rites; Honeymoon Trip Is Taken To Old Mexico

One of the most prominent nuptial events of the spring season was the wedding of Miss Zanona Gallagher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Guy Gallagher of Mer Rouge, and Dr. Clifton Baylein Flinn of this city, March 10, at the home of the bride's parents.

The lower floor of the spacious colonial home was ensuite and lavishly adorned with fragrant spring blossoms. Palms and ferns created a dignified background for the ceremony performed by Rev. W. F. Roberts, pastor of the First Methodist church of Mer Rouge. On either side of the handsome marble hearth Marie Antoinette baskets overflowed with pink gladiolas and carnations. Tall floor candelabra supporting pink tapers formed an artistic enclosure for the wedding party. The lovely scene was reflected in an antique mirror in the background.

A charming ceremony was the lighting of the tapers by Mr. William Blackwell.

A pre-nuptial concert was rendered by Mrs. C. B. Armstrong, pianist, who wore a bouffant gown of white taffeta, and Miss Eileen MacKinnon, violinist, who wore a diaphanous white chiffon model.

Three girlhood friends of the bride, Miss Melba Edwards, Miss Lois Golson and Mrs. Hassell Clark, wearing picturesque frocks of three shades of lavender and with corsages of pink Token roses, sang "Ich Liebe Dich" and "At Dawning" with violin obligato.

The maid of honor, Miss June Bacon, cousin of the bride, walked down the stairway studded with southern smilax and roses. She wore a beautiful turquoise blue net model over taffeta witht a chaplet of fresh flowers in her hair. She carried a fan shaped bouquet of salmon pink gladioli.

The bride with her father who gave her in marriage, descended the stairs in a mellow glow radiated by myriad candles. She wore a distinctive wedding gown of shell-pink starched lace over bridal satin. Her black hair was braided in halo effect and she wore a Juliet cap fashioned of sweetheart roses and orchids. A gorgeous bouquet or orchids and valley lilies was carried. For something old she wore a handsome antique diamond brooch presented to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Alice Felton.

Dr. Flinn and his best man, Mr. Thomas Payne Flinn, Jr., awaited at the improvised altar.

During the ceremony "To A Wild Rose" and "Liebestraum" were impressively rendered.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held and guests invited to the dining room where individual wedding cakes embossed in pink roses, wedding ring mints and pink ices were served. The bride's table was overlaid with handsome lace over white satin had for central decor a pyramid of Calla lilies and pale pink carnations.

The handsome wedding gifts were on display in the library where they were viewed by the guests.

Dr. and Mrs. Flinn left for a honeymoon in Mexico. Mrs. Flinn traveled in a beautiful costume suit of gold color trimmed with lynx fur, with accessories of gold and a corsage of orchids.

Upon their return they will be at home in this city where Dr. Flinn is a prominent member of the medical profession. He obtained his B. A. degree at Vanderbilt university and his M. D. degree at Tulane university. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Pi Phi Chi fraternities.

Mrs. Flinn attended the State Normal at Natchitoches, Crescent Junior college at Eureka Springs and Auburn university, Alabama. She was pledged Phi Kappa sorority.

Mrs. P. E. Pilcher before her departure for Seattle, Wash., was the guest of honor at a handkerchief shower in the home of Mrs. W. T. Baskin on Tuesday afternoon when members of circle eight of the Woman's Missionary society of the First Baptist church in West Monroe named her as honor guest.

Many beautiful handkerchiefs were presented and a social hour was enjoyed, during which the hostess served refreshments.

Mrs. E. E. Huntsberry left Thursday for Beaumont, Tex., where she will spend the remainder of the spring and summer.

Junior Gavel Holds Meeting

The gracious hospitality extended by Mrs. G. V. McCaskill in her attractive home was enjoyed by members of the Junior Gavel club Thursday afternoon. Throughout the reception suite were artistic arrangements of mixed spring blossoms.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. H. L. Deloney. Roll call and the minutes were read by Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. D. L. Bornman, Jr. Reports were submitted by the treasurer, social service chairman, program chairman and membership chairman.

Mrs. John Naylor, chairman, presented the afternoon's program.

Mrs. C. O. Boyce presented the subject for study, another in a series of lessons on practical English and effective speech, by Estelle B. Hunter, Ph. B. Mrs. Boyce quoted Ben Jonson when she said, "Language most shows a man; speak, that I may see thee.

Mrs. H. L. Deloney gave a splendid review on "How to Win Friends and Influence People" by Dale Carnegie.

She said in part:

"The ability to speak is a short cut to distinction. It puts a man in the limelight, raises him head and shoulders above the crowd. And the man who can speak acceptably is usually given credit for an ability out of all proportions to what he really possesses.

"A movement for adult education is sweeping over the nation today; and the most spectacular force in that movement is Dale Carnegie, a man who has listened to and criticized more talks by adults than has any other man in captivity. According to a recent cartoon by 'Believe-It-or-Not' Ripley, he has criticized 150,000 speeches.

"Dale Carnegie's own career, filled with sharp contrasts, is a striking example of what a man can accomplish when he is obsessed with an original idea and afire with enthusiasm.

"Born on a Missouri farm ten miles from a railway, he never saw a street car until he was 12 years old; yet today, at 46, he is familiar with the far-flung corners of the earth, everywhere from Hong Kong to Hammerfest; and, at one time, he approached closer to the North Pole than Admiral Byrd's headquarters at Little America were to the South Pole.

"The Missouri lad who once picked strawberries and cut cockleburs for five cents an hour is now paid a dollar a minute for training the executives of large corporations in the art of self-expression.

"Since 1912, Mr. Cargnegie has been conducting educational courses for business and professional men and women in New York. At first, he conducted courses in public speaking only—courses designed to train aduits, by actual experience, to think on their feet and express their ideas with more clarity, more effectiveness, and more poise, both in business interviews and before groups. But gradually, as the seasons passed, he realized that sorely as these adults needed training in effective speaking, they needed still more training in the fine art of getting along with people in every day business and social contacts. Dealing with people is probably the biggest problem you face, especially if you are a business man. Yes, and that is also true if you are an accountant, housewife, architect, or engineer.

"The University of Chicago and the United Y. M. C. A. schools conducted a survey to determine what adults really want to study. This cost twenty-five thousand dollars and took two years. That survey revealed that health is the prime interest of adults—and that their second interest is people; how to understand and get along with people; how to make people like you; and how to win others to your way of thinking.

"Dale Carnegie gives us six ways to make people like you:

"Become genuinely interested in other people.

"Smile.

"Remember that a man's name is to him the sweetest and most important sound in the English language.

"Be a good listener. Encourage others to talk about themselves.

"Talk in terms of the other man's interest.

"Make the other person feel important—and do it sincerely.

"You can make more friends in two months by becoming interested in other people than you can in two years by trying to get other people interested in you. It is the individual who is not interested in his fellow men who has the greatest difficulties in life and provides the greatest injury to others. It is from among such individuals that all human failures spring."

During the social hour Mrs. McCaskill served refreshments to the following members: Mrs. C. O. Boyce, Mrs. L. A. Duffee, Mrs. John Richardson, Mrs. Blair Bartleson, Mrs. Merrell Williams, Mrs. John Naylor, Mrs. E. T. Heard, Jr., and Mrs. H. L. Deloney.

Central Grammar

"Traffic Safety" was the theme of a talk made by Mr. Frank Reitzell, chief of police, to members of the Central Grammar school P.-T. A. at their March meeting held in the school Wednesday afternoon.

Inattention, he declared, is responsible for many of the accidents that occur. Many people drive down DeSiard street with their eyes riveted on store windows rather than on the street ahead. In motoring many things he pointed out can happen in the short space of a second.

When driving along the road if the motorist takes his eye off the stretch of highway immediately ahead for a single instant a child may dash out into the path of the car and it is often too late to avert an accident that may cost life or limb.

Chief Reitzell cited the case of a Belgian king who was driving along a European highway. His attention was diverted and the result was such as to cost the life of his queen.

"When you drive your car, think of the car and not of worries at home or in business," he said. "In the old days you could dream and the horse would bring you back home but in the days of the "horseless carriage," there is no horse to bring you home. Safety in traffic is the paramount issue before the American public today.

"The Monroe traffic department has sponsored already for one month a safety campaign and good results have been obtained, but there is much yet to be done. Much depends on the cooperation of such groups as the P.-T. A. to bring success. Teachers need to teach their children what they must do—not all the time what they must not do. The "do's" in traffic are important. Courtesy is also important in traffic. The practice of courtesy will do much to help stop accidents. The bicyclists of today are the motorists of tomorrow. Boys and girls must be taught what is the safe thing to do."

The program comprised a "Captain Jinks dance" by pupils of Mrs. Shirley Courtney's fourth grade room; "Hansel and Gretel Dance," by pupils of Miss Eleona Brinsmade's fourth grade room, and also a second dance number.

Chief Reitzell was introduced by Mrs. Virginia Robinson.

A business session was held at the close of the meeting, when Mrs. Eulalia McCoy reported on the recent district convention.

Mrs. Perry Bedgood was elected vice-president of the Central Grammar P.-T. A. group.

Sherrouse

Mrs. C. C. Lindley, program chairman of the Sherrouse P.-T. A., presented Mrs. L. G. Wilkinson Wednesday afternoon to the group, who spoke in a very interesting and able manner on "The Home and Church as Partners in Progress."

She said in part:

"Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the right kind of home training. There all the formative habits are fixed and the foundation is laid. Certainly the church comes next. It is our duty as parents to see that the child is given a church training. The home is compared to the hub of a wheel, the church the spokes and the rim the world."

Mrs. E. J. Brown, the president, conducted a short business session. Each of the six standing committees gave a detailed report of the work accomplished for the year. The following gave reports: Mrs. W. W. Stevens, membership; Mrs. E. R. McBride, publicity; Mrs. C. C. Lindley, program; Mrs. W. S. Vincent, publication; Mrs. George Bennett, finance; Mrs. John Calhoun, hospitality.

Mrs. Brown emphasized that the success of the year's work was due to the splendid cooperation and a more participating membership, thereby meeting the goals which were set for the P.-T. A. Mrs. R. Siegle gave the scripture.

Mrs. C. L. Dillingham gave a report of the district meeting, Sherrouse being represented by five delegates.

A report of the study group was given by Mrs. John Calhoun. These meetings were held once a week from 10 until 11, with an average attendance of 15.

Topper Takes A Trip Comes To Paramount Wednesday

Comedy Hit Rated Star Production

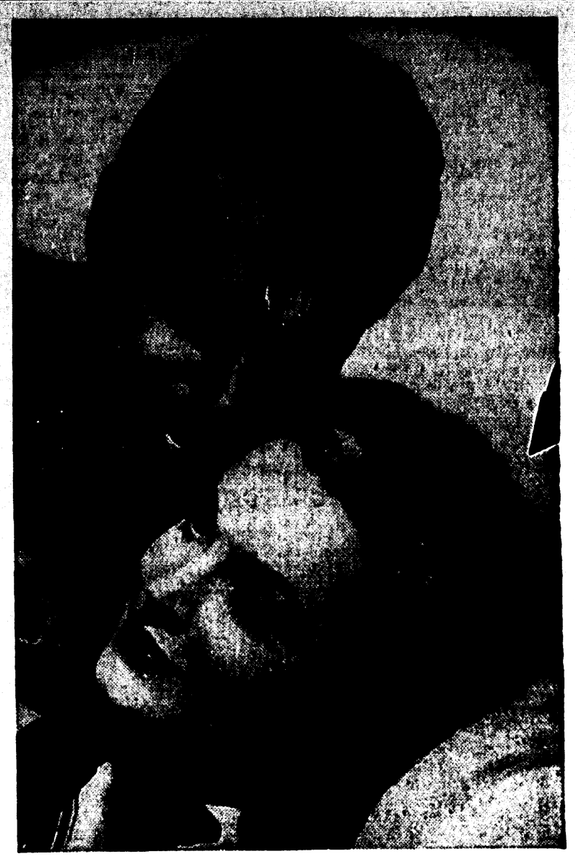
Constance Bennett And Roland Young Head Stellar Cast Of Film

HAL ROACH'S "Topper Takes a Trip," which will be presented for its premiere showing here Wednesday at the Paramount theater through United Artists release, is one of the daffiest, gayest and most uproariously funny comedies to reach the screen this season. Beautifully staged, brilliantly directed and played expertly by a hand-picked cast, this new film production deserves to be placed conspicuously on every screen fan's Best Ten list.

The cast, which reads like a Hollywood "Who's Who," includes Constance Bennett, Roland Young, Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray, Verree Teasdale, Alexander D'Arcy, Franklin Pangborn, Paul Hurst and Armand Kaliz. Roland Young again plays the role of Cosmo Topper, the bewildered banker, who is about to lose his prim and conventional wife, played by the ever-delightful Billie Burke. Constance Bennett, beautiful and glamorous, portrays again the ghostly Marion Kerby, who is anxious to assist the unhappy Toppers in regaining marital happiness.

"Topper Takes a Trip," which you have probably guessed is a sequel to last year's successful "Topper," swings its action from New York to the pictorial brilliance of the French Riviera, where Topper proceeds to race from one jam to another under the stage-management of Marion and her phantom hoaxes.

The screen story of "Topper Takes a Trip," written by Jack Jevne, Eddie Moran and Corey Ford, provides crackling dialogue, swiftly paced situations and a well-knit plot. Norman Z. McLeod staged the production with rhythm and suspense.



Fred MacMurray, as a hard-boiled newspaperman, shows the romantic aspect of life on the other side of Fifth avenue to lovely Madeleine Carroll, the flower of the upper crust, in "Cafe Society," Paramount's gay satire on "all that flitters," opening Friday at the Paramount theater for a two-day engagement.

What happens when a spoiled society darling meets a handsome cowpuncher from the open range is the theme of Samuel Goldwyn's "The Cowboy and the Lady," co-starring Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon and featuring Patsy Kelly, Walter Brennan, Mabel Todd and Fuzzy Knight. It plays today through Tuesday at the Paramount theater.

Meet June Lang and Lynn Bari, grand girls to know. There's always excitement when they're around, and how they do get around! "Meet the Girls," playing Tuesday at the Capitol theater, is your introduction to them and to the new Big Town Girls series.

In addition to Haley, the film features Adolph Menjou, Jack Oakie, Arleen Whelan, Binnie Barnes and Tony Martin.

Hardy Film Opens Today At Capitol

'Out West With Hardys' Said To Be Best Of Family Series Films

SCORE another for the Hardy Family!

This time it's "Out West With the Hardys," which opens today at the Capitol theater for a showing of two days. For all-around entertainment and family night at the movies, it's tops.

There's never a dull moment from the time that Mickey Rooney, as Andy, has his weekly tiff with best girl Polly Benedict, until the Judge, tired and weary, packs his little group back to Carvel after a hectic but eventful vacation on a western ranch.

New comedy has been added to the fifth of the popular Hardy Family series with the casting of little Virginia Weidler in the role of chief heckler of the incorrigible Andy. No matter what he may do in the way of western stunts, Virginia manages to go him one better. Add to this a dramatic plot involving the owners of the ranch, a new romance for Cecilia Parker and some heart-tugging moments revolving about a pet horse, and there emerges 60 minutes of entertainment that tops "Love Finds Andy Hardy"—and that was the tops.

The performances of the family as a whole surpass anything done so far, impossible as this may seem. Mickey Rooney, as Andy, gives a sincere interpretation of the boy and introduces a new touch of pathos omitted from others of the series. Judge Hardy, as portrayed by Lewis Stone, shoulders new burdens with the aid of Fay Holden as Mrs. Hardy. Others in the cast are Ann Rutherford, Sara Haden, Don Castle, Gordon Jones, Ralph Morgan, Nana Bryant, Tom Neal and Anthony Allan.

Dennis O'Keefe, Cecilia Parker and Nat Pendleton in "Burn 'Em O'Connor," 1939's fastest-moving film sensation, playing Thursday at the Capitol theater.

GERMANY GIVES CAMP'S POLICY

R. W. Germany, general chairman of the 17th annual encampment of United Spanish War Veterans to be held here May 12-14, gave out the following statement Saturday:

"Without criticism expressed or implied of any organization which might subscribe to a different method, or even establishing a precedent for future gudance of either ourselves or others, Thompson Wood Lee Camp No. 9, United Spanish War Veterans, department of Louisiana, wishes to announce that in the entertainment of the coming encampment, no advertising will be solicited for the program and no contributions will be asked from any source, except appropriations that have already been made.

"This action has been made possible by the generosity of the police jury of Ouachita parish, Mayor H. H. Benoit and city commissioners and Mayor H. M. Williams, Jr., and the West Monroe city council.

"No individual or group of individuals will be authorized to solicit orders for the decoration of places of business, but our friends are urged voluntarily to display such decorations as they think best in welcoming veterans of the first, last and only army composed of 100 per cent volunteers."

KARL SMITH ATTENDS OKLAHOMA MEETING

Karl Smith, a graduate of Northeast Center, was in attendance at the Southwestern Students' press conference at Oklahoma A. and M. college, Stillwater, Okla., Friday and Saturday.

He is advertising agent for the "Daily Reveille" and business manager of the "Pell-Mell," official humor magazine of the university.

Roland Young and Constance Bennett are plenty worried about saving a grave situation which arises in "Topper Takes a Trip," the Hal Roach comedy starting a two-day engagement at the Paramount theater Wednesday.

CONFERENCE FOR COLLEGES SLATED

The third annual meeting of the Louisiana College conference will be held Friday and Saturday, March 24 and 24, at Louisiana college in Pineville. The conference was organized in 1937 and is composed of the colleges and universities of Louisiana.

WITH LEVI'S

GUY WILSON

Another Forward Step Is Taken By Levi Stationery

With the addition of Guy Wilson to its staff as manager of the office machinery department, Ferd Levi Stationery company, 107 DeSiard street, took another of the progressive steps that has marked its progress for more than three decades. Founded some 35 years ago, the firm, which is the oldest office supply concern in Monroe, has constantly striven to improve its service to its patrons.

Now, since being joined by Mr. Wilson, Ferd Levi Stationery company is in a position to offer guaranteed service on all makes of typewriters and adding, bookkeeping and check-writing machines. The firm added Mr. Wilson to its staff in order to offer the highest class of service possible on the office machines it handles — Remington typewriters and Remington Rand adding and accounting machines.

Before coming to Monroe, Mr. Wilson, who has had years of experience in repairing all makes of typewriters, calculating machines and check writers, was affiliated with Remington Rand at New Orleans. Possessing college training as an engineer, he has had factory instruction and practical experience in the field of office machinery.

Though at the outset it handled only office supplies, Ferd Levi Stationery company now deals in everything required in the office—furniture and equipment as well as machines and supplies. And throughout its existence it has been what its name implies, stocking stationery, cards for all occasions, books of all kinds and games for both adults and children, toys for the latter and gifts of every description.

Frick Company Is Place To Buy Farm Machinery

When you think of farm and sawmill machinery, think of Frick company, 133 North Grend street. It not only has the stock, but the service and the price as well.

Here are a few of the things it handles:

Minneapolis-Moline tractor disc harrows—These machines are of heavy construction and rugged and have the ability to penetrate deep. Special hardened cast iron bearings assure a long life and few repairs. For cover crop work or pulverizing, these machines have no superior.

Minneapolis-Moline "Z" tractor—Five forward speeds and exchange features on the motor are two of the outstanding characteristics of this 20 horsepower tractor. Adjustable width drive wheels mean adaptability to any row crop work. Crankcase dilution is eliminated by a specially constructed manifold for burning tractor fuel.

Minneapolis-Moline "M" tractor—This is a heavy duty tractor at an attractive price. It develops 30 horsepower, has cultivator type front wheels and incorporates all of the fine features of the "Z" type.

Ann Arbor Baler—This pick-up and power press baler revolutionized haying like the combine did threshing. It does faster and bette hay baling.

Bear Cat feed grinder—This machine is proving highly popular with north Louisana farmers. It not only saves them money on the initial cost, but also in satisfactory results obtained.

Frick sawmills and sawmill machinery, together with Frick threshers, Frick peanut pickers, Twin City power units and Hoe saws and supplies, are other items carried in stock by Frick company, which provides service on all the machines it sells.

Visitors are always welcome at the establishment.

Little Club Place To Have Big Time

The only thing little about The Little Club, 2800 DeSiard street, is its name. Its accommodations are more than ample and it's a place where you can always have a big time.

There is dancing at The Little Club every night except Sunday, and for the convenience and enjoyment of its patrons, the establishment maintains one large hall and two small ones for dancing. Each is equipped with an electric phonograph and has accommodations for dining.

No charge is made for dancing at The Little Club, which serves sandwiches and drinks of every kind. The facilities are there for its guests to enjoy. Fun to the fullest is encouraged by the establishment, but no rowdyism is countenanced.

Besides sandwiches and drinks, The Little Club deals in cigars, cigarettes, tobaccos, candies and food novelties. There is plenty of parking space around the establishment for people who like to be served in their cars. Prompt curb service is given.

O. K. Welder At 2404 DeSiard St.

The O. K. Rubber Welder, the establishment that repairs tires and tubes by the rubber welding process, is no longer at 1410 DeSiard street. It has moved 10 blocks farther out that thoroughfare to larger and more convenient quarters.

The firm is now located at 2404 DeSiard and operating full blast.

Is your tire cut? Or is the fabric broken? Then take it to O. K. Rubber Welder. There it will be repaired by a trained specialist, a man who knows how to do the work and to do it properly.

Don't throw your injured tires or tubes aside until you have consulted this specialist at O. K. Rubber Welder. An O. K. weld is stronger than the rest of the tire or tube. It is absolutely dependable and permanent and will stand any wear or abuse that the tire or tube itself will stand. Moreover, it is smooth and well balanced.

Besides repairing tires and tubes, O. K. Rubber Welder deals in a full line of used tires and tubes. It not only sells used tires and tubes, but buys and swaps them. The firm is noted for its reasonable prices, both for its merchandise and for its repair service.

4 Out Of 5 Houses In Need Of Paint

The ratio here is about the same as elsewhere. If you will drive through Monroe and West Monroe, you will find that four out of every five houses need painting, many of them badly.

Experts have figured that deterioration and depreciation resulting from lack of paint on houses amounts to $4 per 100 square feet per annum, whereas the cost of protecting houses with paint amounts to but $1 per 100 square feet a year. In other words, by spending 25 cents, you save 75 cents.

The weather takes a greater toll on roofs. They, too, should be protected because they protect the interiors.

The figures quoted are figured on brush painting. Spray painting, as done by the paint department of Lane Wilson Seed company, with headquarters at 400 North Sixth street, is even cheaper.

However, A. B. Buck, manager of the department, isn't suggesting spray painting for the better houses, but for structures on which the cost of brush painting would be prohibitive in cost—negro quarters, garages, plantation cabins, barns, sawmill properties and the like.

Mr. Buck can give your negro quarters attraction as well as protection at an amazingly low cost with spray painting. He can add variety with an economical color combination.

Call 4790 and ask for Mr. Buck. He will be glad to show you some of the work he has already done in Monroe. His department, however, doesn't confine its activities to this city. It operates all over Louisiana and Arkansas.

GUY WILSON

Another Forward Step Is Taken By Levi Stationery

With the addition of Guy Wilson to its staff as manager of the office machinery department, Ferd Levi Stationery company, 107 DeSiard street, took another of the progressive steps that has marked its progress for more than three decades. Founded some 35 years ago, the firm, which is the oldest office supply concern in Monroe, has constantly striven to improve its service to its patrons.

Now, since being joined by Mr. Wilson, Ferd Levi Stationery company is in a position to offer guaranteed service on all makes of typewriters and adding, bookkeeping and check-writing machines. The firm added Mr. Wilson to its staff in order to offer the highest class of service possible on the office machines it handles — Remington typewriters and Remington Rand adding and accounting machines.

Before coming to Monroe, Mr. Wilson, who has had years of experience in repairing all makes of typewriters, calculating machines and check writers, was affiliated with Remington Rand at New Orleans. Possessing college training as an engineer, he has had factory instruction and practical experience in the field of office machinery.

Though at the outset it handled only office supplies, Ferd Levi Stationery company now deals in everything required in the office—furniture and equipment as well as machines and supplies. And throughout its existence it has been what its name implies, stocking stationery, cards for all occasions, books of all kinds and games for both adults and children, toys for the latter and gifts of every description.

Frick Company Is Place To Buy Farm Machinery

When you think of farm and sawmill machinery, think of Frick company, 133 North Grand street. It not only has the stock, but the service and the price as well.

Here are a few of the things it handles:

Minneapolis-Moline tractor disc harrows—These machines are of heavy construction and rugged and have the ability to penetrate deep. Special hardened cast iron bearings assure a long life and few repairs. For cover crop work or pulverizing, these machines have no superior.

Minneapolis-Moline "Z" tractor—Five forward speeds and exchange features on the motor are two of the outstanding characteristics of this 20 horsepower tractor. Adjustable width drive wheels mean adaptability to any row crop work. Crankcase dilution is eliminated by a specially constructed manifold for burning tractor fuel.

Minneapolis-Moline "M" tractor—This is a heavy duty tractor at an attractive price. It develops 30 horsepower, has cultivator type front wheels and incorporates all of the fine features of the "Z" type.

Ann Arbor Baler—This pick-up and power press baler revolutionized haying like the combine did threshing. It does faster and better hay baling.

Bear Cat feed grinder—This machine is proving highly popular with north Louisana farmers. It not only saves them money on the initial cost, but also in satisfactory results obtained.

Frick sawmills and sawmill machinery, together with Frick threshers, Frick peanut pickers, Twin City power units and Hoe saws and supplies, are other items carried in stock by Frick company, which provides service on all the machines it sells.

Visitors are always welcome at the establishment.

Little Club Place To Have Big Time

The only thing little about The Little Club, 2800 DeSiard street, is its name. Its accommodations are more than ample and it's a place where you can always have a big time.

There is dancing at The Little Club every night except Sunday, and for the convenience and enjoyment of its patrons, the establishment maintains one large hall and two small ones for dancing. Each is equipped with an electric phonograph and has accommodations for dining.

No charge is made for dancing at The Little Club, which serves sandwiches and drinks of every kind. The facilities are there for its guests to enjoy. Fun to the fullest is encouraged by the establishment, but no rowdyism is countenanced.

Besides sandwiches and drinks, The Little Club deals in cigars, cigarettes, tobaccos, candies and food novelties. There is plenty of parking space around the establishment for people who like to be served in their cars. Prompt curb service is given.

O. K. Welder At 2404 DeSiard St.

The O. K. Rubber Welder, the establishment that repairs tires and tubes by the rubber welding process, is no longer at 1410 DeSiard street. It has moved 10 blocks farther out that thoroughfare to larger and more convenient quarters.

The firm is now located at 2404 DeSiard and operating full blast.

Is your tire cut? Or is the fabric broken? Then take it to O. K. Rubber Welder. There it will be repaired by a trained specialist, a man who knows how to do the work and to do it properly.

Don't throw your injured tires or tubes aside until you have consulted this specialist at O. K. Rubber Welder. An O. K. weld is stronger than the rest of the tire or tube. It is absolutely dependable and permanent and will stand any wear or abuse that the tire or tube itself will stand. Moreover, it is smooth and well balanced.

Besides repairing tires and tubes, O. K. Rubber Welder deals in a full line of used tires and tubes. It not only sells used tires and tubes, but buys and swaps them. The firm is noted for its reasonable prices, both for its merchandise and for its repair service.

4 Out Of 5 Houses In Need Of Paint

The ratio here is about the same as elsewhere. If you will drive through Monroe and West Monroe, you will find that four out of every five houses need painting, many of them badly.

Experts have figured that deterioration and depreciation resulting from lack of paint on houses amounts to $4 per 100 square feet per annum, whereas the cost of protecting houses with paint amounts to but $1 per 100 square feet a year. In other words, by spending 25 cents, you save 75 cents.

The weather takes a greater toll on roofs. They, too, should be protected because they protect the interiors.

The figures quoted are figured on brush painting. Spray painting, as done by the paint department of Lane Wilson Seed company, with headquarters at 400 North Sixth street, is even cheaper.

However, A. B. Buck, manager of the department, isn't suggesting spray painting for the better houses, but for structures on which the cost of brush painting would be prohibitive in cost—negro quarters, garages, plantation cabins, barns, sawmill properties and the like.

Mr. Buck can give your negro quarters attraction as well as protection at an amazingly low cost with spray painting. He can add variety with an economical color combination.

Call 4790 and ask for Mr. Buck. He will be glad to show you some of the work he has already done in Monroe. His department, however, doesn't confine its activities to this city. It operates all over Louisiana and Arkansas.

PRESENTING . . .

All automobiles are lubricated according to factory specifications at the Firestone store, which specializes in Texaco Marfak lubrication. The establishment serves the motoring public with both Texas and Gulf gasoline, oils and lubricants. Before coming here in November to join the staff of the local Firestone store, Mr. Tyler was affiliated with Firestone in Alexandria for three years.

Monroe Tire Exchange buys, sells and exchanges used tres and tubes and allows liberal trade-ins on the new tires and tubes it handles. Besides a full line of new and used tires and tubes and the assortment of used car wheels, Monroe Tire Exchange deals in gasoline and oils for automobiles.

The fact that the period for filing applications for tax exemptions on the older homesteads will close April 1 may have figured, to some extent, in the lack of response in filing applications for new homesteads, it was stated.

It was also stated that only about five minutes are required for filing an application.

Tax exemptions on both the new and old homesteads will be allowed only for residences where the owner resides.

The amount of the exemptions for 1939 will be decided next August by the state treasurer.

TAX EXEMPTIONS FORMS AVAILABLE

Unfavorable Response Received From Owners Of New Home Properties

Although announcement was made recently that the period for filing applications for state tax exemptions for 1939 on new homestead properties will close March 31, the response at the office of Joe Hanna, Ouachita parish tax assessor, has been unfavorable and seems to indicate a misunderstanding or lack of information on the part of the owners of the new properties, it was stated yesterday.

A new law passed by the last session of the legislature authorizes three-year, tax-exemption contracts for new homestead properties. Owners of new homes which were not listed in last year's tax rolls are eligible to obtain the three-year contracts, but cannot obtain them unless they file the required applications at the office of the assessor.

The fact that the period for filing applications for tax exemptions on the older homesteads will close April 15 may have figured, to some extent, in the lack of response in filing applications for new homesteads, it was stated.

It was also stated that only about five minutes are required for filing an application.

Tax exemptions on both the new and old homesteads will be allowed only for residences where the owner resides.

The amount of the exemptions for 1939 will be decided next August by the state treasurer.

WILL ENTERTAIN COLLEGE 'FRAT'

Plans are getting under way for the national convention of Phi Theta Kappa which is scheduled for April 13-15 when Gamma Gamma chapter of Northeast Center will be host.

Invitations which included a folder of views of Monroe and outlines of the convention program were sent the past week to all chapters. Tentative plans include, in addition to business sessions, a drive over the city and countryside, a formal banquet, dance and barbecue. Election and installation of officers will take place on the last day of the meeting.

Large delegations are expected from many southern junior colleges, especially from Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri. Weatherford college, Weatherford, Tex., has charted a bus to transport the 25 delegates which will comprise the entire chapter, information received here states.

Various California chapters have written that they will be represented.

The April convention will mark the tenth anniversary of Phi Theta Kappa, and the local chapter is anxious to have the coming convention rank as the most outstanding one that has ever been held.

MT. VERNON CLUB HOLDS REGULAR MEET FRIDAY

D. L. Bornman, Jr., parish agent, and Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, home demonstration agent, attended and distributed L. S. U. Unit No. 1 sweet potato seed to members of the club enrolled in the sweet potato project.

TARZAN AND BAK-DAK MET IN FURIOUS COMBAT, TO BATTLE UNTIL ONE SHOULD DIE.

LINDA WAS ASTONISHED AND TERRIFIED. FIRST SHE HAD HEARD HER TREE-MAN CONVERSING WITH THE APES.

AND NOW, AS HE FOUGHT, HE GROWLED LIKE A BEAST. WAS HE, AFTER ALL, AKIN TO THESE CREATURES?

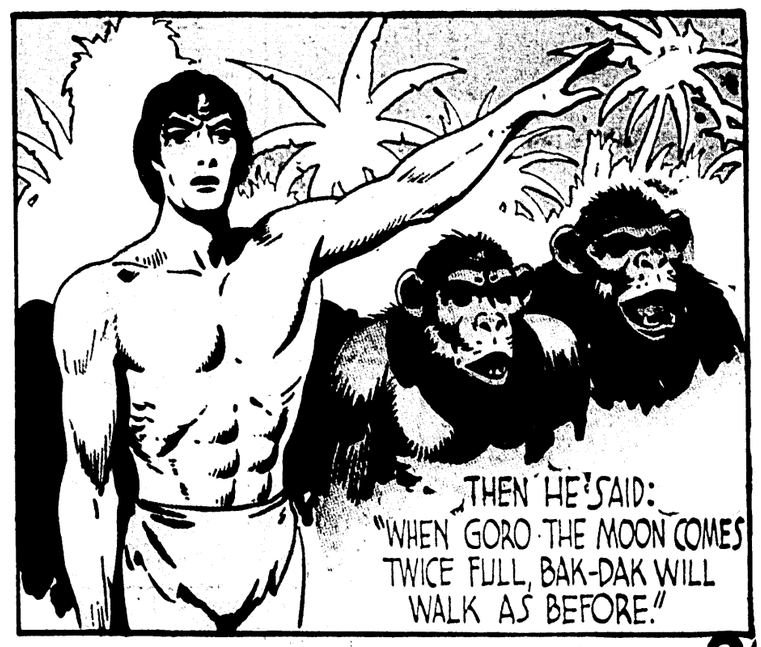
SURELY NO HUMAN HAD SUCH POWER, FOR NOW SHE SAW HIM LIFT THE GIANT APE AND HURL HIM TO EARTH.

THE APE-KING TRIED TO RISE, BUT HE FELL BACK SCREAMING WITH PAIN. HIS LEG WAS BROKEN.

TARZAN ADVANCED. THE APES BELIEVED HE WOULD KILL HIS ANTAGONIST, AS WAS HIS RIGHT.

BUT THE JUNGLE LORD STOOPED AND FELT THE INJURY. THEN HE VANISHED INTO THE FOREST.

SOON HE RETURNED WITH BRANCHES AND VINES, AND BOUND THEM AS A SPLINT ON A WOUNDED LEG.



THEN HE SAID: "WHEN GORO THE MOON COMES TWICE FULL, BAK-DAK WILL WALK AS BEFORE."

THE APES KNEW LITTLE OF SENTIMENT, BUT GRUFF OLD BAK-DAK FELT A CERTAIN VAGUE GRATITUDE. TARZAN'S VICTORY MADE HIM KING---

GOSH, SCARDOL, THIS SYSTEM OF YOURS IS ABSOLUTELY FOOL PROOF. THEY'LL NEVER NAB US.

I'LL TELL THE WORLD! HERE, KID, GRAB THIS SPRAY GUN AND GET TO WORK.

TONIGHT'S JOB IS GOING TO BE DONE IN A RED CAR.

WE'LL BE RICH IN A WEEK OR TWO, SCARDOL! YESTERDAY'S JOB NETTED US BETTER THAN A "C" APIECE.

YEAH - BUT LISTEN, WHAT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT MUSTN'T HAPPEN AGAIN - I MEAN ABOUT THE COP!

I JUST MADE AN ADJUSTMENT IN THE CARBURETOR. THE ENGINE WON'T KILL THAT EASILY AGAIN!

YEAH - ANOTHER FILLING STATION WAS STUCK UP LAST NIGHT, AND OFFICER SHAWN OF THE BELLWOOD DISTRICT WAS KILLED.

A GUN BATTLE?

NO! SHAWN WAS PUSHED FROM THE RUNNING BOARD OF THE BANDITS' CAR. HE DIED OF BRAIN CONCUSSION.

BRAIN CONCUSSION?

HERE'S THE OFFICER'S COAT, CHIEF. IT JUST ARRIVED.

HIS COAT?

GOOD HEAVENS, TRACY, DO YOU SUPPOSE MY BOY IS MIXED UP IN THIS?

I DON'T THINK SO, POP. USUALLY LOCAL TALENT THAT SPRINGS UP RIGHT IN THE NEIGHBORHOOD DOES THESE JOBS.

THE ODD THING ABOUT OFFICER SHAWN'S COAT, GENTLEMEN, IS THAT IT'S COVERED ON ONE SIDE WITH A SORT OF YELLOW POWDER.

GREAT SCOTT! LET'S SEE THAT!

IT LOOKS LIKE KALSOMINE - OR -- YELLOWISH CHALK!

SHAWN'S GUN WAS KNOCKED FROM HIS HAND. HE SPRANG TO THE CAR AND A BATTLE TOOK PLACE ON THE FRONT FENDER AND HOOD OF THE MACHINE BEFORE HE WAS PUSHED OFF.

TRACY MAR 19 KEY

THEN HE LANDED IN THIS SUBSTANCE WHEN HE FELL.

IMPOSSIBLE! THERE WAS NO YELLOW PAINT OR ANYTHING LIKE THAT ANYWHERE ON THE STREET.

WH--WHAT'S UP, DICK??

I THOUGHT SO! HAND ME A MIRROR.

THE NAME OF THE KILLER'S CAR IS A "NARD 8"! THE INSIGNIA ALONG THE FRONT OF THE HOOD IS PLAINLY IMPRINTED ON HIS COAT!
